There was no hitch in the setting up of the insurance companies, which has enabled Mr. Miller to start work on the house this week.

One of the important street improvements the past week was the oiling of east Linn street for several blocks. This was done by the residents along that portion of the street to get away with the dust nuisance. This will also preserve the surface of the street, and the horse applies the oil when the citizens purchase it.

A very interesting Children's Day service under the direction of Rev. J. I. Rote, was held at the Olive Branch church at Coleville on Sunday last. A pleasing program of recitations and solos was well rendered by the little ones. After which, C. W. Winney made an interesting talk on botany. Dr. Weston spoke of the object lessons taught by the toad, which was well received; a recitation entitled "Little Will," was unusually well rendered. On next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 Gen. James A. Vance will deliver a talk in the church.

Hon. Vance McCormick, of Harrisburg, was in Bellefonte on Friday, being on his way to State College to attend a meeting of the Board of Trustees that day. He came here in his large touring car and found some of the roads quite heavy from the recent rains. Mr. McCormick is an aggressive young man who is taking a leading part in the effort to reorganize the Democracy of this state so that the people will have some voice in the selection of the party tickets and in the control and the policies of the party. Thus far he has done some excellent work and is the kind of a man in whom the people can have full confidence.

Last Sunday afternoon three Julian gentlemen named William G. Hullock, Thos. Gill and George Gill, Jr., absorbed too much "Oh-be-joyful," and began conducting themselves in a manner that did not meet with the approval of W. H. Richards, the guardian of the peace of that little town. The trio were unwilling to accept advice or criticism from anybody, hence it became the duty of the doughty constable to place them under arrest, which he did with the aid of a deputy, and brought the prisoners to Bellefonte on the night train. They were placed in jail, and on Monday morning were given a hearing before Justice W. H. Muser, at which time they pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each and costs, amounting in all to $8.50, a piece for a few hours' fun.

No paper will be issued from this office next week, and for that reason do not blame the postmaster for not handing out the familiar sheet at the usual time. While you may miss the paper, remember that our employees are having a delightful vacation.

Harry Barton, who resides in Collins Row, near Coleville, was awakened sometime early Monday morning by some one trying to get in a window on the first floor of his house. Mr. Barton made an investigation but the intruder had fled, before he could get a glimpse of him. The next fellow who comes prowling around may meet with a warm reception.

W. Harrison Walker and Harry Keller, two of Bellefonte's prominent barbers, went across the country this week in Mr. Walker's car to Bedford, Pa., where they will take in the sessions of the state Bar Association. It will be a nice drive and if the roads are any ways good they expect to make the trip in a day, which means that they will only "hit the high places."

During the past week a number of large brown trout have been caught in Spring creek in the borough limits. Fisherman Joe Thal has been getting the most, while occasionally you see a boy come toddling along with a nice one that is anywhere from 12 to 20 inches in length, and sometimes has several of them. Since the water has partly cleared up the fish appear to be feeding.

Lloyd Reareick and family of Niagara Falls, have been visiting friends in this place for the past week. Mr. Reareick was formerly of this section, being a son of the late Lewis Reareick, but for some time was engaged in the wholesale paper and twine business at Niagara Falls, and having sold out his interests there, has concluded to engage in the fruit raising business in some portion of the west as soon as a suitable point can be selected.

Everybody in Bellefonte knew A. C. Mingle's pet dog. It was a familiar sight to see the dog perched on the seat or in the footboard of the automobile, and enjoying the rides. In other ways it was known as an intelligent animal. On Tuesday evening Mr. Mingle was slowly crossing the diamond in his car when he heard a squeal, and in looking back saw the dog on his back and in a few minutes was dead. It had been playing with another dog as the car was slowly moving, and got under the rear wheel, and that was the end of the dog.

Ambrose Ray has returned home from Williamsport where he was taken by his brother Sylvester for an examination of his eyes, the sight of which have been gradually failing him for a number of years. It was thought at first that the trouble was due to cataracts, but an examination by Dr. Haskins, the specialist, revealed no such ailment. Instead the doctor found a hard formation back of the lenses of the eyes, which he will remove by successive operations. This will take some time, and a considerable amount of patience on the part of Mr. Ray, but if it restores his sight again, he will not mind the annoyance of the treatments.

New concrete pavement along the west side of the McClure property, corner Allegheny and Spring streets, indicates that the sidewalk improvements of our town are still progressing. May a number of others follow suit.

On page 4 will be found the ad of the New 10 & 25 cent store. You will note that this store is now conducting a clean-sweep sale, and you will see some of the greatest bargains you ever heard of. Just read it over while you think of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bair, of Altoona, accompanied three of their daughters, accompanied by Jennie, also Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Wolf, of St. Louis were in Bellefonte on Tuesday on their way home from a pleasant visit with relatives at Rebersburg.

John Raymond and daughter Miss Mary, are among those from Bellefonte who are taking in the Buffalo River circuit at Lock Haven today. An John is as much at home down there as is a bee in a hive, we have no fear of his being lost in the shuffle.

Dr. Yocum will preach a patriotic sermon in Petriken Hall, Sunday morning at 10:45 to the G. A. R. and other patriotic orders. All the services of the Methodist church will be held at the usual time on the Sabbath, the improvements on the church not being completed.

Joseph & Co. have had a large electric fan placed in their store recently which adds considerably to the comfort of this store's large custom. Another convenience is, that if any of their customers become hot, they can turn on the cooling breezes of that fan, and all will be forgiven.

The vestibule combination car and "chemung," which for a number of years have been owned by the Bellefonte Central Railroad company, were this week started on a journey to Oregon, the latter having been purchased some time ago by the Central R. Co., of Oregon, for use on that road. The cars before leaving were repainted and lettered with the name of the railroad company who purchased them and presented a most neat appearance. An employee of the company was here from Oregon who will accompany them back and see that they reach their destination in good shape.

A small, short-haired dead dog was the cause of more annoyance to some of the citizens of east Pike alley, one Harry Child, when he was run over, caused by a whole pack of real live canines. The animal had been run over and killed by an automobile somewhere on the outskirts of town, and the owner of the car had paid the owner of the dog $4 damages. One fellow who was carrying the "remains" near the rear of Parrish's drug store which action on the part of the boy was strenuously objected to by the citizens who reside nearby. The boy was notified to come and remove the offending carcass which he did, but only to carry it further up the alley and place it in front of a citizen's house on Ridge street. This aroused said citizen's ire and the result was that James Mathews, the high constable was hauled around with the inquest of the whereabouts of the boy and the result of the whole matter was that James compelled the amateur "undertaker" to again remove the dog, and together they buried it beneath sufficient earth to keep it down for ages.

A Ride Old Age. Lawrence Batters, of Curtin Station, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Clayton Packer, in Lock Haven. Mr. Batters recently celebrated his 81st birthday anniversary at his home, at which time Mrs. Packer was a guest. The old gentleman is quite spry for his age, and is a most interesting conversationalist and entertainer. He says that he was born at Curtin Station and never resided more than a mile distant from his birthplace. He reared a family of 13 children and two adopted children, making 29 in all, many of whom will be present at the anniversary.

Bankrupt Hearing. On Monday there were a large number of citizens of Howard and vicinity in Bellefonte to attend a hearing before H. C. Quigley, referee in bankruptcy, in the arbitration room at the court house. Sometime ago L. O. Thompson, merchant of that place, filed a petition as a bankrupt and the creditors met on this occasion to select a trustee. The liabilities of the estate will be something over $5000 and the assets considerably less. As a result of the hearing the creditors selected Chas. Bower, of Howard, as the trustee.

Beightol—Shope. Charles T. Beightol, of Jacksonville, and Miss Lulu H. Shope, of Howard, were quietly married at 6:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, June 24th by the Rev. Fred W. Barry, pastor of the Lutheran church of this place. After the wedding was completed, this happy couple, together with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Markle, the bride's sister and brother-in-law, left for Howard, on the 8:20 train, at which place Mr. and Mrs. Beightol will reside for the present. Our best wishes follow them through life.

Team Killed by Lightning. On Saturday Levi Snapp and his son of Trough Creek Valley, Mifflin county, were hauling bark to the railroad station when a heavy electrical storm came upon them. The team was driving a fine team of mules when a bolt of lightning struck the animals, throwing them to the ground and killing them instantly. The boy was thrown from the ground but received no injury.—Times.

LOST (?) IN THE WOODS.

Believing that our good friends Capt. Wills and Lieut. McAteer, late officers in charge of the Salvation Army corps in this place will forgive us for telling tales out of school, we will relate a little adventure which befell the two gentlemen Tuesday evening of last week.

In company with Lloyd Wilson as a guide, they started on a hike for Snow Shoe Intersection, intending to enjoy a half-hour swim in the seductive waters of the Bald Eagle, and return to Bellefonte on the evening train. They reached the Intersection swimming place without mishap, and were soon splashing around in the stream like three bucks in a rain barrel. As time and the railroad company wait for no man, the evening train soon arrived at Intersection and our friends were unable to join their clothes in time to get aboard. The consequence was they were compelled to make the return trip by "shanks mare," and as it was beginning to get quite dark by this time, they chose the shortest route home, coming over what is known as "Ten-Acre," a wide, open expanse of level mountain land near Mifflensburg.

Taking what they supposed was the right trail, the trio walked through the dense woods for quite a way before, to their consternation, they discovered that they had lost their bearings. The darkness by this time was blacker than "Billie-B-D-," and the three pilgrims found themselves in the strange predicament of being unable to retrace their steps or to find their way ahead. Visions of bears, bon constrictors, tarantulas and other dangerous beasts and reptiles, arose before them, and the thought of spending the night on the mountain started their hair to raising like a porcupine's. Lloyd Wilson, as guide for the party, felt that he was responsible for the perplexity of the moment and began calling aloud for direction, but the only answer was the hoot of a nearby screech owl.

What were they to do? Of course, the Captain and the Lieutenant might have started an open air service, but what could Lloyd do? Nothing, except perhaps take up the collection. They decided, however, to make another attempt to find their way out, and with fear and trembling, started again. They plodded on, bumping their noses against trees, skimming their shins on boulders, and had about given up hope of getting home, when the other side of the mountain struck the right path, and succeeded in getting out of the woods. They reached Bellefonte about 10 o'clock.

You can make a safe bet that the next time these fellows go swimming after dark, it will be at home in a wash tub.

WHY THEY DIDN'T ARREST HIM. Of course he was mighty glad he was innocent when he saw what he was up against, but if Road Foreman of Engines Watts, of the Tyrone division, ever thought for a moment that the police of Bellefonte were of the sleepy kind, he has since Wednesday noon changed his mind considerably.

It all happened as the train from Tyrone was pulling into Bellefonte on Wednesday afternoon. It had become noticeable among the waiting crowd at the station that the train just then about to contain a fellow who was riding the blind end of a baggage car, and that he would be pinched as soon as the train pulled in. As the train entered the yard, the onlookers saw Dukeman valiantly take a position on one side of the train, while the other side of the other side. On came the train, and sure enough, there was the man, hugging the narrow space between the engine and the baggage car. From the size of him he looked decidedly formidable, too, and the spectators began speculating as to just what might happen if the car attempted to arrest him. However, as the train came to a stop, Police Officer Justice stepped up to the stowaway and asked to see his pass-ports. Then came explanations and a broad smile from Foreman Watts, for he it proved to be.

While it was somewhat of a joke, yet the intention of the officials was to test the alertness of the police, along the route from Tyrone to Lock Haven. Mr. Watts needed no further proof of Bellefonte's efficiency in this respect, and with a grin of appreciation he swung back to his position on the blind end of the car, to perhaps work the same gag on Lock Haven's "finesit."

State Officer B. H. Day Stoned. B. H. Day, the well known state officer who is in this section enforcing the dog quarantine, killed an unlicensed canine belonging to a woman in Osceola the other day. The woman not only hurled epithets at him, but stoned and arched him as well. She was arrested and taken before a justice, but as Mr. Day did not want to punish her for the offense, she was left on paying costs and receiving a severe reprimand from the squire.—Phillipsburg Journal.
