with the corrupt Democratic ringsters in New Jersey. They keep him busy much of his time, but he invariably makes a good finish. Taft and Teddy were in the same church at the same time, at Embassador Reed's funeral. Naturally, neither saw the other; at least there was no exchange of greetings. The Hon. Cephas L. Gramley, the member from Centre county, in the legislature voted for Alter for Speaker. In this instance he opposed Penrose. That is a fairly good start.

The fact that Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer has had several private conferences with Woodrow Wilson leads many to think a cabinet position will be extended to a "gentleman from Pennsylvania."

Time works wonders and Pennsylvania is no exception. This boss-ridden state, the object of universal contempt and ridicule, the synonim for rendered, and the cost of free hospital political corruption, is undergoing a days, in connection with free service, rapid change. The reason is, our people are breaking away from party of the election of United States Senalines if necessary to accomplish need-one of his most radical proposals is ed reforms.

The consumer who pays the bill does not have the time or ed to the tax assessments of the Audimeans to present his grievance, but he will be considered by the new administration.

Down in Philadelphia rival Democratic factions are now quarreling over the proposition as to which faction is entitled to establish a suitable Democratic club house. There are so many brands of Democrats in Philadelphia that a congenial mixture is impossible. All brands of whiskey are said to be good: but the same does not apply to Philadelphia Democrats. Good and tested, a commission to investigate and bad Democrats will never dwell together in peace.

THE VOTE FOR PRESIDENT.

From the time in 1824, when the people began to vote directly for presidential electors, down to 1860, there was never a presidential election in which the total vote did not increase over the last preceding election.

This total vote, according to the New York World, fell off for the first time in 1864 because of the civil war and southern secession. The end of the war and the gradual return of the southern states into the count, increased the vote by 1,700,000 in 1868 over 1864; by 741,000 in 1872 over 1868, and by near 2,000,000 in the stirring Tilden-Hayes campaign of 1876 over 1872.

Then came the comparatively quiet Garfield-Hancock campaign of 1880; but even in this dull contest the vote increased nearly one million over that

The bitterly contested campaign of 1884 between Cleveland and Blaine brought out nearly 1,000,000 more voters than cast their ballots in 1880. The hot tariff struggle of 1888, with Cleveland and Harrison as leaders of their respective parties, brought out by 1,377,000. The recent campaign, although it was bitterly contested on the republican side by Roosevelt and Taft, and energetically contested by the demo-crats, with Wilson as the leader, reduced the vote from that of 1908 by about 500,000.

1900 by 449,000. The Taft-Bryan campaign of 1903 increased the vote over that of 1904

Why should a spectacular, threecornered contest over sharp, living issues in 1912 be as effective in reducing the vote as the colorless cam-paign of 1904.

Why should the total vote now de-cline against the whole previous experience of the country, and when the growth and voting strength of the nation is necessary as never before? These questions are not idle ones. There must be reasons for the decrease in votes in 1912, that are not creditable to the people. There should have been an increase of 1,000,000 votes this year over the total vote of 1912, instead of a decrease of half a many respects it is radical.

He advocates the recall of the char-The Republicans need a new leader the failure to mete out punishment for the lynching of "Zach" Walker, who was burned by a mob in August, 1911. "People of this borough, by fomenting murder and consorting with murderers," he said, "have not only vio-lated the laws and obstructed the administration of justice, but, in my judgment have forfeited the high privilege of further acting as a governmental agency of the State."

A recommendation to abolish the Departments of Internal Affairs and Factory Inspection for a Department of Labor and Industry assumes more than ordinary interest at this time because of the summary dismissal of Captain John C. Delaney, Chief Factory Inspector. This recommendation, the effect of which was probably known to Mr. Delaney, may explain, in part, his reason for speaking of the Sanderson confession, as well as the inspiration for the Governor's action.

Work of New Department.

The Governor's reason for advocat ing the abolition of the Internal Affairs Department is that a Public Utilities Cmmission that is expected to be created by the Legislature will largely conflict. The several bureaus of the Internal Affairs Department, the Governor said, should be transferred to the Utilities Commission or to proposed Department of Labor and In-

With regard to the Public Utilities Commission, the Governor recom-mended the passage of an effective law, along the lines of the bill which shall contain the best provisions to be culled from other suggested bills, and from the field of such legislation in other States. Governor Tener accepts most of the measures proposed by the Republican Legislative Committee, except the abolition of the Board of State Charities. He recommends that the powers and duties of the board be extendto meet any deficiency that may exist, rather than create a system of central control by a department. Appropriations for charitable institutions not under State control should be granted upon the basis of service should be provided for, he said.

No reference is made to the question

The creation of a tax board to bring about a greater uniformity in State taxation and end the scandals attachtor General's office is another striking recommendation.

Vote on Woman Suffrage.

The question of woman suffrage, the Governor declared, should be submit-ted to the vote of the people in the shape of a constitutional amendment. He also advocated the election Judges and municipal and county officers on nonpartisan ballots, and made many other recommendations, among them being these:

Liberal appropriations for the conrvation of public health, extension of pure food laws, a change in the school code until it has been fully improve the welfare of the State's dependents, passage of a constitutional amendment allowing the State to make the $50,000,000 bond issue for good roads, enactment of a workman's compensation and other related bills as drawn up by the Industrial Accidents Commission, classification of direct inheritance taxes, so as to permit the laying of graded or progressive taxes; that the Department of Banking take charge of insolvent institustricter regulation of the sale of stocks, bonds or other securities; that banking laws be extended so as to include all private banks, establishment of an industrial reformatory for young women, adoption of plans for the highest development and conservation of the water resources of the State, annual tax on timber land and timber, establishment of a State fair and the appointment of a commission to study the question of creating a State Board of Public Works. Norris Reunion. New Year's day was celebrated at the home of Mrs. Harriet Pennington, on 404 W. Beaver Ave, State College, by a very enjoyable reunion of her brothers and sisters, and her own family. Those present were: D. B. Norris and daughter Gertrude, Joseph Norris and wife, Mrs. W. B. Ray, Mrs. Margaret Martz, of Juniata, Mrs. Jane Brotherton of Collinville, H. I. Norris and wife, of Fillmore, John L. Williams of Lemont, Robt. Brennon and wife, Rae, Harold and Hilda Brennan, Wm. Kennedy and wife, Dean and Jay Kennedy. At the noon hour the party was called to the dining eating the first piece: "There was an old hen who had a wooden leg, the best old turkey who ever laid an egg; their respective parties, brought out 1,355,000 more votes than were cast in 1884. A continuation of the struggle in 1892 brought out 878,000 more votes than were cast in 1888.

The great Bryan-McKinley campaign of 1896 nearly broke the record by increasing the vote 2,000,000 over the vote of 1892. The McKinley-Bryan campaign of 1900 added only about 30,000 to the vote of 1896.

The Roosevelt-Parker campaign of 1904 reduced the vote below that of
