

Milady's Mirror

Laughing a Wrinkle Cure.

Laughing is one of the very best remedies for wrinkles. The old saying, "Laugh and grow fat," is certainly a good rule to observe, for laughing is usually accompanied by a happy, care free mind, and there is no better wrinkle eradicator than a contented disposition.

It is simply wonderful how smooth and soft a face becomes if its owner is given to frequent outbursts of hearty laughter. Smiling alone won't do. Laugh with your mouth and eyes and don't be afraid that it will spoil the beauty of your features, for it will not. It may in course of time produce dimpled cheeks or chin, but these are a much coveted possession and sure to increase and enhance one's beauty.

If ill health is the cause of wrinkles the best and only thing to do is to consult a doctor. He will soon find out what the trouble is and will treat you accordingly. And why should you wait until the wrinkles have become so deep and pronounced that it will be a difficult matter to remove them?

If the wrinkles were occasioned by worry look the trouble square in the face and see if it is necessary to worry to such an extent if there is not one way out of it. In nine cases out of ten the trouble will seem much reduced on second sight, for no sorrow is so severe that there is not at least one ray of sunshine to be got out of it if one has only the firm intention of finding it.

Treating the Hair After Sea Bathing.

While salt and water very weak is a good tonic for the hair and scalp, sea bathing with the salt left in the hair is about the worst possible thing, and this is the month when women go down to the seashore and stay around in the surf hours at a time.

As a daily shampoo with clear soft water would soon take out all the luster and leave an almost dry scalp, the best way to manage is to keep the head covered, and the best thing for a cap is silk rubber cloth. This can be had now in so many tints as well as patterns, checks, stripes, etc., that there is no excuse for such a cap being unbecoming. But the cap should cover the hair, and a narrow rubber run through a hem will keep it in place.

After the surf riding or the swim the hair should be left hang as long as possible before being dressed, and if there seems any dampness use a little brush—a toothbrush is good—with a few drops of cologne, parting the locks at each interval and rubbing the scalp over it grows. But if there is any salt in the hair it will have to be sprayed out. This does not mean a thorough shampoo, but a good spray with perfectly fresh, clean water, first warm, then cold, and a good rubbing after. The idea is to get the hair dry without the real washing entailed by a regular shampoo.

Good Freckle Lotion.

For freckles there is a lotion which is very good indeed. It consists of chopped cucumbers or cucumbers cut in slices with all the juice in them. They are then bound upon the face in such a way that the juice will dry on.

For freckled and chapped hands there is a bath of witch hazel and cucumber juice in equal parts. This can be applied to the skin with a little sponge. After it has been on fifteen minutes it can be washed off with soap and water, for there is something unpleasant about the nicest lotion when it is allowed to dry upon the skin.

The summer skin is a matter of much anxiety, for in the summer all would have a nice complexion, yet it is extremely difficult when the sunshine brings its blemishes, and the very winds are laden with tan and freckles.

The Time For Massage.

Night is the time to massage the face for the removal of wrinkles. The tired lines must be smoothed out and the muscles of the face braced up before sleep is sought, so that all strain and tension are removed from the features during sleep.

First all dust should be taken away from the skin. Many women will say in reply to this: "There is no dust or grime to remove. My face is quite clean." You are making a big mistake there, for it is really quite impossible to prevent the pores of the skin from collecting some dust during the day.

Sunburned Faces.

Orange flower cream (soothing for sunburned faces) is made as follows: Melt two ounces of white wax in a double boiler, add to it four ounces of oil of sweet almonds and when barely hot remove it from the fire and add to it four ounces of orange flower water.

Beat it with a fork till it is light and creamy, then pour it into small jars, which should be tightly covered. Keep it in a cool place.

To Remove Moth Patches.

To remove moth patches from the skin apply a solution of common baking soda to the patches with a soft cloth or camel's hair brush. Repeat the process several times a day for three days. Allow the soda to dry on, then cleanse the skin of the face with a bran bath. Repeat the treatment if necessary.

CIVIC SPIRIT OF PITTSBURGH.

In the fifty years ending with the taking of the United States census of 1910, Pittsburgh, Pa., grew from a town of 49,217 to a city of 539,961 inhabitants. That is, in the period named it gained almost half a million in population. In the decade preceding 1860 it gained only about 3000. From 1755, when Fort Duquesne was burned and abandoned by the French and Indians and the site was taken for Fort Pitt, up to the middle of the last century its growth was slow. Pittsburgh's rapid rise did not begin until after 1870. It is now the eighth city of the country and its prospects for getting ahead of some of those that rank it are very good.

With the passing years, Pittsburgh seems to develop more and more a civic spirit that recognizes no obstacles and its enterprise and energy have apparently been felt throughout all of the contiguous territory. In 1909 the city of Allegheny was annexed to the larger community. The greater Pittsburgh of today has an area of over 40 square miles, as against 28 square miles in the original city. Several populous boroughs now outside the corporate limits will undoubtedly become annexed before long. Millions have recently been expended in various municipal improvements, bonds to the amount of $3,000,000 being voted for the filtering of water alone. There have been many and costly street improvements; precautions involving large expenditures have been taken against floods. Pittsburgh, moreover, is well in advance of its sister cities in work looking toward floodwater control and utilization for both power and navigation. And now the commissioners of Allegheny county in which Pittsburgh is situated, have approved a plan, involving the expenditure of from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 for the opening of thicker settlements of that part of the city's area lying beyond the South Side hills. These hills form, in a sense, a barrier to Pittsburgh's natural expansion. Beyond them lies a district peculiarly adapted to suburban growth. This territory at present may be reached only by steep inclines, operated by cable railways, which connect above with trolley cars. Authority is now to be asked of the court and grand jury of the county by the commissioners for issue of the necessary bonds wherewith to meet the cost of constructing two more great tunnels through these hills. This authority will undoubtedly be granted, and the work will then be undertaken immediately.

With the area beyond the South Side hills thus made easily accessible, Pittsburgh will have an opportunity for growth along lines denied it at present. The city, of course, will bear the greater part of the cost of these tunnels, but it can well afford to do so. It has been the experience of Pittsburgh as of other progressive cities that such improvements spell gain rather than loss to the public treasury in the long run, and Pittsburgh seems to be ready to give enthusiastic and generous support to every project that promises to make the community a better place for business and residence.

Liver Ailments Cause Others.

The liver is a very sensitive organ and is very easily affected. Just the instant it becomes deranged the results through its inability to properly assist in removing the poisonous waste matter from the body. Among the many manifestations of liver trouble are biliousness, jaundice, sick headaches, constipation, irritability, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble. In such cases, where the primary fault lies with the liver, the proper thing to do, of course, is to restore that organ to its natural healthy condition, when, unless it has been neglected too long, the trouble soon vanishes.

We know of no better remedy for liver complaint and the various ailments arising from imperfect liver action than Rexall Little Liver Pills. They are carefully prepared from a formula which has been found eminently satisfactory for the relief of liver and attendant ailments. We earnestly recommend them to you, with the guarantee that if they do not give relief, we will refund your money. Price, 25 cents. Sold in this community only at our store.

British Submarine Sinks.

The British submarine B-2 was rammed by the Hamburg American liner Amerika in the English channel while manoeuvring in the fog off Goodwin on Friday. The crew of 15 were drowned, Lieutenant Bulleyne, the second officer in command, being the only survivor. The liner's prow cut the submarine squarely in two. The submarine had just risen to the surface when the Amerika, going at half speed on account of the fog, loomed up so close that it was impossible to avert a collision.

Bad Speller, But Honest.

A dispatch from Washington says: The treasury department has received from a man in Decatur, Ia., this letter inclosing 2 cents: Onkel Sam, United States Treasury: Hereby I send you 2 cents which I owe you by mistake. I were sending a little article with the mail and put a slip of writing in with after sum time I thought I did not do right and regret. So excuse me.

BUCK DEER ARE SCARCE.

Hunters Advocate Five or Ten Years' Absolute Protection.

From all accounts there is a scarcity of buck deer in Pennsylvania, and the state game commission is being urged by hunters and others interested in game preservation to recommend to the legislature a closed season for all deer. Numerous letters on the subject are being received at the office of the commission, and some of the writers suggest that the killing of deer be stopped for five or ten years.

There is no scarcity of any other kind of deer than bucks. The killing of does and fawns is now prohibited in this state, male deer, with horns, being the only kind that may be shot. This restriction, it is declared, has caused a shortage of male deer in Pennsylvania.

The controversy is assuming a fast and furious state in the correspondence addressed to the state game commission, and parts of the state where female deer are comparatively plentiful are demanding that the shooting of bucks be stopped.

Typhoid Fever Time.

At this season of the year the nights are cooler, and the housefly, the obnoxious carrier of infection, is most anxious to secure entrance to the home. Guard well against this by keeping your screens in good order, and using your swatter industriously. Because of this increased fly danger and for other reasons the milk supply is more likely to become infected at this time. We wish to call attention to the importance of the pasteurization of all milk used in the home. The process is such a simple one that no one can afford to neglect it. Here it is, cut it out and preserve it. It may save your family much suffering.

In a small tin pall place a saucer. In the saucer stand a bottle of milk leaving the cap or other cover on the bottle. Now pour sufficient hot water (not so hot as to break the bottle) into the pall to fill the same within three or four inches of top of bottle and then stand the pall and its contents on the stove. The instant the water begins to boil remove the bottle of milk from the pall and cool it as rapidly as possible. Keep the bottle covered when not in use. By carefully employing this method all disease producing germs will be destroyed without affecting the food value or flavor of the milk.
