Lying in wait in Miller's Hardware store on Tuesday evening for the person who had been systematically bing the till, Chief of Police Duke-man surprised Henry Haupt with a command of "hands up" after the lat-ter had entered the store from the rear and stolen money from the cash register. Haupt was placed in jail pending the arrangement of his friends to secure bail, which was done on Wednesday.

For some time.past Harvey Miller and his brother George, the proprietors of the store, have been missing sums of money ranging in amounts from one to two dollars, from the cash register. They were at a loss to know what was causing the leaks, and in spite of the utmost vigilance could detect no way by which the money could escape from the drawer. Every morning last week when they came to count the change part of it was missing. The strange part of the occurrence was that no manner by which the 'hief effected an entrance could be however, Dukeman began his watch
