Our "Nice Boys and Girls."

In "Domino's" letter of Jan. 5th, wherein he speks with deserved praise and compliments of a sled load of our young people who had visited his pretty town, and had properly and politely paid their respects to the veter-an and accomplished correspondent, he asks "have you any more such nice boys and girls down there?" Why, certainly, Mr. "Domino"; we could send you a big sled load every evening in the week with an entire change of personel each time, all of whom would measure up to the standard of proper demeaner and ladylike and gentlemanly behavior to which you so willingly and pleasantly bear testimony. Our young people are not all angels, by any manner of means, (no more are our old ones), but they do measure up to a fair standard of gentlemanly and ladylike conduct whether at home or abroad; and we always expect good reports from them wherever they may be, and are not disap-Even better than this, they are fast learning the value to themselves of such deportment, and are improving themselves in it from year to year. In addition to this the large majority of them are good hard-working students, seeking earnestly to better fit themselves for the duties and privileges of citizenship than former generations were fitted. Yes, indeed, Mr. "Domino," we have lots of fine, sturdy boys and girls coming on and while we cheerfully admit, (and so would they) that there is yet abundant room for improve-ment, we all say that no town in the county can show an all-round better behaved set than they, nor any more worthy of the best efforts for their advancement that can be put forth by the older and responsible citizenship

Visit of Legal Lights.

Friday morning last, not a few of our people came to the conclusion. hastily and mistakenly as it proved, that we were the county seat, and that court was about to open. From the early morning train from Lock Haven, stepped attorney Charles S. McCor-mick, with that air of nonchalance which would have been mightily be-coming to him if his early ambitions for a seat on the district bench could have been gratified, and patiently waited about until the arrival of No. 50 from Bellefonte, which brought re-inforcements. Near ex-Congressman Clement Dale lowered his handsome form and leoniue head to the platform eling upon it; and that makes us wish Henry Quigley dropped off quickly, and looked almost as if he expected to find Governor Tener waiting for boded trouble for somebody; and Sheriff Hurley shut his teeth down harder than ever on the stub of a cigar with which he usually consoles himself when upon unpleasant errands. What this crowd of legal belligerents may have had in their hearts the Lord only knows, but in the course of the day they left town in detachments. and no visible marks on the streets. houses or people remain to give token of their unheralded visit. The citizens are really grateful that they left the town here, and have not charged up against them the fog and mud which followed their visit.

Consistory Worked and Feasted. The Joint Consistory of the Nittany Valley charge of the Reformed church held its annual meeting here last Fri-day morning. The representatives present from the Howard congregation were deacons J. H. Wagner and Samuel Diehl, and Elder Frederic Schenck; from the Jacksonville con-gregation, N. H. Yearick and William Dietz; from the Mt. Bethel congrega-tion, Elders W. T. Knecht, Parvin; B. tion, Elders W. T. Knecht, Parvin. B. C. Ditmer, Mill Hall, R. F. After the routine business had been disposed of Elder Albert Andrews of the Salona congregation was chosen delegate to represent the charge at the meeting of Classis, at Centre Hall, in meeting of Classis, at Centre Hall, in May, and Elder Peter Robb, Jr., was chosen alternate. Jacksonville was fixed upon as the place for the next annual meeting of th consistory. The ladies aid society served a bountiful basket lunch in the church, which was disposed of in time to permit delegates to return to their homes on No. 52.

The ladies who compose the P. O. the community. of A., which is really an auxiliary of the P. O. S. of A., made preparations on Monday last for an elaborate function which they prepared to make of the ceremony of installing their new officers in the evening, but were disappointed by the non-arrival of the proper installing officer, Mrs. Clara Rosser, of Mill Hall. Water Supply Renewed.

The long continued, but very soft and gentle rains of last week replenour small streams and springs, and filled the cisterns of those are dependent upon them, much to the relief of the many farmers who were short of water and have been com-pelled to drive their stock long distances during the severe weather. At this point the Bald Eagle creek was a little more than bankful, and down about Mill Hall the railroad was so Sunday. Only passenger and "P. G." trains were moved, and they were brought from McElhattan to Mill Hall over the N. Y. Central. And there is ce and snow, enough left to contribute still more water, with the addition of two or more thawing and rainy days, to fill the earth to repletion.
