RUNVILLE.

After a very busy season we come again with a few brief items.

The Children's Day service was well attended and all were well pleased with the service, which took place the evening of the 9th inst. The program used was "Summer Voices," and the choir labored under difficulties owing to the absence of their several organists.

Our Rev. Colledge, of Williamsport, Pa., who is at present filling the vacancy made by our good Pastor Dean, on account of his illness, preached a very able sermon to a portion of his congregation at this place Sunday morning. He is a worthy young man and deserves the help and respect of the entire community.

There is nothing new at this writing; the only excitement about the place is a continuance of jangling, slurring, gossip and dissatisfaction among the neighbors. Someone will surmise something and it beats Bauman's aeroplane of last July 4th for flying and by the time it is all around is the size of the Rocky mountains. There is in our estimation nothing so degrading as this kind of work and let us keep in mind the maxium of old, to keep our own back door step clean and we will have about all we can do.

Don't forget the festival Saturday evening, June 15, on the park, held by the ball team. Detricks Orchestra from Bellefonte will furnish the music for the dance. Come and swell the crowd and have an evenings enjoyment with the rest of us.

WERE SHORT LIVED.

In the last fifty years more than 2400 towns have disappeared from the map of Kansas. The names of these towns, their location and their history are being gathered by George W. Martin, of the state historical society, and the information will be published in a pamphlet.

In the early days town building was one of the principal industries in Kansas. Many groups of settlers stopping in the midst of the prairie, would pitch tents, set up a good house or two and bestow a name on the settlement. Along would come a town-site promoter, and in a few months lots in the future metropolis of the state would be on the market. Many of these towns lived only a few months, some of them struggling along for two or three years, and some of them lasted twenty or thirty years.

The great majority, however were short-lived, but in their brief existence some of them added exciting chapters to Kansas history. Many of them, in the days when county-seat wars were in fashion, were the scene of exciting battles when rival towns attempted to take away the county records. In many cases of this kind the county-seat location was the sole reason for the towns' existence and with the loss of this important asset they died out.

In a few cases towns which have disappeared once had a population exceeding 1000. A majority of them are in the western part of the state.

WHY HE QUIT THE FARM.

"Just the other day I met a stalwart young fellow whose every appearance would indicate he was a 'son of the soil,' says a writer in Farm and Fireside. "Six years ago he left the old home. At that time he had very little education, but by steady, industrious labor he has 'swon out,' and today is a promising young lawyer. He told me that the first year he left the farm he obtained employment in a machine shop at what seemed to his mind a large sum of money, $12 a week. He worked hard for nearly three months, when one day he received a telegram from his father asking him to return at once. "Having left a delicate little mother, he rushed home with all haste, fearing to find some trouble at the end of his journey. His father met him at the station and calmly explained that his hired man had left and he could not get his hay in alone. My young hero, not daunted in the least, informed his father that he had given up his job to return home and asked what pay he was to receive for his work. The father promised a certain small sum. After two months' hard work the son asked for money to buy a suit of clothes and received it. At the end of the season, when the young man wanted a final settlement, he was put off from time to time, and at last went away to the city with an empty pocket and a heart full of resentment."

Prof. W. J. Wright, of the department of horticulture, at State College, has resigned to accept the directorship of the New York State school of agriculture at Alford university.

Anty Drudge has no Patience with the Woman who "Never gets Through."

Neighbor—"I am going shopping this afternoon. Lots of bargains advertised. Will you go with me?"

Friend—"What! Go shopping on Monday afternoon! Why I won't be done with my washing until dark."

Anty Drudge—"If you used Fels-Naptha soap, as your neighbors do, you could get done by twelve and have the afternoon for shopping."

What is the cost of your Monday wash? Isn't it what you expend of muscle strength, nerve force and health?

Do you know that you can cut this "labor cost" in two by using Fels-Naptha soap?

Fels-Naptha is the "new way" soap. It lifts the load because it is a scientific soap. It atomizes the dirt—dissolves it into minute particles; and loosens them from the fabric.

You soap the clothes with Fels-Naptha, roll them and soak for half an hour in cool or luke-warm water.

While you attend to other household duties, Fels-Naptha is doing the hard part of your washing. After rubbing lightly, rinse and the wash is done. Easy, isn't it?

Why not cut the "labor cost" in two? Try once, follow directions on the red and green wrapper, and you will know the difference.

WAR ON FAKE CURE-ALLS.

The American Medical Society Plans Nation-wide Fight.

The greatest campaign of legitimate physicians against quacks and charlatans in the profession ever undertaken is about to be started by the American Medical association.

Literally tons of evidence against hundreds of "institutes" and other cure-all establishments including several in Philadelphia, are in safe deposit vaults in Chicago and will be used in the effort to break up imposition on sufferers.

"Men high in the business world of their respective cities, who have been found to be backing these fake sanatoriums and institutes, will be included in the list of those whom we intend to arrest," declared Dr. G. D. Green, who has been active in the work of getting evidence. "We find that practically all of the fake establishments for treatment are backed by men with money, and that the 'doctors' whose wonderful cures they advertise so widely are almost always poor, broken-down members of the profession who are receiving sums as small as $20 a month for the use of their names and practicing licenses. The net to catch the crooks has been spread from ocean to ocean, and there will be many sensations when the matter is taken before the federal courts."

Combine Economy with Good Taste in Selection

We do not deplore the fact that a great many men are very particular in buying shoes. Nor do we feel sorry that others are very economical.

But it is too bad that the economical ones do not always get all they should for their money.

Men who buy foot wear at Mingle's always get new fashions and always dress their feet in the best of taste. This and economy make a combination hard to beat. Now it's these:

- Our Own at $3.00
- Cornets at 3.50
