

WILSON STANDS ON HIS RECORD

Josephus Daniels of Democratic National Committee Wants Voters to Make an Investigation.

WILL WIN LEGION OF FRIENDS

Blunder is Not to Play a Part in Democratic Campaign, Declares Publicity Chairman.

New York, Aug. 8.—Josephus Daniels, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Democratic National Committee said to-day:

"Eight years ago during the presidential campaign of 1904 I came to New York and being a member of the Democratic National Committee I dropped in at the headquarters of the committee. I found the literary bureau of the committee very actively engaged in perusing the volumes of Theodore Roosevelt. When I saw every desk 'The Winning of the West,' 'The Life of Thomas H. Benton,' and a half dozen others of the works of the then republican nominee for President, I wondered whether or not I had gotten into the right place.

"I was immediately set aright, however, when I was informed that the literary young men were engaged in culling from those books some of the many denunciations and bitter criticisms and attacks made by Theodore Roosevelt upon public men and measures, and his aspersions upon great representative bodies of our people, such as workmen and farmers.

"I found them preparing to send forth broadcast all over the land such excerpts from the writings of Theodore Roosevelt as:

"Cowboys are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."

"Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land, the farmers."

"They (workmen) who object to government by injunction are not in sympathy with men of good minds and sound civic morality."

"They quoted from what he said about the Quakers, that those who would not fight were traitors to their country."

"They said that when the farmers and workmen and the Quakers came to know what Theodore Roosevelt had written about them they would rise up with wrath and indignation and bury Theodore Roosevelt beneath an avalanche of votes. They said that Roosevelt would not answer that exposure of his views, and, of course, he never did. I agreed with them that it was the proper thing to do to herd all these utterances through the country.

"As to whether or not that sort of campaigning had any effect, the result of the campaign eight years ago speaks for itself.

"The republican party is attempting to do to-day the same sort of thing that the democrats tried in 1908. The democrats out-Roddenberg Mr. Roddenberg. They were eight years ahead of him in this sort of thing. It didn't work with us then and it will not work with them now.

Stands on Record.

"The attempt to attack Gov. Wilson because of certain statements which he made in writing history and in commenting upon events of history as they appeared to him as historian, will fall signally. As one great metropolitan newspaper pointed out, Mr. Roddenberg and his kind are simply 'blowing against the wind.' Governor Wilson is running for President on his record as a public man, and with that record the public is fairly well conversant, and it will continue to learn more as the campaign progresses.

"He is running for President on his record as governor of New Jersey, what he said and did in that capacity rather than what he wrote as a historian, chronicling events and commenting upon them as they appeared to an impartial observer whose duty it is to write of things as they are rather than as they should be or as he would have them.

"Our republican brethren are entitled to all the thunder they can make out of Governor Wilson's writings. I hope they will read them carefully and thoroughly. They will be able to gain a great deal of valuable information and when the context is read along with the excerpts which have been taken from his works for the purpose of placing him in a false light, I have no fear as to the results. All that is needed is a thorough understanding.

"Ingersoll sought to disprove Bible truths and to assail Holy Writ by the same methods which the republicans are seeking to assail Gov. Wilson."

SENATOR GORE, OF OKLAHOMA:

"The closing sentence of his speech will become the battle hymn of democracy in the pending campaign: 'I thank God and take courage.' It is at once a psalm of praise and is a summons to patriotic duty."

HORTICULTURE AT STATE.

New Building for This Study Yet Uncompleted.

The Pennsylvania legislature at its coming session this winter, will be asked by the trustees of the Pennsylvania State College to appropriate $50,000 for the completion of the new horticultural building of that institution. The building as far as completed has cost the state $40,000 and when members of the legislature learn that the expenditure of $50,000 additional will give Pennsylvania the most complete and best equipped single horticultural building in the United States there will hardly be any serious objections raised against making the appropriation. Any doubt that might exist ought to be set at rest when members are told that wonderfully increased interest that is being taken in horticultural work and of the thorough and practical training the department is giving to the growing number of young men who apply for the course each year.

The building thus far completed has a brownstone base and it will be finished with tapestry brick. The first floor, which is now occupied by the department of horticulture, contains two commodious offices, one small office, two laboratories, two classrooms and a dark room.

A tabulated statement of the number of students in the department of horticulture for the years from 1907-8 to 1911-12, inclusive, indicates that many young men of Pennsylvania are awake to the fact that increased production must in large measure solve the problem of the high cost of living. Thirteen courses of study are listed and in practically every one of these there has been a great increase in the number of students. For instance, in 1907 there were twenty-two students in plant propagation, against 210 in 1911. The students in market gardening have increased from seven in 1907 to 112 in 1911; in greenhouse construction, from four in 1907 to twenty in 1911; in vegetable forcing, from four in 1907 to forty-two in 1911. The winter course students, largely farmers' sons with limited time increased from six to seventy-five in 1911.

Next year Pennsylvania State College will graduate from thirty-five to forty students who have pursued four-year courses in horticulture and landscape gardening. Aside from those that graduate there are hundreds of men who take short courses, varying in length from a few months to two years.

At the present time some of the most extensive experiments with apples, asparagus, tomatoes and cabbage ever conducted in America are being carried on at Pennsylvania State College. In Professor R. L. Warts Pennsylvania State College has one of the foremost authorities on horticulture in the United States and his experimental work is watched by those similarly engaged in the leading experimental stations of this country.

Warns Farmers Against Pest.

Prof. H. A. Surface, the State zoologist, is out with a warning to farmers whose cornstalks have failed to develop and have found that the leaves have turned red. He says that the trouble is due to the corn root aphid, which is a relative of the fruit tree pest known as the woolly aphis.

The pest, says Dr. Surface, is sometimes called a louse and is worse where corn follows grass, or where a field has been weedy the year before. It is a green bug, with a habit of biting the roots of cornstalks and so poisoning the fiber that growth is stunted.

The singular thing about it is that ants take care of it for the sake of a sweet liquid which it secretes, and which is an article of ant diet. The way to get rid of aphid is to use nitrate of soda very freely and plow up the field in the fall.

Are Coming Back.

It is stated that the use of bicycles has increased over fifty per cent since last year from what it was the year before. And the reason for this is the state-wide movement whereby the roads are being put into much better condition. The way the roads had been for many years the riding of the bicycle became a serious proposition. But when the roads going to and from one town to another are good there is a pleasure to ride one of the two-wheeled machines and the price of the machine having been reduced until it is within the reach of almost everybody makes the number to gradually increase.

Somehow or other it doesn't seem to require so much agility to pat yourself on the back as to kick your self.

BEE'S DON'T DIE WITH OWNERS.

They Don't Even Follow the Dead Keeper.

H. A. Surface, state economic zoologist, who has met with considerable success in nailing time-worn canards, such as that rattlesnakes climb trees, that hoop snakes exist and that the San Jose scale can be killed by giving an infected tree a dose of medicine internally, now rises to the defense of the lowly and somewhat unpopular bee and corrects a few popular superstitions about the winged red-hot poker.

The bee, like the snakes, has long been the subject of fallacious beliefs, principally because its manners and customs and means of offense and defense made it less susceptible to investigation than some other kinds of living creatures.

Two of the most curious fallacies that Surface pronounces as being without any foundation deal with the death of the human owner of a hive of honey bees.

"Bees do not follow the body of their keeper at the time of his death," says Surface, "and the idea is absurd to the effect that they should be notified of his death by knocking upon the hive. It is not true that bees formerly owned by a person who died will not thrive. It is remarkable how deeply rooted is this fallacy."

Correction of these mistaken ideas concerning bees is merely an incident in a valuable treatise on bee-keeping by Professor Surface, which the division of economic zoology has just published as one of its free bimonthly bulletins. It is one of the most valuable monographs which the state department of agriculture has ever issued. It is of value not only to the bee-keeper or prospective bee-keeper, but it makes very interesting reading for any one because of the intelligent way in which it deals with an insect little understood.

"PADDLE WHEELS" BARRED.

Auditor General Puts Ban on Such Devices at Fairs.

Milton Standard says: Remember the "paddle wheel" man at the carnival? He will not be at the Milton fair this year, neither will any of the paddle wheel fakirs, or roulette prize men. Secretary Johnson has turned down over a hundred requests for concessions of this nature at the Milton fair. The result will be that the midway this year will be exceptionally clean and attractive with first class shows and novelties.

The action of the Milton fair official was necessary under a ruling from a state official.

"Wheels of fortune" or "paddle wheels" are gambling devices, whether the prizes given are china dogs, pen knives, poll parrots, 50 cent pieces or vases, according to Auditor General A. E. Sisson in passing on the protests against payment of the state appropriation to the Cambria Agriculture Association and the Ebensburg Agricultural society.

The auditor general has been considering and investigating complaints against the two Cambria county exhibitions since March and his opinions are interesting in view of what he decides shall be considered gambling devices. The Cambria County Association is held to have permitted such devices, but the Ebensburg fair officers to have chased the would-be manipulator of the "paddle wheel" off the grounds and therefore to be entitled to the cash which the state allowed.

The auditor general, in his opinion in the Cambria association case, that men were given concessions "to operate paddle wheel devices where imitation dogs, vases and other things of value were prizes to be won, depending upon the turn of the wheel. The persons who 'played the wheel' paid from five to ten cents and at least three of these 'wheels' were in operation during the fair, some having as high as twelve imitation dogs, vases and parrots, with offers to give cash."

Sunbury Man Leaves Wife.

Leaving behind a note on which was scrawled, "Good bye, I am leaving you," and a $5 bill, L. J. Hinkle, of Sunbury, left a wife and two children last week and fled with a girl and a dog from Milton. The pair have been traced as far as Pittsburgh.

Stimulant or Tonic?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a stimulant. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. You have the steady, even gain that comes from such a medicine. Ask your doctor all about this. Trust him fully, and always do as he says. He knows.

Indian Marriage Notice.

The Poplar Standard, published by the Indians of Poplar, alley county, Montana, thus tells of the approaching wedding of two prominent residents of that section:

"Permission has been granted to Little Bull and Mrs. Grayelk Ironbear for the issuance of a marriage license. Little Bull is a widower, 46 years old, and has been married four times previously. Mrs. Grayelk Ironbear is 45 years old and has been married two times previously. Little Bull's father was Braveman and his mother was White-faced Woman. Mrs. Ironbear's father was Lonelek and her mother, Look-at-the-day."
