

HOW FARMERS GET THE SMALL PORTION

THEY RAISE THE CROPS—OTHERS GET THE PROFIT.

THE CRIMINAL FOOD TRUST

A Few Startling Facts and Figures—Where the Money Goes—The Day of Reckoning—Dr. Wiley's Vindication—The Sugar Trust.

"The farmers of Pennsylvania sold forty-eight million dollars' worth of potatoes in New York City last year, but they were not worth forty-eight millions to the farmers. That is what the New York City people paid for them. The farmers got three and a half millions."

This statement was made by members of the Pennsylvania grange who visited New York City to study market conditions.

These grangers discovered that a cold storage chicken, weighing a pound and a half, sold for a dollar in Madison. For that same kind of a chicken the farmers received twelve cents each for apples, and offered to sell the vendor from whom they bought them all he wanted for two dollars a barrel. Eggs which the farmers sold for 22 cents brought 45 cents when purchased by the consumer.

This vast difference between what the farmer gets and what the consumer pays represents the unearned profits that flow into the pockets of the railroads, the express companies, and the food trusts. The railroads get the money in the form of excessive rates which go to pay dividends on their stock. The express companies get theirs by reason of the fact that one supine Republican administration after another has refused to put them under a decent regulation, and the food trusts get theirs by maintaining unnecessary storage houses, through which they create artificial "shortages" and thus boost prices.

Nearly all the perishable food supplies which go to the cities are carried by the express companies, or the equally monopolistic refrigerator lines of the food trusts. Thus the consumer pays a double haulage bill. As soon as these products reach the cities they are turned over to the food trusts and placed in cold storage, where they are kept until a "shortage" is created. Then up go prices.

"If all the eggs now held in cold storage were placed on the market tomorrow," said a member of the grangers, "the price of eggs would tumble two thirds."

What is the remedy? Democratic members of Congress believe that one remedy lies in the strengthening of the interstate commerce law, to enable the government to reach and jail some of the owners of the criminal food trusts and transportation monopolies.

It is significant that the farmers for the first time in years are getting together on the high price question. They know that while their own products are bringing more than formerly, there still is a tremendous gap between what they get and what the consumer pays. They propose to put up with the trouble they are in, but they are certain that their indignations, as soon as they are started, will lead them directly to the headquarters of the unpunished trust magnates who control the railroads, the food trusts, and the express monopoly.

But in the time, thanks to the Supreme court, from which there is no appeal, restraint of trade is not restrained as long as it is "reasonable."

No Way to Stop This Trust. For years and years the sugar trust is known to have stolen from the government. By means of false weights and tricky springs to cheat the scales, and by bribing government officials, this rapacious trust diverted into its own coffers millions of dollars that should have gone to the government in revenue. The trust was caught red handed in its thievery, yet nobody was punished; nobody went to jail.

The government finally put a stop to the revenue stealing. The doctored springs were taken away, and the corrupt customs collectors were discharged. This forced the trust to adopt new methods in order to maintain its inflated dividends, so recently it sent out a wall about a "short crop" and now the sugar trust is determined to get "it."

Where the Money Goes. What becomes of all the money the big trusts extort annually from the American people? Everybody knows they exact millions in tribute each year, and it is strange that many of us do not read the newspapers of this country, would wonder how the trusts could get strong boxes big enough to store away all the money they take from the people.

Recently an enterprising statistician figured it out that American heiresses—the majority of whom are the daughters of American trust magnates—permit their broken down titled foreign husbands to enjoy the income from one and three quarter millions of dollars.

This money, if spent by parents in America by whom it is earned, would educate approximately a million children each year. Or it would give employment to two hundred thousand American workmen at good wages.

this committee discovered nobody knew better than Mr. Taft himself that he would not dare to meet out to Dr. Wiley the "condign punishment" recommended by Attorney General Wickesham.

The Wiley "vindication" served no other purpose than to afford the President a favorable opportunity to play politics on the eve of his departure into the hostile West. Dr. Wiley had already been vindicated, a thousand times over, in the minds of the people.

FIENDISH BRUTALITY.

Boy Ties Cows' Tails Together and Beats Them.

Friday's Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin publishes an account of a fiendish episode of cruelty to animals which it is alleged occurred near Linden on Wednesday. Should the story be substantiated the guilty parties will no doubt be summarily dealt with by the Lycoming county authorities. The Gazette and Bulletin says:

Two browsing cows several farmers and a stout piece of rope furnished considerable excitement in the rural districts adjoining Linden Wednesday morning and resulted in the arrest of Harry Dapp, a farmer who will be given a hearing before Alderman Batzle on a charge preferred by Charles Nevel, a well known dairyman, who has his farm near Linden. According to the testimony of Mr. Nevel several farmers, among whom was Mr. Dapp, are charged with tying the tails of two valuable cows together with a piece of rope and then whipping the animals, starting them off in the opposite directions. The result of this trying ordeal was that the tails of both animals were pulled from their bodies. It is alleged that the cows were so seriously hurt that they will die. Dapp was arrested Wednesday and brought before Alderman Batzle and will be given a hearing the latter part of the week.

VOW CAUSES ILLNESS.

Willful Girl Took Her Bed Ten Years Ago—Can't Leave Now.

When Miss Alice Mundy, disappointed and heart sore because her mother forbade her communicating with her fiancé, took to her bed ten years ago, vowing that she would never arise until all her uncles had become removed, Mrs. Mundy thought it was a girlish whim and that in the course of a very short while the attachment would be broken.

Ten years have elapsed since then, and not once has Miss Mundy placed her feet on the floor. Now she is unable to arise even if she would. Total lack of exercise has so weakened her physically that she has practically lost the use of her hands or feet, and the muscles have become so weak that they now refuse to obey the command to command them, even were she inclined to do so.

The nervous system has now become affected, and a physician makes daily visits to the Mundy home, and does what he can to relieve the most remarkable case of nervous prostration he has ever come under his observation. It is feared now that the girl is hopelessly ill.

Pastor Refused $10,000 To Wed Astor.

That a Methodist minister of a little church near Newport, R. I. refused a check of $10,000 to perform the marriage ceremony of Colonel Astor and Miss Force, was the announcement of Bishop John W. Hapton of New York before the Methodist conference at Antigo, Wis. The information was contained in a letter which the bishop read, but he refused to divulge the name of the clergyman.

The minister's self-denial was great, the bishop said, because of the fact that he was burdened with debts.

When the story leaked out, according to the bishop's information, a wealthy layman of the Methodist church offered the clergyman an equal sum to recompense him for the loss, but this tender also was refused, the clergyman saying he had done only his duty.

Governor Dix on Roads.

Governor Dix of New York, in a speech at the Syracuse fair last Thursday, said that there is no reason why the state roads should cost $12,000 a mile and an additional cost for engineering. He said that the results in road improvement accomplished in New York under the $50,000,000 plan have been inadequate and extravagant. With all the waste in road building, an additional cost is now demanded to restore the highways already constructed to a condition creditable to the state. It is evident that road construction has not yet been reduced to a scientific and economical basis.

Odd Fellows Bar Liquor Sellers.

Hotel keepers holding saloon licenses were barred from the order of Odd Fellows, by action taken last Tuesday by the Sovereign Grand Lodge, in session at the Grand Hotel, in session at the Grand Hotel. Saloon keepers have been barred for some time. The action was advocated by Grand Sire John B. Cocker.

Another Important Ruling of the Grand Lodge was the refusal to permit the women Rebekahs, auxiliary of the Odd Fellows, to organize a national assembly.

The grand sire's report on the Imperial Order of Muscovites recognizes the right of any Odd Fellow to become a Muscovite.

Dunlap Reunion.

When the descendants of William Dunlap, one of the original settlers of Clearfield county, held their recent family reunion at Olanta, they sat down to dinner on the spot where William Dunlap ate his cornbread and sipped his first cup of wheat in 1603. Miss Martha Dunlap, the oldest living descendant present at the reunion, who is 86 years of age, is one of the most remarkable old women in Clearfield county and in spite of her advanced age retains all her faculties to their fullest extent, and can see as well as anybody without the aid of spectacles.

Counterfeit Tyrone Bank Note.

A law counterfeit $10 national bank note on the Blair County National Bank of Tyrone, was reported by the secret service last week. It of the 1902-1908 series, check letter "E" and bear President McKinley's portrait. The work on it is similar to that on the counterfeit $10 notes on the Anglo and London-Paris National bank of San Francisco, the Illinois National bank of Springfield, Ill., and the Buffalo series United States notes, which recently were detected. The principal passer of these counterfeits is now under arrest.

The time is here for boys to climb and thrash chestnut trees and fall to the ground with the nuts.

MARRIAGES.

Ghingerich—Catherman. At the Reformed parsonage at Rehersburg, Edward Ghingerich, of Ligonier, and Miss Bertha Catherman, of Millmont, were united in marriage recently by Rev. G. A. Stuffer.

Smith—Wilson. On Sunday evening, 17th, at the home of the bride, Marie Smith, of Pottery Mills, and Miss Jennie E. Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson, of Millheim, were united in marriage by Rev. J. Max Lantz. The young couple will make their future home at Pottery Mills.

Shorthouse—Erhard.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 19th, at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Erhard, their daughter, Miss Mary Alice Erhard, of Ardara, formerly of Unionville, Centre county and Mr. Frank Shorthouse, of Irvan, Pa., were married by Rev. James A. Troke, of Trofordsburg. The attendants were Miss Luella Eckert, niece of the bride and Mr. Walter Shorthouse, brother of the groom. The bride wore white velvet over white satin and her attendant wore light blue satin. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate members of the families. Mr. Shorthouse is a machinist employed in east Pittsburg at the Westinghouse plant. After a wedding supper they departed for Washington, D. C., and other places of interest. Both are popular young people and have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Shultz—Reece.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Reece, at Port Matilda, was the scene of a pretty wedding at high noon on Wednesday last. The bride, when they were married, was Miss Edna, and the groom, Mr. Shultz, of Chester Hill, were made husband and wife. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of invited guests by Rev. Kelley, of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. George Woodring, of Tyrone, was matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Stott, of Phillipsburg, and Rose Stott, of Unionville, bridesmaids. Samueel Osman, of Port Matilda, acted as best man. The wedding party enjoyed the parlors to the music of the wedding march as played by Miss Sarah Stott of Phillipsburg. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white satin, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. After congratulations had been showered upon the couple, the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner. At 1.45 the newlyweds departed on a honeymoon trip to Washington, D. C. The bride is one of Port Matilda's most charming and accomplished young ladies, and for some time had served as the efficient teacher of the High school in that place. Her husband is a son of Mr. Hiram Shultz, of Chester Hill, and is employed as freight and passenger agent for the Penna. Railroad company at Port Matilda, and is a most excellent young man.

Twitwimre—Fryberger.

Promptly at 6.30 o'clock, and to the sweet strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, Dr. Wilbur D. Twitwimre, of Lancaster, and Miss Elizabeth Steiner Fryberger, were ushered into the beautifully decorated parlors of the bride's home at Phillipsburg, on Wednesday evening, where Rev. George M. Glenn, of Trinity M. E. church, spoke the words which bound them in the holy bonds of matrimony. The beautiful and impressive ring service was witnessed by a large number of friends. The bride and groom, the party stood under an arch composed of ferns, white asters and clematis, the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, who gave her away to the groom, Edgar Port of Huntingdon, acted in the capacity of best man. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of delicately trimmed in Duchess lace, and carried a handsome bouquet of white roses, lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. A soft tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms worn by the bride's mother, the late Mrs. Jacob Steiner at her side. The groom wore the conventional black. Following the congratulations a wedding supper was served, the bride's table having as a centre-piece an artificial lake surrounded by flowers. The presents consisting of cut glass, silver, china, etc., were the delightfully costly. The young couple left in an auto for Tyrone, where they took the 12:41 train for a honeymoon trip to eastern cities, and upon their return will reside at Lancaster where the groom is a practicing dentist. The bride is a daughter of Capt. and Mrs. C. T. Fryberger and sister of George M. Twitwimre, of Sunbury; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Ovelman and John B. Elliott, of Hollidaysburg; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sandford and daughters, Misses Rachel and Iona, of Patton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steiner, of Osceola.

Contract for Lewistown Narrows.

The bids for the 11 miles of state highway through the Lewistown Narrows was opened Tuesday last week. The United Leasing and Construction Company of Harrisburg, will build 22,560 feet of road in Derry township, Mifflin county, at $99,048.51, and J. E. Francis, of Punxsutawney, 34,793 feet in Fernmanagh township, Juniata county, at $129,977.48. Work is to begin pretty shortly, as engineers of the State Highway department have already prepared the road for the contractors. The roads are to be finished by July, 1912.

Cross Ocean Flight.

The conquest of the Atlantic, the most ambitious exploit yet undertaken by an aviator, is contemplated by a Danish airman, who describes his plans in a letter to a Danish newspaper published in Brooklyn. This aviator writes that he has enlisted the necessary financial aid and made arrangements to fly next spring from Copenhagen to New York, resting only at London and Queenstown, and upon ships stationed at intervals across the North sea and the Atlantic ocean.

This Hen Has a Suit of Clothes.

Saratoga, N. Y. has a hen that wears clothes. Her name is Jennie, and she lives on the Williams farm. Jennie was born without the sign of a feather, and as she grew to henhood a vestige of covering appeared. Recently the hired man noticed Jennie shivering in a corner. He had an idea. The hen was measured for a suit, and now she wears a natty gray uniform with buttons down the front and holes for her wings.

FAREWELL GREETING.

Children and friends of W. S. Williams and family gathered at his home near Martha Furnace on Saturday, Sept. 23, to have a joyous time and bid them farewell, as they are soon going to St. Cloud, Florida, to spend the winter. Two years ago, Mr. Williams spent the winter in the south with his family and last winter he went without his family. His wife, the previous winter while with him in the south, had a very serious spell of sickness, but this winter she will accompany him.

A very pleasant day was spent at their home on Saturday. It was a surprise to both Mr. and Mrs. Williams, but they soon adjusted themselves to the occasion and highly appreciated the gathering of their friends in loving greetings. And the dinner—well, the table almost groaned beneath its load of good things. The friends had brought their gifts well filled with the best they had for replenishing the inner man. The women know how to reach the heart of man, through the stomach.

The following is a list of the names of those who were present: Ellis Williams and wife, Mrs. J. P. Stiver, Mrs. W. H. Cronister and daughter, Mrs. O. D. Ebert and daughter, J. Q. Miles and wife, and Mrs. Robt. Robinson and daughter, of Martha; Rev. W. H. Ellis Paul Chaney, Mrs. Sarah Chaney, Mrs. O. S. Price, Mrs. Bubb Woodring, and family, and C. R. Richards and wife, of Port Matilda; Abednego Williams, of Unionville; Merrill Williams and wife and Frank Williams, of Tyrone; Wm. Roub and wife, of Arch Springs; Staden Roup, Charles Adams, Curtis Robinson, of Altoona; Mrs. Robt. Neil, Mrs. Charles Hartsock, Mrs. Margaret Hartsock, of Marterville; Miss Marion Matern, Mrs. Catherine Williams, of Julian, Matile Williams, Mrs. David Gingersh and Miss Pearl Pink came in for a little while late in the afternoon. Beside those named there were a host of children, grand and great-grandchildren. In all there were about sixty who were gathered at their home to bid them God speed.

Mr. Williams is quite a bee man and we were given plenty of the sweetness to eat. It was a sight to see the honey he has piled up in his honey room. At this gathering there were four generations represented, father, daughter, granddaughter and great-granddaughter.

The Gray Blister Beetle.

One of the newest insect pests reported to Prof. H. A. Surface, Economic Zoologist of the State Department of Agriculture, is the Gray Blister Beetle which is found feeding upon clover, alfalfa and garden plants, especially asters. Prof. Surface recommends the following useful method of destroying them in his reply to an Armstrong county farmer: "The good way to get rid of the ash-gray blister beetle is to throw down an armful of straw here and there, and drive them into it, and set fire to it. You can easily drive them with bunches of switches. After they are scared in this way, those that remain alive will leave the field. These were one of the species formerly called the old-fashioned potato beetle or potato bug. It was often seen then cleaned out of potato vines by this kind of treatment. Just enough straw was scattered between the rows to burn when set on fire, without setting the best to burn the vines beside it. When the wind was blowing up or down the row, the beetles would hop into it, and it was then fired in different places. Those that survived the treatment disappeared from the field. They can also be killed by arsenical spraying, but I cannot recommend this in the clover field on account of the danger of poisoning the clover."

Interesting Lawsuits.

Two cases that are of considerable interest generally are scheduled to come up for trial in the special term of court of Centre county in Bellefonte on October 30th. Several years ago an agent of the Washington National Building and Loan Association induced several property owners in Beech Creek to borrow from this company sufficient money to improve their properties. The owners since that time have made their payments when due, and some time ago, it is alleged by these parties, the company asked for the return of all papers connected with the loans, and the request was complied with. In doing this, it appears that the property owners gave up papers that they should have held, by which they could have shown how much they had reduced their indebtedness to the Loan Association. This company has now entered suit against them in amount sufficient, it appears, to eventually swallow up the properties. Two of such property owners are widows of deceased soldiers of the Civil war. Should these widows be deprived of their homes, it would indeed, be a most deplorable matter, and the outcome will be watched with interest.

Broom Corn at $200 a Ton.

Two 1911 crops of broom corn in the central Illinois district were sold last week for $200 a ton, a figure which has not been received by growers since 1907, when brokers made a spectacular dash over the district in automobiles and bought up virtually every ton of broom in one day's campaign. Some predict a new mark of $250 a ton, due to the scarcity of the crop generally.

A Good Job.

Chauncey Black, grandson of the famous jurist Jeremiah S. Black, caught a burglar in his home, near York, the other night and after a rough and tumble fight mastered the fellow and carried him to York in his automobile, turning him over to the police. When captured the fellow was wearing one of Black's best suits. Those Blacks always do things well.
