Millheim Journal: One day last week, Milton Barney, who lives on the Michael Hess farm near Woodward, noticed something was wrong with the mouth of one of his mules. Harman Manny, son of Mrs. Edna Manny, of Phillipsburg, aged about 11 years, is lying at his home suffering from a bullet wound sustained by being shot through the chest by a bullet from some unknown person. He had just stepped out into the back yard when the bullet pierced his hip. Two shots had been previously heard, and the presumption is that some boys were shooting in the meadows just a little further north of the Manny home.

Last week brief mention was made in the Rebersburg letter of the large auto bus being wrecked near Centre Mills. The Millheim Journal gives these additional facts: Mr. Walker was on his return trip from Coburn, and when he arrived on the top of the high hill, west of Centre Mills, he was in the act of sorting mail to be put into Ed. Miller's mail box while the car was in motion, and the wind shield being covered with snow, prevented him from noticing that the machine was leaving the road, and his first knowledge of danger was when the large machine struck a post and broke it off, and about the same instant the car toppled down over the steep embankment, about seventy-five feet. Mr. Walker, the driver, and Lyman Smith, of Centre Hall, were the only persons on the car at the time. Walker jumped off and the car rolled over him, and Smith went with it and was thrown out when the top of the car was broken off. Besides slight bruises, neither of the men were hurt. The wheels and top of the car were completely wrecked, but the engine was not much damaged. In the afternoon a large force of men, with the aid of ropes and pulleys, got the wrecked machine up on the public road and it was towed to Rebersburg behind a two-horse wagon.

MAY HAVE BEEN FOOLISHNESS.
But Ex-Convict Just Wanted to See Somebody Happy.

A man whose hair was partly white and whose shoulders were bent walked up to "Big Mike" Connolly's barber shop in Chicago on Christmas eve. His was a peculiar gait, a shuffling of the feet and a weakness of the knees. A sign in the window reading, "Singing Canaries for Sale," caused him to stop. In new wicker cages a dozen of the birds preened themselves. The man drew from his pocket a crumpled $10 bill and entered.

"How much are the birds worth?" he asked. "I get three dollars for them," replied Connolly. "I'll take three," said the stranger, handing over the bill.

"Big Mike" was surprised. He couldn't figure out what a man of his appearance wanted with three canaries. "Won't you pick out the birds you want?" he inquired. "No," replied the man. "You select them yourself."

Connolly chose three birds and handed the cages to his patron. "Those are three fine birds," he said.

"They are superior goods." The man made no reply but walked to the door. One by one he liberated the canaries, which flew away. "What did you do that for?" asked Connolly. The stranger then told how he had just ended a fifteen year "stretch" and wanted to see somebody, if only birds, happy. "What's your name?" asked Connolly. "I'm trying to forget it," said the stranger.
