Non-Sulphurous Himself.

Seeking needed and timely information, she wrote the editor of her Chicago paper and this is what he said and did: "How do you take the old-fashioned spring medicine, sulphur and molasses?" is a question in materia medica passed along to us to answer by the editor of woman's page. But we don't take it, madam. We chase our eldest boy around the barn four or five times, corner him in the hen-house, and he takes it. We don't take it, and never could."—Buffalo Times.

THE SEA'S BIGGEST SHIP.

The Enormous Proportions of a New Ocean Liner.

Now comes the Olympic wearing the laurels only yesterday worn by the Lusitania and Mauretania as the Atlantic's greatest liner—a boat ninety-two feet longer than the Cunard sister-ships and nearly a full city block longer than New York's tallest office building is high, but soon hereafter to yield the honors of mammoth marine construction to a Hamburg-American vessel.

That contemplated largest of steam leviathans, if the preliminary plans are carried out, will come within thirty feet of realizing the goal of "the thousand-foot ship." The big Cunarders are 790 feet long, the Olympic and her sister-ship Titanic, now on the ways at Belfast, are 882, and the Hamburg boat is expected to be 970 feet over all. Thus they pile Pelion on Ossa in the race for supremacy in size in boat-building.

Supremacy in speed remains with the Cunarders, the Mauretania's record of 4 days 10 hours and 41 minutes between Queenstown and New York comparing with the Olympic's 5 days, 16 hours and 42 minutes from Southampton.

Each new liner continues also to say in turn the last word in the luxury of sea travel. In addition to all the comforts of a Fifth avenue hotel, palm gardens, verandas, cafes and passenger elevators included, the Olympic, with its swimming-pool, squash court, gymnasium and golf links, furnishes all the advantages of a country club. The improved deck, saloon and cabin accommodations for third-class passengers provide this class with almost the equivalent of the first-cabin comforts of a few decades ago.

The Olympic has room for 3,200 persons, including a crew of 850, and could stow away a Metropolitan Opera-house audience.

Her main capacity contrasts with the cramped quarters provided for the Olympic's accommodation in the North River, where no dock facilities exist comparable with the dock 1,790 feet long which she left at Southampton.

Accident Extraordinary.

From the effects of an accident so rarely witnessed, it is known to medical science, David Ciso, aged 40 years, lost his life, this week at New Castle. His bowels were literally exploded by a powerful air current introduced by chance when fellow employees, at the Siening's Tailor, Steel plant were using compressed air to clean the dust and grime from the mill off their clothing before starting home from work. They used the air pressure that is furnished to drive automatic riveting machines and operate small hammers, the air having literally torn the intestines apart, causing a far more frightful wound than any bullet could do. He lived only a short time and is survived by his widow and four children.

Healed Like a Flash, She Says.

Mrs. Mary R. Wentzel, of Reading, told Tuesday of last week of her alleged cure from neuralgia by faith at the campmeeting service of the Union Pentecostal church, at Peasantville, Berks county. She says she has regained the use of her left arm and leg and has recovered her voice. She adds:

"It all happened like a flash. The Rev. A. R. Yost had finished preaching and invited sinners to come forward. I accepted the invitation, and at the conclusion of a prayer he sang, 'Just One Touch of His Mighty Power, He Can Heal These Things Very Hour.'"

"Almost instantly I experienced a great change. My lame arm became strong and I could wave it. I then jumped to my feet, something that I could not do for three years. It was all done so quickly that I walked around the tent and shook hands with everybody. I had no use for my crutches, and threw them away."

Blinded by Reflection.

A peculiar and distressing accident was that which befell Henry Adams, at Atlantic City last Tuesday evening during the progress of a severe electrical storm. Just as a particularly vivid flash of lightning illuminated the room where he was standing, his glance fell upon a mirror, and in an instant the reflection of the lightning's flash had blinded him. He fell to the floor unconscious, and when he revived it was found that the optical nerves of his eyes were permanently paralyzed.

Adam's mother at one time was struck by lightning, and in his youth she always cautioned him to close windows during a storm. He was in the act of doing this when the lightning flash came. The young man is but twenty-four years of age, and is the son of a millionaire owner of boardwalk bath houses.

Paper Mill Employee Terribly Scalded.

A distressing accident befell James McKnight, an employe of the Johnsonburg paper mill, last week, by which he was seriously if not fatally scalded by hot water and liquid pulp. McKnight was sent to the sulphite room in the mill with instructions to turn a valve by which the liquid bleach pulp would be run into the retort called the digester. By mistake he turned the wrong valve, and it allowed the seething, hot liquid to gush out over his body. He was terribly burned from head to foot while the force of the steam swept him out of the room into the alley. The injured man's condition is very critical.

The accident also occasioned a severe loss for the company. It requires about 21 cords of wood or 16,000 pounds made into bleached pulp to fill this digester, and the entire amount ran into the alley and had to be carried away.

A Father's Troubles with Leather-Trust Shoes

Boys and girls are not half so hard on shoes as you think. It's the leather that's bad—"process-tanned" by the Leather Trust for profits instead of service.

Then the Trust runs up the price of leather to suit itself. Add to that price the four profits that the ordinary shoes pay to Trusts and Middlemen—and you see why they cost you so much.

Take one of those husky boys of yours to the Endicott-Johnson dealer in this town and fit him out with a pair of Endicott-Johnson shoes.

Watch those shoes. See how long they wear—how their shape holds, and their good looks. Endicott-Johnson shoes are made of leather that you simply cannot buy in any other make of shoes at any price.

It is tanned by Endicott, Johnson & Co. in their own tanneries. They are the only shoe manufacturers in America who are independent of the Leather Trust.

And what is more—you get Endicott-Johnson shoes cheaper than any other shoes of the same general type you ever bought.

Your local shoe dealer gets them direct from the Endicott-Johnson factory—no profits to Trusts or Middlemen. Besides boys' shoes and girls' shoes you can get Endicott-Johnson lines for men and women. Dress and business shoes like the ENDWELL line—Goodyear welt—selling at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00, work shoes—300 styles and sizes in all.

Remember the name of the makers—

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.
