This Auto a Suicide?

The all important question at issue in Lewistown at present is "Did Dr. Irvin Quigley's automobile commit suicide or was its destruction brought about through human agency?" Sev-eral boys playing about the old electric plant of the Penn. Central company, which has been turned into a garage to house President Quigley's Baker electric runabout, say the mathine threw a fit Sunday afternoon, butting head on into the doors until they were thrown open, when it took a ram against an electric light pole, caught fire from a feed wire and was burned to ashes in a few minutes. Others say the boys turned the power lever and the machine ran against the doors, the solid rubber tires reboundter an illness of two weeks duration ing, and that in trying to escape from of heart disease. > The New Sim Store at State College. On Tuesday evening, September 17th, Sim the Clothier opened his new clothing store at State College. It is located in the room formerly occupied by Pierce Brother's in the Nittany Inn Building, facing on College Avenue. The room has been re-fitted with handsome new fixtures, which with the new, large and handsome stock of clothing and gents furnishing goods, makes it one of the finest and best appointed clothing stores in Central Pennsylvania.

On Tuesday evening it was crowded with people, who kept coming and going, inspecting the store and conveniences for serving the public.

Can It Be Matched?

No court has been held in Elk county ty since last January, that is the court of over and terminer. This is a record that speaks for itself and shows conclusively that "little Elk" is one of the most law abiding coun ties in the state. This is quite a difference from "ye olden days" as a pioneer citizen remarked recently. Ridgway Record.
