

Correspondence

(Continued)

CURTIN.

The chicken and waffle supper held at the home of Henry Shultz on Saturday evening was a decided success, considering the inclemency of the weather.

George Bowman makes frequent calls to Curtin. We think there must be some attraction; how about it F. S.

Our sick this week are Mrs. Jesse Bathurst, Calvin Bathurst and Jesse and Clair Prince.

Mrs. Jennie Curtin visited friends at Mill Hill on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hazzard and little son visited the former's uncle, Wm. Mayes, of Beech Creek, being called there by the serious illness of a cousin, who is now in the Lock Haven hospital.

Mrs. Ray Lutz, of Bellefonte, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bathurst.

Mrs. George Harvey, of near Curtin, visited Mrs. Wm. Prince on Saturday. Frank Barnhart, who has been employed at Pen Yan for some time, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnhart over Sunday and departed for Avis on Monday where he expects to get employment. His brother Robert was also home on a visit for a few days.

There will be preaching in the Evangelical church on Sunday, January 26th at 10:30.

Mrs. Rachel Glenn and daughter Miss Kate and sons Edward and Charles, of Cleveland, O. are all at the former's son's home, Jesse being called here by the death of Mr. John Glenn.

Wm. Neff has some notion of going to housekeeping as he purchased a stove grate and took it to Beech Creek. He says there are some very fine young ladies at that place.

Edward Funk will move to Curtin on Thursday in the house vacated by John Barger.

JACKSONVILLE.

B. L. Noll, wife and son Sumner visited relatives at Madisonburg a couple of days last week.

Lewis Beightol went to work for the Lock Haven paper mill company, on Wednesday the 15th.

William Beightol has secured a job working in the woods on the B. L. Noll farm.

Many of our farmers east of town have sold their grain and have been busy the past week delivering the same to market.

That was some thunder, rain, snow and sleet on Saturday.

On Saturday J. A. Deitz left for Mt. Eagle on a visit, some attraction—perhaps a widow up there.

The Misses Ruth and Marion Leathers, daughters of Geo. Leathers of Howard, visited their aunt, Mrs. C. N. Yearick, over Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. B. F. Vonada visited her brothers Clem and Harvey Lutz at Snyderdort on Saturday and transacted business.

H. T. McDowell and Thompson Allison, of Howard, transacted business in our town on Saturday.

Mrs. Lulu Heitman, of Clintondale, spent a day the last week at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Vonada.

Mrs. John Smith, who came home to her daughter, Mrs. Calvin Kling, about three months ago, and has been in ill health ever since, is able to walk out, and on Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Emma Kling and granddaughter Rosema, and Mrs. Wm. Dietz, visited at B. F. Vonada's.

On Sunday John Garret and family visited Mrs. Garret's grandmother.

AARONSBURG.

Mrs. Clarence Musser was called to Bellefonte the latter part of last week, where her daughter Bertha was operated upon at the hospital for appendicitis. Her many friends here are wishing her a speedy recovery.

Last week John Foster took his automobile and his sister Mary, Mrs. Annie Gusewite and Josephine Edmunds to spend a day in Millifinburg.

Guy Cull, from State College, spent the week end here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Keener. Mrs. was ill for over a week.

We are glad to say that Harvey Crouse is improving some.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will move to State College next week where he is employed.

Mrs. Henry Mowery will have sale this Saturday 25th and will go to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. James Ruppe, in Oklahoma.

Mrs. James Wert was spending some time with her daughter Mrs. Bohn, at Linden Hill, where one of her grandchildren is sick.

Thomas Stover, wife and son John spent the Sabbath with the lady's mother, Mrs. Albright, at Penn Hill.

ZION.

The services in the Reformed church on Sunday morning, in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism, was attended by a full house. The program was well selected and the parts assigned to the several members of the congregation were well rendered. The services were edifying and instructive throughout. The pastor, Rev. Hoover, is a rising young minister of talent and ability. His remarks on the growth and advancement of the church of his choice were received with interest by all present.

The first electrical storm of the season passed over our valley on Saturday afternoon, accompanied by a strong wind that blew down fences and put quite a lot of telephones out of commission.

Everybody is wishing for winter weather; a year ago we were wishing for more moderation.

The sick are improving.

Mrs. Biddle formerly Miss Pearl Musser has moved to Unionville where her husband is employed by the Pa. R. Co.

Lavinia Shaffer is at present making her home with her younger daughter, Mrs. A. E. Garbrick.

Could Shout For Joy.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters have no superior. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50 cents at C. M. Parrish, Ph., G. Bellefonte, Pa. Adv.

JULIAN.

Mrs. McKinsey, who has been away visiting her son, at Windber, O., for the last several months, returned home this week.

Mrs. W. G. Tallhelm spent Saturday with friends in Unionville.

Mrs. Austin Swisher has purchased the property on church street from Mrs. Davis and will move in same on April 1st.

Mrs. P. W. Swope, who is teaching at Valley View, spent Sunday at the home of O. H. Nason.

G. H. Bulkeley, wife and daughters, of Howard, spent Sunday visiting at the home of Mrs. Bodie.

Wilbur Myers, left on Thursday for Washington, D. C., where he expects to spend a few days getting his eyes treated, which have been giving him trouble for some time.

John Tallhelm is now at Clearfield working during the ten days absence of the regular operator.

Preaching service in the U. B. church next Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m., by the pastor, Rev. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young and two daughters, accompanied by Miss Ella Alexander, of Bellefonte, spent last Sunday at the home of Mr. Alexander.

John Clansy, of Houtzdale, Pa., is the man assigned to the 3rd trick at the tower, M. C. Miller transferred.

V. G. Henderson, ticket agent of Woodland, transacted business in town one day this week.

Clarence, the infant son of Hannah and Arthur Herrington, died Friday evening of pneumonia. Funeral services conducted at the home by the pastor, Rev. Gilbert. Interment in the Julian cemetery on Sunday morning.

Martha Gill, the aged lady who fell and broke her hip about two weeks ago, is resting along nicely at the hospital and has good chances for recovery.

TYLERSVILLE.

A box social will be held in the P. O. S. of A. hall on Saturday evening, Feb. 1. Ice cream, cake, homemade candies, etc., will be served, after which aprons and cushions will be sold. The proceeds are to be used for the purchase of a bell for the St. John's Reformed church. All are invited to come.

Cleveland Grieb's moved to Jersey Shore last week where he had been working.

Charlie Cole, who is working in a lumber job near Marsh Creek, was home over Sunday.

George Miller and Harvey Lamey attended court this week as jurymen of our township.

Mrs. Sofia Mechtly is on the sick list.

Mr. Burley and friend, of White Deer Valley, visited the former's grandfather, John Walizer and uncle.

Wm. Barner and John Herlocker made a business trip to Brush Valley last Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society held their meeting at Israel Weaver's on Sunday.

Samuel Kunkle made a business trip to York county last week.

Mrs. A. S. Geringer is suffering from eczema.

Mrs. Kate Overdorf is visiting friends and relatives at this place.

There will be preaching in the Reformed church on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bertha Johnson visited here on Saturday.

MADISONBURG.

The sick are slowly improving.

Andrew Guiser and family visited in Nittany valley over Sunday.

The birthday party held for Margaret Rachau was well attended. Those present were—Andrew Guiser and wife, Benjamin Lambert, Mrs. Jacob Kern, Mrs. B. F. Miller, Mrs. Daniel Lambert, Mrs. Clarence Strayer, Mrs. Bertha Royer, Mrs. Thomas Everett, Mrs. Fred Schiefer, Mrs. Wilson Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. William Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smull, D. Rachau, Mrs. Boyd Hazel, Del. Spayd, Elva Lambert, Fairy Stover, Dorothy Roush, Mildred Schiefer, Martha Shearer, Alma Deltrick, Alta Benner, Mabel Feidler, Lottie Strayer, Mary Smull, Ida Strayer, Tessie Yearick, Edith Hazel, Helen Bierly, Edith Riebel, Jennie Keller, Caroline Yocum, Anna Hazel, Edna Fiedler, Alma Smull, John Wert, James Stover, Vilas Wise, Paul Wise, Alva Duck, John Long, Paul Hackman, Chas. Gephart, Robert Smull, Leo Homan, Dwight Homan, Lester Ruhl, Jacob Strayer, Sharon Lambert, John Schiefer, Clarence Phillips, Glenn Miller, Harvey Grenoble, Lloyd Rachau, Gurney Smull and Chas. Keller. Games were played by the young people after which refreshments were served. All went home at a late hour and reported having had a good time.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

PRISONERS ESCAPE JAIL.

By Digging Through Wall of Their Cell.

Sheriff John Cooper's number of "boarders" in the Clinton county jail at Lock Haven, has been decreased by two since Wednesday evening of last week. The decrease is due to the fact that two of the prisoners, Thomas F. Parker and Carl McDermott, dug out of their cell, scaled the wall by means of a rope made of bed clothing, and silently bid adieu to the slumbering sheriff and his family and the remaining prisoners some time during the night.

Parker and McDermott occupied the same cell on the second floor, on the tier next to the alley wall. They were in their cell at midnight but when Turnkey Mechtley made his rounds he discovered that these two prisoners had flown, and a hasty investigation disclosed the manner of their escape. They had removed a number of good-sized stones and a quantity of mortar, and small pieces of stone from the wall on the east side of their cell, and removing a board from underneath their bed, which had been used to brace up the sagging springs, made a bridge from the grated window in the cell wall to the top of the wall enclosing the rear of the jail building, and both men crawled from the hole, which is several feet below the window, and drew themselves up to the board and then crawled to the top of the wall, from which they let themselves down in the alley on the outside of the wall by means of a rope made by tying together the ends of blankets taken from their beds. It is likely they had been working on the wall for several nights and concealed the hole by means of the small table, such as is in each cell, and which was placed against that side of the wall. As the stones were removed they were concealed under the beds, while the prisoners had in their cells, and this was also placed under one of the beds during the time that the men were not working at the wall.

Both prisoners were awaiting trial at the term of court which will begin next Monday. Parker was held for forging a check on the First National bank of Lock Haven, he having been taken there from Chester, N. Y., on requisition papers, by Constable Pettinigli, while McDermott is charged with having burglarized Ardner Bros. barber shop recently and securing $7 in cash and four razors.

The county commissioners offered a reward of $50 for the arrest of either of the escaped prisoners.

MANANTOWN.

Mrs. John A. Mann and granddaughter of this place are spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Alvie Confer, of Orviston.

Mrs. Jennie Lucas spent the past week with friends and relatives of this place.

James E. of North Bend, was seen on the streets of this place last week.

Robert E. has moved in with his father, William E.

Samuel Butler and wife, of Romola, spent Sunday with his brother, James Butler.

John A. Mann went to Orviston Sunday to see his little granddaughter; he thinks she is a dandy.

James Nyman and wife attended a funeral at Summit Hill, Sunday.

Those who are on the sick list are Mrs. George Emlinizer and Master William Butler.

WALKED ON HOT IRON.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to prove his assertion and other Gospel claims to a crowd of fellow workmen. Shouting in an impassioned voice that nothing could harm him, Fries, minus shoes and socks, deliberately ran over several hot masses of pigiron.

Although he declared that he felt no pain it was evident that he was suffering intensely. The ribs of the workmen angered Fries and he smothered up a red hot rod and tried to force it down his throat. The other men, however, interfered. When a policeman was called, Fries bit him on the nose.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, but it isn't so popular.

Declared that he had come to the world after a regeneration and that he was infallible and immortal, William Fries, a steel worker of Cambria City, Pa., tried to