TAFT THE CHOICE OF CONVENTION.

publican convention after Governor

Hadley, of Illinois, and Governor to permit the use of their names. The vote was: Sherman, 597; Borah, 21;

Merrillam, 20; Hadley, 14; Beveridge,

2; Gillett, 1.

Following the vote for president, the band played "America," while the aisles were cleared. The roll of states was called. Alabama yielded to New York, and J. Van Vechten Olcott came forward amid applause to name James S. Sherman, of New York, for renomination.

The "Progressive" Convention.

The convention of the Roosevelt forces was called immediately on the adjournment of the regular one, and was held in Orchestra Hall, which was hired a few hours previously and prepared for the meeting. Although no public announcement was made until late Saturday night, word of the plan was flashed about the city and before the doors were opened a crowd had collected, extending for nearly a block on Michigan Avenue.

Police reserves were summoned to handle crowds. When the doors were thrown open the people streamed in, quickly filling all the seats except those reserved for the delegates to the Republican National Convention, their alternates and the Roosevelt delegates to whom seats in the convention were refused.

Telegraph and telephone linesmen were rushed to Orchestra Hall to install wires over which news of the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt was to be flashed out. A high painting of Colonel Roosevelt was hung behind the stage, which was all in the way of decorations which could be put up on such short notice.

Roosevelt Nominated.

Colonel Roosevelt formally accepted the nomination, but on the condition that the delegates return to their homes, and sound public sentiment, later reporting at a mass convention on the choice of the people for the Presidency. The Colonel declared he was perfectly willing to step aside and let another progressive be nominated, leaving the choice to the delegates. The final nominee was promised the support of Mr. Roosevelt.

Declaration was made by Colonel Roosevelt that he would make the right if only one State sent delegates to the convention.

The resolution of nomination and acceptance address of Colonel Roosevelt fairly bristled with charge of theft and fraud in the running of the national Republican convention.

Named by Resolutions.

The resolution nominating Colonel

Roosevelt follows:—

"We delegates ad alternates to the Republican National Convention, representing a clear majority of the voters of the movement, others merely onlookers, the first formal step was taken. Governor Hiram Johnson, of California, was empowered to appoint a committee of seven members to confer with Colonel Roosevelt and formulate a plan of action.

No definite idea of the plan to be followed could be obtained and it was said that a period of several weeks may elapse before Colonel Roosevelt will decide. Governor Johnson in the meantime will act as field marshal and in co-operation with Colonel Roosevelt will decide upon the membership of the committee of seven and guide the preliminary work of organization.

Bandanna as Battle Flag.
The bandanna handkerchief was adopted as the "Roosevelt battle flag". Most of the delegates wore flaming bandannas tied around their arms and others were distributed by the hundreds to the crowd. The bandanna, it was explained, stands for the plain people who ordinarily use them.

WHERE TAFT FAILED.

When President Taft entered upon the duties of the presidency, he was one of the best liked men in the land. He was not the choice of his party, but was forced upon the convention by his predecessor, who told the party to "take Taft or else."

The statement among republicans against a third term was stronger than now and Taft was taken to escape "me."

Nevertheless the people had much admiration for Taft and it looked as if he would usher in that era of peace and good will that characterized the administration of Monroe.

That the president is big hearted and broad minded has often been demonstrated. Unlike the man he succeeded he has had no quarrel with congress or individuals. Where he could not find a suitable republican, he has appointed democrats to office. He even went out of his way to honor a distinguished jurist by making Associate Justice White, chief justice of the supreme court, though White is a democrat and served in the confederate army. He is also a Catholic. The president was informed the appointment would injure him but he replied that White deserved the distinction.

But he failed woefully in other directions. His greatest mistake was his endorsement of the vicious Payne-Aldrich tariff bill which he declared was the best tariff measure ever passed by an American congress. He added to his mistakes by openly approving Aldrich and Cannon, and permitting Ballinger to resign with a strong letter of commendation.

These are the chief complaints against the president and they have told heavily against him.

He could not see that a change had come upon the people and that they demanded a new deal. He accepted the arrow vision of his brother, who has been the real boss of the administration. The trusts and corporations and men of great fortunes had been given control of the republican party. La Follette fought valiantly to divorce the party from these corruptors. After years of hard work La Follette was joined by Dolliver, Cummins, Bristow, Clapp, and others who became known as insurgents. This band of men was determined to reform the republican party. To do this they knew that Cannon, Aldrich, Hale, Burrows, Depew, Crane, Guggenheim, Lodge and other agents of the interests must be driven from the party and that the party must be brought back to the people.

Here was Taft's chance. But instead of accepting it he not only fought the insurgents, but sought to drive them out of the party, meanwhile retaining the Cannons, Aldrichs, Craes and Lodges.

The load proved too heavy for him.—Bulletin.

HALF MOON TWP.

Chas. Thompson and wife, of Tyrone, spent a few days at this place visiting their friends.

Calvin Morrison, who has been employed at Orviston, is home suffering from an injured limb, caused by falling from a ladder 25 feet in height; we are glad to state that he is getting along nicely.

Rev. Frank P. Fisher and wife came up in their auto last week to visit their parents again.

Bush Davidson spent Saturday and Sunday in Unionville.

Monday afternoon was a delightful time for Winifred Wilson and her many friends when they assembled there in honor of her seventh birthday and certainly did enjoy themselves to the utmost in playing all kinds of games.

At 5 o'clock refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake, candy, sandwiches, pickles, etc., which was fine and enjoyed. Winifred received many very nice presents.

Among those who were present were:

Lada Branstetter, Eliza Nowlin, Dorothy Morrison, Edna Fisher, Mary

Beck, Frances and Hazel Beck, Edith and Erma Davidson, Mildred and Clarence Wrye, Virgie Spicer, Beatrice Walte, Emily Mattern, Jane, Elsie and Nellie Gray, Asbury Wilson; among the older ones were Lorena

Stevens, Bird Wrye, Mrs. C. O. Beck,

Mrs. Isaac Beck, Mrs. Eliza Taylor,

Mrs. J. C. Stevens and two lady friends, and Hugh DeLong, grandfather of Winifred. At about 6 o'clock they departed for their homes wishing Winifred many more such events.

Returned From Fishing Trip.

Father Fisher, of Morrisdale, Lawrence Flood, of Grass Flat, John Mc-Credell and J. T. Stewart, both of Munson, compose a quartet of Isaak Walton's followers who recently returned from a successful fishing trip to the head water of Mosquito Creek.

They caught 532 brook trout in one week and had plenty of time besides for other sport. They tell one on Father Fisher which goes on to relate how he fell out of bed one night while dreaming of catching big trout out of the run. The boys camped at what is known as the old Harding Camp on Northford Run, John McCredell said

Rev. Winey, of the United Brethren church, was the officiating minister. Fern Minnemyer, a brother of the bride, had the honor of presenting her to the groom, while Miss Nora Shank acted as maid of honor. The couple were attended by Miss Anna Keeler, sister of the groom, and Mr. Ralph Minnemyer, of Johnstown, brother of the bride, as bridesmaid and groomsmen, respectively. After the ceremony and congratulations were over the wedding party were tendered a delicious wedding supper, and later departed on the evening train for Williamsport, where they will reside. Both Mr. and Mrs. Keeler are young people who have many warm friends, and this paper joins with them in wishing the newly-weds a prosperous wedded life.

Made ill by Eating Roast Beef.

Shortly after the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner and little son at Beech Creek last Tuesday afternoon from Buffalo, Mrs. Gardner was taken very ill and suffered intense pain. Soon the husband and child were afflicted in the same way, and two physicians were summoned, who worked with the patients for several hours. It developed that the Gardner family had eaten their dinner upon the dining car that day while en route from Buffalo, and had partaken of roast beef which caused ptomaine poisoning. They recovered the next day.
