Woman's World

First Chinese Girl to Become a Legal Voter.

MISS MYBA LEE

Miss Myra Lee, a comely Chinese girl, is the first woman of the orient to register as a voter in this country. Miss Lee is an ardent suffragist and will make teaching her life work. First she will teach in a Los Angeles school and later will go to China, probcate the principles of woman suffrage, as well as English and literature, into the minds of Chinese children.

Miss Lee, after graduating with honors from the grammar schools of Los Angeles, received a diploma from the Polytechnic high school, specializing in literature. Her father, Lee Kwai Sing, is a wealthy resident of Los Angeles and is on intimate terms with many of the republican leaders in China.

THAT HOMEMADE LOOK.

The Value of the Flatiron In Dressmaking.

Few home dressmakers fully realize the value of the hot iron when making a garment. It is not enough to finish a skirt or a gown and then flatten it here and there at the bulkiest places. The irons should be ready for use throughout the whole making, and the additional trouble will be well rewarded. On thick cloth the seams should wooden surface, opened with the iron or finger and then covered with a cloth wrung out of cold water and froned over this until dry. In this pressing process the iron should not be too hot, but great strength and weight should

Velvet and plush may be pressed by placing the material-with the open seam slightly dampened by the fingers -over the bristles of an ordinary clothesbrush or by setting a hot iron on end and drawing over the face of it the dampened seam on the wrong side of the material.

To make dress material impervious muslin cloths large enough to cover the entire width of the material. Lay the cloths with the right side up. Smooth both the material and the muslin cloths with the hands until perfectly flat and press with a hot iron.

Jane Addams to Deliver Address.

Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, is the first woman to be asked to deliver the commencement oration at Bryn Mawr college. Miss Addams recently attended the exercises at which the fellowship awards were announced and was unanimously chosen by the board to deliver the oration. Dean Sophonisba P. Breckinridge of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Anna Shaw both took part in the awarding of fellowships. The European fellowships, which are the chief academic honors of Bryn Mawr, were awarded to Norah Cam of Herefordshire, England, and to Frances Allen Foster of Providence, R. I. Miss Cam has held the Maria Hopper fellowship for two years. Miss Foster took her A. B. degree at Brown in 1909, since which time she has been studying in the graduate school of Bryn Mawr, holding a scholarship in English for two years and the fellowship in English for the present year.

Cotton Corduroys.

So many women like the veivet fin-Ished corduroys that they will doubtless be glad to see the same weave introduced into the cotton fabrics.

The new spring cotton corduroys much resemble the velvet ones, though they have not, of course, the same brilliant finish. There is the same cordlike weave, however, and the cotton corduroys will doubtless prove as good for hard service as the other members of the corduroy family. And, being of cotton and nothing to be hurt about them, these new spring fabrics may very easily be washed, which will make them more useful than ever.

Dictaphone For Blind,

The blind stenographers are especially benefited by the dictaphone, which enables them to use the type writer as well as their seeing sisters. Many young women who use it find it disagreeable because of unpleasant boises, but no doubt this will in time he obvioted.

CLUBS.

"Club-a number of persons associated for a common purpose or mu-tual benefit. Club—to beat with a heavy stick."—Webster.

Note a difference between "a com-mon purpose" and "mutual benefit." A common purpose may include benefit to persons not members of the club, as a civic club. Mutual benefit confines the objects of the club to its members, as a social club. Metaphorically speaking, both may use another club-a heavy stick-to beat outsiders into subservicency to their purposes and policies.

The need for civic clubs is created by (1) absence of laws for the conservation of the common weal; (2) failure to enforce existing laws for the common weal; (3) insufficiency or inefficiency of police force; (4) ignorance or non-observance of laws of physical and social health; (5) class ignorance of domestic morals, and (6) poverty that deprives of purpose in life. To these may be added inattention to public school problems and slow appreciation of the educative value of even elementary beauty in well-made and well-kept streets and alleys. Civic clubs are generally composed of well meaning, progressive, uplifting women whose husbands put in their wives' names their religion, their property-everything except their politics. On this account in many places civic clubs are more than a need they are a necessity. And, in proportion as they meet necessity, they are a blessing. They cannot enact and execute laws, but they can advise, instruct, persuade, and, by example, influence. They can use the prestige of character, intelligence, personality and property.

Each of these wisely used is more or less influential with municipal ofably to Canton, where she will incul- ficers, other women's husband, the uneducated, the indifferent, the laggard, the poor. And all, in combina-tion, constitute a force of moral suasion which acts like a big stick for beating into shape the otherwise in-harmonious features of municipal life. The result is mutual benefit in the est and broadest sense. Then there are innumerable clubs of narrower purpose, mostly social, exclusive, to that extent selfish, and therefore not among the most valuable community assets. In fact some of them, formed for the purpose of housing aims and associations or of hiding habits admittedly not proper for the home, are, generally speaking, distinctly harmful, notwithstanding their benevolent, philanthropic, or charitable attachments which blos-som out once or twice a year. And yet, under the quiet operation of a mutually protective policy. Among the members, a cumulative force generated by an offensive and defensive alliance of interlocking interests may be gathered and brought to bear upon the community to compel toleration if not recognition of a doubtful right to cultivate habits calculated to lower the moral tone of citizenship, even to control public affairs more positively be spread out on an uncovered round and directly than a town council. Thus, as a whole, such a club may become a big stick for beating a town into subserviancy to ideals of negative value.

By such methods also the better classes of men in small towns are often drawn into all sorts of clubsgood, bad and indifferent-with the sinister motive on the part of members of making membership attractive

And when once you have become a member of any kind of a club and have found that the common purpose is conserved by details not by your conscience or that mutual Very delicate materials, like crepe de benefit is fostered by false ideals or say so unless your interests of all kinds are beyond the reach of local influence. Quietly pay your dues, keep your observations to yourself and be "too busy" with other things to par's ticipate in the proffered benefits. That the business way of dealing with things one can't endorse, and the only safe way open to a man in local business. Not that you will be pursued for hurt, but will be forgotten or let alone with the same result. An invisible boycott will become a to water spots dip in cold water two stick, and you will learn that Teddy is not the only man on earth who carries a big stick. Your next door neighentire width of the material. Lay the bor may be another without your dress material between these two knowing it until it is too late to dodge. Literary clubs and church clubs are the scarcest, smallest, most exclusive and least harmful of all, partly because they live the one on brains and the other on brotherly love-scarce commodities both; and partly because neither the common purpose nor the mutual benefit results in social pres-tige or pecuniary profit. There is no timber in it of sufficient commercial size to make a big stick.

Among common local clubs, if there be any, the most peripatitic and the least umbrageous is the political clubs. You may find it on street corners, in hotel lobbies, in saloons, in smoking cars, in country stores. It's main object is the discussion of politics, of candidates for public office, ways and means of catching votes. And when the election is over you are no better off than before unless you are the treasurer of the club, the candidate elected on a party to a deal in which party distinctions do not hinder division of the spoils. You may be hounded by epithets compounded with profane expletives from party leaders who got "the swag." That is all. You dropped the big stick when you dropped your ballot.

Do Well the Present Duty. It is a wisely expressed German proverb, "Do well the duty that is nearest thee." It goes without saying that it is always well in the hap-py experience of those who faith-fully do the present duty. I personally ask myself what is the nearest duty for me to do on the Lord's Day? The answer so clearly revealed that there can be no mistake. It is to "Remember the Sabbath day" and not to forget it. It is to "keep it holy" and not to desecrate. It is to "obey God's Commandment" and not to break it. It is a Sabbath for needed rest and not a day for an excursion run. It is the Lord's Day and not mine for personal pleasure. it for a selfish purpose violates the eighth as also the fourth command-"Thou shalt not steal." Some ment, one asks "what's the use for you to write it up on this wise? You can't stop that Sunday excursion train to Gettysburg." There is One, an Om-nipotent One, a just God who can and will call a "stop" to all unnecessary and unlawful Sunday trains sure as He once sent a visitation of destruction upon a disobedient world.

OPENING OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Largest Attendance in Years Marks
Beginning of Present Term.
The Bellefonte public schools opened on Monday of last week, with the largest enrollment in years, totalling 800 in all departments. The new building is filled to the limit, even to the fitting up of the Library and Directors' room for use of recitation purposes. 240 pupils have enrolled in the high school, making it possibly the largest First Grade high school in the state in a town of 4200 population.

Out of a corps of 21 teachers, 16 were in attendance at the Summer Sessions of Columbia, Harvard and State College, and have brought to the work this fall a spirit of enthusiasm and progressiveness never before exhibited in our schools.

Among the popular extensions to the work are the Manual Training and Courses in the high Commercial school, and the course in sewing in the grades. The Manual Training work will be under the direct super-vision of the Department of Industrial Engineering at State College, thus assuring that it will be organized and conducted under expert guidance. The Commercial work will be conducted by Miss Jessie Graham who has just come from Staten Island New York City, where she has been doing special work for the Underwood Typewriter Company. The course in sewing for grade V-VIII. inclusive, has been extended and is now practically the same that is given in the schools of Boston. The introduction of this vocational work has been the means of bringing back a number of pupils who withdrew during the last few years.

Owing to the increased cost of educating pupils, the School Board has decided to raise the tuition in the high school from $2.50 per month to $4.00; and in the grade from $2.00 to $2.50.

But One War Governor Left. One of the governors who visited Altoona 50 years ago to lay plans to One of the governors who visited Altoona 50 years ago to lay plans to strengthen the arms of Abraham Lincoln still survives in age and feebleness extreme. This is William Sprague who was elected governor, of Rhode Island as a Democrat, was at a later date a senator of the United States and contracted an unfortunate marriage with Kate Chase, the ambitious daughter of Salmon P. Chase, then chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. Governor Sprague is too ill to take any interest in the stirring events of those far off historic days.
