The Home Circle

Pleasant Evening Reveries Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

You look at the housewife who has for her things, and these things in their places, and you find or speak of his mother?

a woman who is systematic in her

Every husband can be work; and when she needs anything she can put her hands on it in a momet. She plans and calculates whenthere is to be extra work, extra cooking, extra washing, etc., and she knows before hand just what there do, and what she wants to do And this same woman, so exact in her doings, gets more time to rest and read and instruct her children in the paths of right and the social duties they owe to all. Ladies. hope you are of this class, receivthe blessings of your husband, and the praise of all who know you.

As we stood in front of the post-office yesterday we were forced to hear a part of a conversation between two young ladies. They were talking about a third party and christen-ed her an "old maid." We came as near getting mad as an editor ever You know an edtior never loses his temper. He still has it all. In almost every circle of our kindred there has been some queen of self-sacrifice to whom jeweled hand was offered in marriage, but who stayed on the old place because of the sense of filial obligation until the health was gone and the attractiveness of personal presence had vanished. Brutal soclety may call such a one by a nickname. God calls her daughter, and heaven calls her saint.

He who loves beauty and is looking for it will find it everywhere.

And the mother who keeps her enthusiasm alive by working with her children, developing their perception of beauty and love for the beautiful truths divine, will give them a blessed inheritance which will lighten their burden as they grow beyond her sheltering care, and bring more of cheerfulness, and hopefulness, and youthfulness into their lives.

nearest and dearest to us with dis-courtesy and disregard, is one that douds the sunshine of too many

"The old woman." A nice phrase to be using about the dear soul who kept her vigil over you in your in-fancy, kissed away your tears in nights of affiction when your brain you can make that little room a home was wild with burning fever? Is there no other term you can find for her whose love has followed you through every trial, tribulation and misfortune of your life? Has mother, has no other term more fitting than "the old woman" by which to address

Every husband can have good coffee if on some morning, the coffee is a shade too brown to suit your taste, do not scold about it; and, on every other morning when it is delicious, say so. Try this way, and wou will find your coffee and everything else, to your taste much oftener; and besides, you will give the ones you ought to love best the sweetest consciousness that they are doing the work sion. well, and giving satisfaction to the of all others, they most desire one. to please-thus inspiring them with renewed energy to strive for the merreward of kind, appreciative words. And so shall an atmosphere of peace and sweet home happiness to prevade the whole house, born and nurtured into beautiful, fragrant blossoming by your own kind words and deeds.

Mrs. S. W. Moore and her mother, of Centre Hall, were called to Westmont, N. J., last week by the illness of the former's sister.

In too many families the mother assumes the care of everything and her daughters are but genteel loungers in the household. The work which could be so easily and quickly done if each bore a share, is left for the hands already weakened by heavy

Parents do you wish for your children to love and respect you? If you do, when your child comes to you for advice be sure to give good advice; don't say, "Oh, go way, don't bother me go ask your mother," or some such answer. Of if they come to their mother perhaps she says, "Go to your father, I am busy." The child will soon get afraid to ask advice for fear of being rebuked, and it will be apt to seek advice some where else. If you take an interest in your chil-The habit of treating those who are drn then they will take an interest

Probably nineteen-twentieths of the happiness you will ever have you will get at home. The independence that comes to a man when his work is over, and he feels that he has run out of the storm into the quiet harchildhood and remaining your trusted friend in maturity. Is this all the love you have for the silver haired ence whether you own your house or mother who bathed your scorching brow all through the long sleepless through all these years of labor, watching and waiting, been wasting her love on a worthless bunch of clay, who, in the rosy dawn of manhood

PRESS DAY TROUBLES.

There is trouble in the print shop No language can express, For Thursday's rolled around again, The day we go to press.

The compositors are hustling fast, Each has a dirty proof, The make-up man is eussin' In a way to raise the roof.

The devil pled a galley Of solid nonparel, The foreman's saying things to him That makes the brimstone smell.

The stenographer is jawing about The ink spot on her dress

We're trying to go to press. Everything is all "balled up," The forms are in a mess And now the old man's askink When we are going to press?

Through the room there rings aloud

A piercing hell-horn wail—

The office dog is yelping cause

They're stepped upon his tail. The pressman now is ready—but The d—d old form won't "lift" Se he whittles out a "dutchman"

And gives his quid a shift. The forms are on the press at last, The press is running great-But we've got to take them off again Forgot to change the date.

They're on again, the motor's down, We're running swift and slick; But the papers on the roller now,

And you bet is there to stick. The whole d-n bunch is mad as sin And cussin' more or less.

For h— breaks loose on Thursday,
When the paper goes to press.
