

GLEVER SCHEME TO WIN BACK HIS WIFE

ARTHUR L. HITNER, OF CHAPMAN FAILED IN HIS EFFORTS.

SHOT HIMSELF IN THE SIDE

The Attempted Suicide Was Widely Circulated About the State. He Refused Medical Attention When It Was Offered Him.

The Sunbury Daily tells the following remarkable incident:

"A clever scheme on the part of a lovelorn husband to revive the cooling affection of his alienated wife failed to accomplish the desired result in Snyder county this week.

"Arthur L. Hitner, of Chapman, along the Susquehanna, several miles below Selinsgrove, the young man whose attempt unfortunately met with failure. His wife left him on Friday night. On Saturday morning he came out on the porch of the independence hotel at Chapman, and told all within hailing distance that he was going to kill himself. With that he pulled a revolver, pressed it against his side and pulled the trigger. There was a loud explosion, his clothing was burned, and he fell with his side stained with blood.

"There was great consternation there and Dr. E. C. Williams, who resides at Port Treverton, a short distance up the river, was hastily summoned. When he arrived and went to the assistance of the wounded man, the latter fought him off. The doctor, thoroughly disgusted, left him and went home, saying 'Let him die if he wants to.'

"The young man bandaged his side, covering the wound with absorbent cotton and adhesive plaster. He thought his wife would collapse from remorse and return to him. She failed to do either.

"On Monday it became learned that the young man had merely played a little hoax, and all the rumors of suicide were without foundation. He had used a blank cartridge in his revolver and the only injury was from the fire of the explosion. He had painted his side red and had been betrayed by the idea that all around would imagine it was blood. He fought off the doctor as he knew that if he was given medical attention the trick would be exposed.

"He is the son of the Rev. Daniel Hitner, pastor of the Reformed church at Nescopeck. He formerly conducted a photoplay theatre at Selinsgrove, and has promoted a variety of enterprises.

Success of a Former Centre Co. Teacher. Friends of Prof. E. S. Stover, a native of Rebersburg, and a former Centre county teacher, will be pleased to hear of his success. About eight years ago Prof. Stover resigned as principal of the Haines Township High school, at Aaronburg, to accept the principalship of the Randolph Township High school, at Guys Mills, Crawford county, Pa. At the close of his first year's work at the latter place he was elected a member of the faculty in the Northwestern State Normal school located at Elmboro, Erie county, Pa., in which institution he was a teacher for five years; during the summer months of these years he attended college at Buffalo, New York, and the University of Chicago, receiving the degree of LL. B. from the latter institution.

Two years ago he resigned his position at the Normal school to accept a position in the city High School, McKeesport, Pa., at a handsome increase of salary.

Prof. Stover has lately been chosen president of the Montana Institute, a Normal and Technical College, located at Miles City, Montana, and will take charge of his new position at the close of the present school term.

That Prof. Stover has made a successful record, is evidenced by the fact that he has lately been chosen to fill one of the most important school positions in the state of Montana.

Green Tea. Green tea won't be green hereafter. It will be dry and yellow, but will have the same aromatic flavor which lovers of green tea delight in. The tea of which this has been put under the ban by the National Tea Board, which consists of experts appointed by the leading tea importers of the country, and the order of the board goes into effect today. The name of the tea means merely the elimination of coloring matter.

Under the pure food law, it has been necessary to label green tea "artificially colored," and this has created distrust of the purity of the article. To avoid this the Tea Board ordered the Chinese and Japanese tea growers to cure the tea without coloring it. Growers who have green tea on hand will continue selling it until their present stocks are disposed of when no more will be procurable anywhere in the United States.

The Lure of the Saw Dust Ring. According to the Philadelphia North American, following in the aftermath of Ringling Bros' circus, the parents of no less than thirty-two boys of that city had asked the police to look up the whereabouts of their sons, who could not resist the call of the prancing lions and painted clowns, and were anxious to make a name for themselves in the circus world. Up to Monday detectives had located five of the youngsters, and a description of the remaining missing ones was sent to nearby cities in the hope of apprehending them and returning them to their homes.

Rap Non-Safety Matches. All non-safety matches are condemned in a resolution adopted by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The board also adopted a resolution urging the enactment of laws to punish those who throw away glowing cigars or cigarettes near combustible material.

Fire losses in this country last year exceeded those for 1909 by $25,000,000, according to the report of a committee.

Twice-Told Testimony. Bellefonte People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers. Bellefonte testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Bellefonte who suffer from bad backs and kidney trouble. Least any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Bellefonte people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Bellefonte case:

Mrs. James Cori, 361 E. Bishop St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: "A member of my family used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1907, procuring them from Green's Pharmacy Co. and a complete cure of kidney complaint was effected. At that time we publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills and as there has been no return attack of the trouble, we again give this remedy a word of praise. You are welcome to publish this statement for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Beware of cheap imitations. Doan's name—and take no other.

WENT BRAVELY TO DEATH.

Mifflin County Murderer's Neck Broken on Thursday, May 11th.

The first execution of a condemned criminal in Mifflin county took place at 10 o'clock Thursday 11th, in the county prison, when Frank Lee was hanged by Sheriff S. H. Boyer for the murder of George Porter by shooting on the night of November 28, 1908. Lee, as pledged his word, weeks ago, walked to the scaffold without a tremor. He was joined on the scaffold by his spiritual adviser, J. Merrill Williams, of the Highland Avenue Methodist church, Lewistown, and Horace Tyler, a friend. The former spoke a few words and offered a prayer for the condemned man's soul, and Tyler, representing Lee, stated from the scaffold that Lee had repented of his crime and was ready to meet his God. During this time Lee stood with head erect, eyes fixed on the blue dome of heaven, a bouquet of red carnations in his right hand, as his lips slowly moved in prayer.

Dr. Britch made the statement that Lee's neck was broken in a drop. Lee, who was a colored man, as was his victim, was born on the Judge Lee plantation near Huston, Halifax county, Virginia, thirty-six years ago. In his boyhood days he claims to have fallen from a cherry tree, striking his head on a stone, which caused him to be "not exactly crazy but kind of queer at times," as Lee himself expressed it. He was without education and exceptionally superstitious. Witnesses at the trial testified to the fact that he was the companion of ghosts and hobgoblins and was in the habit of hanging his drinking water on the limbs of a tree in the front of the house to prevent the snakes from shedding their skins in it.

On the night of November 2 he engaged in a quarrel with George Porter over eighty cents said to have been due him on a garbage contract, in which he was worked. Turning on his heel he said: "I'll come back and get you before morning if I hang for it." He walked to his boarding house, half a block away, got a shot gun and returning, kicked open the door of the little shop in which he had left Porter, fired the charge full in the face of his victim. Porter died three hours later. Lee made good his escape and returned to his Southern home, where he secured work in the coal mines. He confided in a fellow workman and was betrayed for the reward of $50 offered by the authorities at Lewistown.

Lee was convicted twice by jury, re-proved twice by Governor Tener and granted two hearings by the Board of Pardons. Lee accepted christianity as his only solace early in his incarceration, and said weeks ago that he was ready to die.

Hunters Fix Horns on Does. A pair of alleged "nature fakers," in the persons of E. C. Mosser and F. W. Jones, of Charleroi, were called upon by Squire F. M. Burch, of Weedville, to pay the sum of $150 each into the coffers of the state of Pennsylvania the other day for the violation of the deer laws last November. They were charged with killing two deer without horns.

It appeared from the testimony that on November 21 last these men were hunting deer in the vicinity of Medix run, and finding "male deer with horns" rather scarce in their immediate vicinity, proceeded to knock over a doe and fawn that appeared on a "runway" where the hunters were watching. Desiring to ship the deer home, they obtained two sets of antlers from hunters who had killed bucks, as the law contemplates, and by as neat a bit of nature-faking as ever "Teddy" Roosevelt charged to our revered friend, John Burrows, the hunters, it was testified, attached the beheaded horns to the heads of their trophies in such an expert manner that they came mighty near escaping the vigilant eyes of state Prosecutor Hummelbaugh and his assistants, Messrs. Crawford, of Dubois and Scott, of Reynoldsville.

Unfortunately for the men, the substitution was detected and a prosecution started, which has just ended, with $150 fines.

Bar Maid Limits Women. "Four glasses of beer are enough for the average woman, for they are all she can stand without becoming foolish. A woman needs to drink, just as a man does, but she must remember that she cannot stand as much because the longer the hair the shorter the sense."

So declares Mrs. Christiana Berresheim, of Roxbury, Mass., who at 76 still tends bar in her own saloons and is the oldest barmaid in the Bay state and the only one in Boston.

"I have a rule about women and I have found it works all right," says Mrs. Berresheim. "If any woman comes in here for lunch and asks for a fifth glass of beer I refuse to sell it to her if I do not know her."

"If a woman works hard—say scrubbing floors or washing clothes—a drink does her good, but she ought to remember that she cannot drink as much as a man, because a man has got a better head."

Photograph Calls Cows. The phonograph, through the ingenuity of a couple of boys, says the Chicago Tribune, has become a thing of usefulness, as well as amusement on a nearby farm. After the novelty had worn off, the boys in question had cast aside the canned songs and funny talks and gone back to checkers. But they found that doing the chores served in a different way with the same. One of them remembered they could talk into the records and have the talk come right out, just like it went in.

So between moves each called into the machine, "Come, Boss, come, Boss." Then they put the phonograph out facing the pasture and turned it loose. The cows came home.

Among recent vetoes by Governor Tener, are the following bills: The Walton bill, to guard against the spread of wild mustard, wild carrot, wild onion, horse nettle and Russian thistle by compelling land owners and supervisors to cut down such weeds is vetoed because the title is defective.

The veto ax also fell on the bill giving the right of eminent domain to lateral railroads, the only bill of the late assemblyman, J. Calvin Meyer, of Centre, which has reached the governor. The governor finds that the measure of eminent domain in the bill are "too broad and unrestricted."

Farm Crops in 1910. The value of wealth produced on farms of the United States was $5,325,000,000 during 1910, as estimated by the department of agriculture in a statement just issued. This is an increase of 104,000,000 over 1909.

Texas, with her 10,000,000 acres of cotton, wrested from Illinois during 1910 the honor of being the first state of the union in value of principal farm crops, which aggregated $264,110,000.

Ward Wins Libel Suit. John M. Ward, the famous ex-handball player, and a one-time resident of Bellefonte, won his suit for libel in the United States district court at New York on Friday, against "Ban" Johnson, president of the American league. The jury brought in a verdict for $1000 after deliberating an hour.

PENNY THREATENS ALTOONA.

Shops May Be Removed If Men Cause Trouble.

A statement issued by an official of the Pennsylvania Railway Company threatens to remove the shops at that point, should the shopmen, become organized there and sympathize in any way with the men on strike between Altoona and Pittsburgh. It was pointed out that the manufacturing side of the company's business could easily be wiped out at that place and nothing maintained there with the exception of enough men to look after running repairs. The statement in part is as follows: "Without the support of the Pennsylvania railroad shops, the importance of Altoona would be materially less than at present. These facts are generally understood and equally well appreciated, both by the employees and the citizens, and their continued co-operation is the best evidence of contentment with existing conditions. The community would be greatly benefited by the shop operations which are not concerned in the daily running of the road, namely, in the manufacture of locomotives, cars and smaller items which could be readily purchased in the open market. The concentration of this work, and the large number of employees involved in it, at Altoona has been questioned. Other communities have frequently criticized this concentration and, as a matter of fact, an operating proposition, there is some question as to its propriety.

"The people of this community should carefully consider all these facts at this time and weigh them well. The interests of the citizens and the company are identical. What will affect the latter will certainly in greater degree affect the former. A strike will mean great loss to the employees and, in turn, to the citizens of Altoona. A strike would be the best evidence as well, as the mistaken judgment of the local officials who have always contended for the maintenance of large shops there because of their faith in the superior character of the Altoona employees. It would mark, expansion and the removal from here of such shops as are utilized in the manufacture of new locomotives, cars wheels, brass and iron castings and such other articles, which are manufactured in the open market. Should this be done, it would mean the elimination of 6,000 employees, a reduction of 25,000 in the population of the city, and the consequent loss of $400,000 per month from the revenue of the community, to say nothing of the number of unemployed citizens, the ultimate untenanted properties and the consequent depreciation in all property values."

Finger Prints Too Much for Burglar. Chief Christie, brought to trial before Judge Rosalsky, New York, on a charge of unlawful entry, found the prosecution based its entire case on finger prints discernible through a microscope in a glass door panel of the building entered.

Christie peeked through the glass at the finger marks and after conferring with his counsel he entered a plea of guilty.

Christie's confession came after a crowd of witnesses had sworn him a strong alibi. "I want you to tell me the whole story," said the judge. "How is it that if you are guilty you had all these witnesses? How is it that with so many witnesses, you can't tell us what the man did who had the prints on the door?" "Why, no man could stand to see those finger prints without giving up the fight," answered the prisoner. "I guess everybody that saw them knew I was guilty. The witnesses thought they had seen me, but they didn't see me come home and go to bed, but they didn't know I sneaked out afterward."

Christie was remanded for sentence until May 19.

See Earth Gulp a Horse. While plowing a field in a suburb of Pottsville, on Saturday, John Moss, who was driving two horses, suddenly saw one of them drop out of sight. A moment later he also was dragged by his hold on the reins into an old mine breach.

Clutching a bush, he managed to hoist himself back from the brink and keep the other frightened horse from also going into the hole.

The horse that fell into the shaft disappeared 190 feet, and a small inclined slide had to be sunk to effect a rescue.

Wallpaper Made Her Blind. Mrs. M. J. Anderson, 25 years old, of Homestead, probably will lose the sight of her right eye through being poisoned by lime in wall paper. She is now at a hospital suffering greatly.

She was having her rooms papered yesterday and the gilt and red coloring matter brushed from the wall entered her eye, causing the trouble. She was so flattered that within a few hours she was totally blind. Physicians declared that the coloring matter in the paper caused all the trouble.

Home Traders Troubled. A Lock Haven liverman recently sold a horse to a Jersey Shore citizen for $40. The man took the horse back and demanded the money, which was refused him. He left the horse, which roamed the streets until arrested as a stray and sold at auction for $12. The new buyer a few hours later re-sold it for $25. A court trial is likely to be the sequel.

Liquid Cures Eczema Where Salve Fails. In regard to skin diseases medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT. A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates to the disease germs and destroys it, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25-cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief. For sale by Green's Pharmacy, Bellefonte, Pa.

CANNIBALS VANQUISHED.

After fighting off 100 war canoes full of cannibals while aground on a coral reef at the Alomadi Islands, German East Africa, the British steamship Kasenga arrived lately.

From the day she sailed from New York, many months ago, with a cargo of 150 mules and five locomotives, until she made the reef on her return, the Kasenga's voyage was one long series of thrilling adventures. Five days out from New York a heavy gale smashed the mule pens and all the mules ran loose around the heaving decks, a number being swept overboard. On December 30 Capt. A. W. Dobbie, in command, fell down an elevator shaft at Cape Town and was killed. While proceeding along the coast of German East Africa the Kasenga ran aground at 4 a. m. on January 28. It was raining and foggy and Chief Officer Wooster did not get bearings until he saw a coral reef sticking out of the water. The reef was between two of the Alomadi Islands.

Half an hour before high tide 100 war canoes filled with naked cannibals paddled swiftly toward the Kasenga. Each canoe held 50 men. On these islands the crew and passengers of a French mail boat were clubbed to death 10 years ago. Mindful of this massacre the crew of the Kasenga lined up with high pressure steam hoses. Of the 37 men aboard 44 were Malays, and they became panic-stricken as soon as they saw the cannibals.

When the cannibals were within 10 feet of the Kasenga the hoses were turned on them. The scalding steam drove the savages out of reach, where they held a parley. Then they scattered and commenced to row down on the Kasenga from all directions. The tide was full by this time and as the second attack was made the freighter's engines began to turn and she slowly moved out into deep water and was quickly clear of the reef. Then with steam pouring from many hoses onto the canoes the Kasenga escaped from the cannibals.

Crowd Dipped Beer From Gutters. The record of Oklahoma for liquor raiding was broken this week in Sapula when 145 barrels of beer were confiscated from the gutters of the town. The streets were crowded with buckets and tin cans dipped the fluid from the gutters.
