LETTER FROM FREEPORT, ILL. Dear Editor: The election is over and my wish was fulfilled, that Woodrow Wilson be elected to the highest honor of this great nation, as President. Your Centre Democrat reaches Democratic governor and the whole later.
Democratic county ticket of Stevenson county was elected. Not one Re-O. Stiver got on my rig and went along. The first place I stopped at I saw the Mrs. from the buggy; I knew her right away and they were just ready to eat supper. She was a daugh-Weber, of Rebersburg. She is one of the old fashioned cooks and the table was well ladened. On Sunday we had a good chicken roast hitched up in his son's rig and took me to my older sister, Hannah Kale's grave, about six miles from his place, where she was buried August 26, 1872, and two of her children, in the Central graveyard. I enjoyed my visit and they said the same to me when I left, inviting me back. He is an old soldier and a well-read man; I could have talked another day and listened to him but my sons are away every day shreading and husking corn with the shreader. I was plowing with the Thursday, while plowing with a 3horse riding plow the line caught under tongue and one horse commenced to back and threw me back of the plow and broke the casting off at the tongue. I rolled away far enough so I did not get hurt much. I had a walking plow at home but I could not walk so I thought I would take the corn wagon and go out and see what I could do in the cornfield to practice husking. I had the team alongside the corn rows, but I had to watch the wagon and sometime I would hit the boys, but at last I learned to grab the ear with the left hand while I threw with the right hand and towards the last I got onto it; on Friday morning Ellis gave me his watch so I could come home at 12 o'clock; at the breakfast table I took a big piece of bread and put it in my hip pocket for a lunch, and I tried to fill my 50 bushel box. It took me six hours and I never worked faster, but I went home and unloaded and was 3 o'clock when I went. I can't make the 100 bushels a day, only 75. I can husk and crib it at 70 years of age. Ellis had 45 acres yielding over 100 bushels to the acre. Joe husked 16 acres where the grubs were in; he only got 400 bushels of corn; corn out of the field sells at 50 cents per double bushel. Potatoes were a big crop. Joe, my son, had 900 bushels; Odes Garberick, after he came home from John Hoy's funeral, raised 1300 bush-els off eight acres, selling at 35 cents a bushel. Garberick put 1200 bushels in the cellar; he sold out of the cellar this spring for $1.90 to $1.25 a bushel. The early potatoes sold from arm. cents down to 50 cents. My son and the farmers here plant their late po-tatoes from the first of June to the 10th, so they are not bothered with the bugs. They will have rains in the last of August and September and as rule they are not bothered with the blight. I got Joe to invest in % of a ton of potato fertilizer and he just put it on with the seeder and planted them afterwards, and it showed big: the potatoes were nicer and more of them; it paid big; it would pay some of the farmers to use it on their corn. as some of this land ought to have lime just as well as in the east, but this is too expensive here. They would the ease.

I am well and happy and I am glad that I can enjoy myself once more under Democratic rule, and hope I may live many more years. J. J. GRAMLEY.
