Bright, Sparkling Paragraphs—Selected and Original.

HOMESICK.

Homesick ain't like th' other sick
You get an' have to go to bed
An' drink th' stuff th' drug-stores mix.
Or have things tied aroun' your head
An' when your ma she wash your face
An' use th' silver brush and comb
To comb you, an' she fill a vase
With flowers, 'cause you're sick at home.

Homesick ain't meek'dine sick at all;
It ain't a sick like stummock ache
'At makes you double up an' bawl
An' say you didn't eat th' cake,
Until your conscience it aches, too.
Nen you confess; an' your ma smile
An' say she got a joke on all the while.
Because she knew it all the while.

Homesick ain't when you see your tongue
Or feel your pulse, or your ears buzz
Or doctor listens at your lung—
But, oh, how much you wish it wuz!
Homesick is when you go away

A-visiting all by yourself,
An' miss th' clock 'at ought to say
A-tick'n on th' mantel-shelf.
An' folks tell stories to you, too.
An' try their best to make you laugh
Th' wind cries in the chimney flue,
An' in th' barnyard is th' calf
'At bawls—An' th' worst part yet
Is all th' time 'how well you get
No matter how homesick you know
An' want to go home, you can't go.

Satan smiles every time he sees a church closed for the summer.
Most men like girl babies—that is after they are sixteen years of age.
Most men are known by their deeds, especially if they own real estate.

While a telephone girl may have rings in her fingers she has more in her ears.

When you see a fellow wheeling a baby carriage it doesn't necessarily indicate that he is a man of push.

We are carrying a concealed club for the benefit of the fellow who advises us to "keep cool" this kind of weather.

The "good enough" workman is usually looking for a job when the "best way" workman is considering an offer of advanced wages elsewhere.

Often times a father refuses consent to his daughter's marriage not so much because he wouldn't put up with a son-in-law as that he wouldn't put up for one.

Why She Didn't Scream.—Mother—Why did you not scream when Charlie kissed you last night. Daughter—He threatened me. Mother—How? Daughter—He said if I did he would never kiss me again.

Only One Needed.—Two oysters met one night in a strange place. It was a large kettle full of milk. "Where are we?" asked the first oyster. "Why don't you know?" replied the second. "We are at a Methodist oyster supper." "But what in the world do they want of both of us?" exclaimed the first.

The Other Half.—A man went into a restaurant and ordered a portion of duck. After waiting an hour the man went up to the waiter and said: "Look here, how long am I going to wait for that portion of duck I ordered?" "Till somebody orders the other half," said the waiter. "We can't go out and kill half a duck."

Could Bring One.—"How many of you boys?" asked the Sunday school superintendent, "can bring two other boys next Sunday?" There was no response until a new recruit raised his hand hesitatingly. "Well, William?" "I can't bring two, but there's one little feller I can lick, and I'll do my damndest to bring him."

Business activity very often consists of dodging creditors.

The rain and the hen have their work. As everything earthly must; The hen gets busy and lays an egg. While the rain is laying the dust.

Drew a Line.—A horse dealer was showing a horse to a prospective buyer. After running him back and forward for a few minutes he stopped and said to the buyer: "What do you think of this coat? Isn't he a dandy?" The buyer, noticing that the horse had heaves, replied: "Yes, I like his coat, but I don't like his pants?"

His Choice.—John Sharp Williams tells the following: "One of the negroes on my place did me a valuable service once, and I wished to show my appreciation. After paying him, I asked: 'Now, uncle, which shall I give you, a ton of coal or a big bottle of whiskey?' 'Massa John,' he replied, 'yo' shorely knows Ah on'y bulns wood.'"

Could Smell It.—Goldstein a clothing dealer in a small Pennsylvania town, where business had become very dull, was located near a butcher shop. One day the butcher had been melting tallow in the rear of the building, which caused a terrific stench. A customer upon entering the store remarked: "Goldstein, for heaven's sake what smells so?" Goldstein promptly replied: "Do's de peezness. Eet's rotten."

Doing Better Work.—Willie stood before the mirror. His father was setting in a chair close to Willie. "Papa," said Willie, looking first into the mirror and then at his father. "Who made me?" "Why, God made you, Willie," his father answered. "And who made you papa?" asked Willie. "God made me, too," said Willie. "Then," said Willie, looking first at his father and then into the mirror. "God is doing better work now than he used to."

Pat Scored Best.—A one-legged Welsh orator named Jones was pretty successful in bantering an Irish man, when the latter asked him: "How did you come to lose your leg?" "Well," said Jones, "on examining scotmy pedigree and looking up my descent I found there was some Irish blood in me and becoming convinced that it was settled in the left leg, I had it cut off at once." "By the powers," said Pa. "It would have been a very good thing if it had only settled in your head."

Willie Knew.—Willie lost his pet dog and was much distressed. He spent his time searching for it, and so often did he run into the house crying, "Come, quick; there's Fido! I saw him!" the family grew somewhat dubious. One day Willie rushed in more excited than usual. "Mamma, mamma!" he cried, "I've seen Fido! I've seen Fido!" "Oh, no, I guess not," replied the patient mother. "It must have been your imagination." Willie looked at her, much aggrieved. "Well," he said, indignantly, "I guess my 'magination isn't white behind.'"

He Didn't Forget.—It is a well established fact that the average schoolteacher experiences a great deal of difficulty when she attempts to enforce the clear pronunciation of the terminal "g" of each present participle. "Robert," said the teacher of one of the lower classes during the progress of a reading exercise, "please read the first sentence." A diminutive lad arose to his feet, and amid a series of labored gasps breathed forth the following: "See the horse runnin'." "Don't forget the 'g,' Robert," admonished the teacher. "Gee! See the horse runnin'."

OVER THE COUNTY.

THE NEW SCHOOL CODE.

A Few Points to Be Remembered by Directors.

The new school code is now in force, and has superseded the former laws of the state except in a few cases expressly excepted in the code.

The new school code will be printed in full in the Pennsylvania School Journal for July, and later will be published and distributed in book form, with index, by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Except in the independent districts present school directors will continue without change until the first Monday of next December, when all retire, and they will be succeeded by the full board, which will be elected in November election.

Any present directors can be elected members of the new board. Boards of new school directors reorganize and elect officers on the first Monday in June, as usual.

The present school year and the present financial year will each be lengthened by one month, and end on the first Monday of July, instead of the first Monday of June. Treasurers and secretaries will include in their report the accounts for the thirteen months ending with the first Monday of July.

No person can hereafter teach in the public school who is under eighteen years of age.

No teacher's certificate can hereafter be granted to any one who does not submit a certificate of good health filled in on a blank furnished by the State Superintendent of Schools, and signed by a physician legally qualified to practice medicine in Pennsylvania.

No teacher who is nearly related to any member of the school board can be elected as a teacher by such a board except by a vote of three-fourths of the members of the board.

Present school boards can not elect school teachers for more than one year.

The new minimum salary of $45 and $55 a month will not be in effect for the next two years, since the Legislature did not add to the school appropriations to provide for this increase.

In every school building more than one story high, all outside doors must open outwards, and must be changed to do this, if they do not now, before school opens next fall.

Crust—Clark Reunion.

The 5th annual reunion of the Crust and Clark families will be held at Hunters Park, Saturday, August 26th. Everybody is cordially invited.

RAPS PESSIMISTS.

"I came here not to preach a gospel of gloom, but a gospel of hope," said United States Senator Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, in an address to a large audience of Waynesboro people in the Academy of Music.

"There is no room for gloom in the great work the people of this country have before them, that of returning the power and machinery of government back into the hands of the people, where it belongs. There is room only for hope and optimism. As an irresistible force, there moves in America today a combination of thought and action which will regain the government to the people as surely as water flowing down a hill will eventually find its level. That this is a government for the people no one will deny. That it must be made, in very truth a government of and by the people, is but a natural result."

Hot Weather Needs.

Don't hurry and don't worry.
Touch no alcohol. Use less tobacco than usual. Neither is wise in heat.
Don't do anything you can postpone. The peril of the battlefield is about you.
Walk slowly in the sun; if you have to work in it keep green leaves or a moist cloth in your hat. They may save a stroke.
A woman forced to walk in the sun is wise if she carries an umbrella or sunshade. Women are less liable to a stroke and more liable to heat exhaustion. The latter scares less at the time; it means as much in the end.
Put off washing, ironing, bakin' and every work that can be postponed that brings heat. If called to such work, eat slowly and lightly but often, and help perspiration by taking much water, either hot in weak tea or just plain, good water, not too cold.
Loosen all clothing, go to bed early, sleep in the open if you can, best of all on the roof. A back-yard and hammock is better than a room.
Watch all food. Touch nothing kept long. Be vigilant over the milk children use.
Above all things be cheerful.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Kidneys.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $25 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. K. Robinson, 1319 Bank Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-quieting power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.
