

HUNTER LICENSE BECOMES A LAW

PROVISIONS OF THE NEW LAW

On Friday Gov. John K. Tener signed the Davis hunters' license bill. The law becomes operative at once, and provides that every hunter of wild game in Pennsylvania must take out a license costing one dollar. The campaign to write this act into the statute books of the state has been in progress for eight years. The fight for the legislature has been led by Game Commissioner John M. Phillips of Pittsburgh. Associated with him have been his colleagues on the commission, Secretary Joseph Kalbfus and the United Sportsmen.

The provisions of the law follow: It is unlawful for any person to hunt in Pennsylvania for wild birds or wild animals protected by the game laws with firearms without first securing a license.

Those permitted to take a license are native born citizens, naturalized citizens and sons of naturalized citizens under 21 years, who have been residents of the state for 30 days previous to the application for the license. No person under 14 years of age will be licensed. Between the ages of 14 and 16 years the applicant must present a written request from his father or mother before a license can be issued to him.

The license will cost $1 a year. Upon application to the county treasurer of a Justice of the Peace, accompanied by proof that the applicant is a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of the commonwealth, he will receive what is designated in the law as a "resident hunter's license" and a tag with the number of the license thereon in figures at least one inch in height. When hunting the sportsman must wear the tag on the back of the sleeve between the elbow and the shoulder.

The license will bear a description of the applicant with the date of issue. The certificate will become void on December 31 of each year. Where a license is issued by a Justice of the Peace the fee will be $1.15, the extra amount being retained as a fee by the Justice.

The law permits the farmer and his sons to hunt on his own land and immediately adjacent lands with consent of the owner, without securing a license.

The penalty for violating the act is $20 for each offense. All license fees and penalties are to be paid into the state treasury.

Fifty per cent, or so much thereof as is needed is to be appropriated by the Legislature for the payment of the following bounties: One dollar for each mink killed, $2 for each weasel, $2 for each fox killed and $4 for each wildcat killed. The balance of the money is to be used for game protection and propagation.

It is estimated that there are between $100,000 and 200,000 hunters in Pennsylvania. Under the plan favored by the State Game Commission for enforcing the hunters' license act, every hunter will be licensed like an automobile, only there will be a serial number for each car and a license number for each hunter.

The game commission will prepare a once the plan of the act, will be devoted to the expenses of the commission in the propagation and protection of game.

Changes in Game Laws.
Governor Tener on Saturday approved the new game act, making numerous changes in the open seasons for shooting quail, wild turkey, ruffed grouse, Hungarian partridge, woodcock and pheasant, October 1 to November 30; rabbits, November 1 to December 31. Penalty for each squirrel or rabbit reduced from $50 to $10; penalty for each bird, $5. Alternative one day in prison for each dollar, doubling for second offense.

Captured Negro Accused of Shooting.
Dorsey G. Stoner, the negro who shot Chief of Police H. D. Yeaman in a running street duel in Lewistown nearly a year ago, has been captured in Alliance, Ohio. District Attorney Aikens has applied for requisition papers, upon the issuance of which Stoner will be brought to Lewistown for trial. The reward of $200 will be paid to Joseph Swain, a Pennsylvania Railroad porter, who furnished the information for his arrest. Chief Yeaman has not fully recovered from the bullet wounds inflicted upon his breast and leg. Stoner is said to be a bad man with a long prison record.

A Farewell Reception.
In the Methodist church Sunday school room, next Sabbath at 3:30 p. m. Missioner Crittenden will give a farewell reception to the Bellefonte Safeguard Temperance boys and girls. Pastor Youm, Rev. C. C. Shuey and other interested friends will be present. There will be some spirited songs and neatly prepared certificates will be presented. It is especially desired that the older graduates of the society will be in attendance showing their good influence for the furtherance of this needful and worthy movement.

Titanic Victims Defeated.

That the 381 persons who have filed claims aggregating $1,345,957 against the owners of the steamer Titanic for deaths of relatives who went down with the White Star liner probably will not be able to collect a cent of damages is the opinion of several New York lawyers well versed in international law.

This opinion is based on the fact that all the claims have been filed in the United States courts and that, under the English law, no claims now can be filed in the courts of this country as the time limit expired one year after the day on which the Titanic sank, April 15, 1912.

Federal Judge Holt Monday in handing down his decision setting forth the reasons for refusing to limit the liabilities of the owners, stated that his court had no jurisdiction in the matter, as the Titanic was owned by the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, a British concern.

Charged With Burning Garage.
Robert S. Flemming, whose automobile garage in Lewistown was burned last September, was arrested on Monday on a charge of arson preferred by Deputy State Fire Marshal J. William Morgan. Flemming, it is said, went from Bellefonte to Lewistown and started in business with the idea that the state road through the Narrows would be finished last year. Its failure affected his prospects and he is said to have been bankrupt when the garage burned. The fire consumed eleven machines, the property of business and professional men, entailing a loss of $20,000. Among the losers was Amos Cole, a former Bellefonte young man, who conducted a plumbing shop in Lewistown.

Flemming waived a hearing and bail for $1000 was furnished by his father.

Poured Poison Down Man's Throat.
E. D. Martz, a contractor of Northumberland, is lying at his home critically ill as the result of an attack by two men on Saturday evening. He was on his way home when struck down. A quantity of formaldehyde was poured down his throat. His gold watch and forty-eight dollars in money were stolen. He was found lying on the walk by a passerby some time later. Martz was unconscious for twenty-four hours and it is believed that he will die.

Henry Shoemaker to Wed.
Announcement has been made of the engagement of Henry W. Shoemaker, president of the Altoona Tribune, and Miss Mabelle Ord, of San Francisco, the wedding to take place May 10th at New Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Shoemaker is a writer of note, and is well known in Centre county.

Date Set for Zeigler Reunion.
The members and friends of the Zeigler families will meet this year in reunion at Hecla Park on Saturday, June 21st. This is the date recently agreed upon by the officers, who will arrange later a proper program for the day.

DOMINO "AVIATES," IN HIS MIND, TO FLORIDA

WILL SELL HIS AIRSHIP (MAYBE)

With what he terms "My last ride in the upper air," Domino, the veteran correspondent of Unionville, turns in his description of a recent aerial trip to Washington, D. C., and Florida, written in a style that makes you long to take a ride in his faithful airship. As Domino announces his intention of retiring soon from the aviation game, he may feel inclined to dispose of his airship to the highest bidder, and in such case most any person in Centre county could purchase it for the small sum of ten or fifteen million dollars. In the meantime, however, read how Domino fared while away from home:

With this description of my trip to Florida in my beautiful airship, I make my exit as an aviator and will hereafter devote all my energies in gathering local home news (mebby).

I left this place on Tuesday morning and went by way of Washington, D. C., where I landed about 9:30 o'clock. Before landing I hovered around over the city in my airship of about 500 feet. The streets were already crowded with a busy, bustling throng of people on business or pleasure bent. In looking through my field glasses, I saw that the crowd had "brightened" me and many showing signs of alarm and, in order to disabuse their minds of any danger of a calamity, as I sailed leisurely over the city, I dropped several hundred copies of the Centre Democrat to the feet below. The ladies standing on a porch in the residential portion of the city attracted my attention. They were gazing up at me and waving their snow-white handkerchiefs. I had secured a copy of the C. D. as it dropped and at once recognized me. I then dropped down and other hundred feet when I recognized them to be Mrs. Clara Leathers and her mother, Aunt Susie Taylor, who spent the winter with her daughter. Later, I brought a bride and her residence and had a delightful tete-a-tete with them.

Further up town I saw another familiar face of my and soon after his way towards the pension office building. I saw that he, too, recognized me, and made motions for me to land. I called through the megaphone, "Who is that below?" "Jim Lee, don't you know me?" he answered, "Oh, Gee! all right, I'll come down." Then landed in the vicinity of the capitol building and was at once surrounded by thousands of the elite of the city. The President and his cabinet were notified of my arrival and the brainy Woodrow, once called a meeting of the cabinet and directed his secretary to see that I be at once brought before them. Tommy Tumulty then ordered Nurse Lucas, with whom I was in conversation and being the only person with whom I was familiarly acquainted, to take me before that honorable body, which he did in splendid style. He told that honorable body that I was the distinguished Centre county aviator and newspaper correspondent and a man of great political prestige. That I was at present a tax collector and that I had already served two terms as school director. Each member of the cabinet, led by his excellency, the President, and the Hon. Vice President, then, in turn, greeted me with a warm hand shake and said they were glad to have my distinguished (?) presence. Billy Bryn-a-then remembered having met me on the train one night in going from Lock Haven to Clearfield, where he spoke in front of the Lloyd House at the time he fought "My First Battle." Many Bellefonters will remember this trip. We then discussed many questions of national import, the most important of which was the Japanese question, gave them my views and all agreed with me. Woodrow then asked me whether I wanted a piece of "bie." I said, "Yes, your Excellency, if you have not already promised it, I would like to be appointed Postmaster of the Winstone postoffice at Snow Shoe Intersection." "What is the office worth?" one suggested. "Why, I think about $3500 a year." I replied, "All right," said Woodrow, "I'll see that you get it." I then took my leave of them much to the regret of the whole bunch. The Hon. Nelson then accompanied me to my airship where I bade him goodby and after making a short obituary—I mean valedictory address—I rose gently, like a soap bubble, to the height of two hundred feet, encouraged by the cheering of the multitude. I was soon out of sight, and ten minutes after I landed at Coronado, Florida, where I was warmly greeted by Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Griest and their accomplished daughter, Miss Marie, who spent the winter for the benefit of Mr. Griest's health. My greatest surprise was to see the wonderful improvement in the general appearance of Mr. Griest. But must surely have discovered the Elixir of Life. Mrs. Griest was happy, smiling, looking ten years younger, and their vivacious, jolly daughter, Miss Marie, looking handsomer than ever—if such is possible. After telling them all about the home news, the progress of the water works, the death and marriages, the dolings of the stock, etc. I evaporated and next landed unceremoniously right in front of the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewellyn James at Lake Helen, Florida. After giving me the glad welcome

BELLEFONTE BOYS' LETTER FROM CHINA

TRIALS OF MISSIONARY WORK

The following letter will be read with interest by the many friends of Rev. Samuel H. McClure who have watched his successful labors as a Presbyterian missionary in far-off China. Rev. McClure needs no introduction to Bellefonte readers as in this place he spent his early life and acquired the fundamental training which has shaped a successful and noble career. Mr. McClure is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. McClure and in writing home from his present station at Fu San Hsien says:

Jan. 29: Today there were over one thousand people visited the chapel. I spent the day preaching to them. During the day there were thirty-three gospels sold and many tracts distributed to those who came. God's word does not seem to Him cold and on the strength of His promise I am sure that there will be fruit from the effort which was put forth here today to bring men into touch with God. At times the chapel was full and the full of people attending to the word of eternal life. Once the policeman came and compelled the people to move away. Once I noticed a woman in the crowd. She did not get any further than the steps of the chapel.

At night, as a rule, there are several boys come in for Bible study and prayer, but for some reason none came tonight. Tonight is the 23rd of the Chinese twelfth month when the Kitchen God which is made of paper is burned and is supposed to go to Heaven and tell the Heavenly Father about the deeds of the family during the past year. He will be there for seven days and then return when another one is placed in his stead. This is no doubt what is keeping the boys away from the street because they are, as a rule, very friendly and most polite but when I see them on the street they will either not look at me or, if they do speak, it is in a most insulting way. To-night I found out the reason. It is based for one on the Devil. Their idea, of course, being that when they have the Devil, that he will not come into his chapel. They are also afraid of being friendly with one on the street because they will be accused of being a follower of the Jesus religion which is looked upon as vile and mean. This attitude of the people toward me has been a puzzle ever since being here and it is quite a relief to understand in a measure at least the reason of this attitude.

As I think of the awful condition of these people, I think of the words of Jesus which I always have on my mind as His witness: "But rise and stand upon thy feet for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen and of those things which I will appear unto thee, delivering thee from the people and from the Gentiles unto whom I now send thee, to open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God." Acts. 26: 16, 17, 18.

How my heart praises my God tonight because of the way He strengthened me and gave me utterance so that I was enabled to open my mouth boldly today and make known the Gospel of the Gospel. Eph. 6: 19, 20.

Jan. 30: Tonight I took a short walk. On my way I met a young man twenty-four years of age, from Chifoo. He spoke very kindly to me and we exchanged a few words. I and him was here preaching the Gospel and handed him a copy of the Gospel by Mark. He thanked me and began to read. I then began to walk slower not wishing to intrude myself upon him. He then stopped and we began to talk again. I then began to tell him about the plan of salvation. He did not say anything but I began to walk slower. He then turned and said, "You are walking slowly, I must walk faster, we will meet again." The reason I speak about this one is because of his politeness. It may be strange to one who, a few moments before, insulted me by the way he spoke to me. I take a walk in this way never knowing just what sort of people I will meet. Today one of the boys did not come last night for Bible study told us that he was not allowed to come any more. The other boys, although they passed the door several times, did not come in. If any one thinks receiving these people from the hands of the enemy is play work, they have never tried to save them.

Tonight there was an opium smoker came in and read a tract and also took a couple with him. He said when he went to bed tonight he would read them. He has often been in, but tonight is the first time he has shown any interest. At first I was tempted to turn my back on him but the Lord seemed to say to me, keep at it, keep at it; so I did and I am thankful to-night that I did not give him up.

Jan 31: Several days ago I decided to rent a place in a nearby town where I could go several times a month and preach and sell books. The place is six miles from here and is a market town. Today money enough came to pay the rent for over two years.

I have five large pictures of new testament scenes. Today the scene representing the Good Samaritan with the Scripture verses from Luke 10: 25-37 were hung outside. A beggar came to rent a place in a nearby town where I could go several times a month and preach and sell books. The place is six miles from here and is a market town. Today money enough came to pay the rent for over two years.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

THE REV. SAMUEL H. McCLURE WRITES TO FRIENDS.

Tuesday's Lock Haven Democrat has the following account of the golden wedding anniversary of a couple well known in that city and Centre county:

An event out of the ordinary which has few people are privileged to celebrate took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Miller, 106 East Church street, Monday afternoon, namely, the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. An informal reception was held from 2 until 5 o'clock during which time many neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Miller to the number of 75, called to offer congratulations and well wishes for the years to come.

All the children but one were present to bring joy into the hearts of their parents on this festive occasion. The happy couple was also the recipients of a number of beautiful gifts as mementoes of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were united in marriage at Jacksonville, Centre county, April 20, 1863, by Rev. J. K. Miller, Mrs. Miller's maiden name was Sarah Yearick, and she was born at Spring Mills, Centre county, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Yearick. Mr. Miller was born in York county and later his parents, with the children, moved to Tylerville, this county. Leaving Tylerville D. K. Miller resided at Jacksonville until about 24 years ago when he removed to Lock Haven with his family, and they have resided there since. Eight children blessed the union, and 15 grandchildren and three great grandchildren assisted in making the golden anniversary memorable.

Mr. Miller, in co-operation with his son, W. W. Miller, are among Lock Haven's best known and most successful business men, having for many years conducted the Racket store in the Pursley building. That success and happiness may continue to crown their efforts as business men, and that Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Miller may live to celebrate their 75th wedding anniversary is the fond wish of their best friends. Although getting along in years they are both active and enjoying excellent health, which is comforting to their kinsmen and friends.

MARRIAGES.

Smith-Garbrick.
Thursday noon, April 17th, at the Reformed parsonage, Mr. Harry Smith, formerly of Zion, now of Elmira, N. Y., and Miss Minnie Garbrick, youngest daughter of the late Emanuel Garbrick, of Zion, were married by the Rev. Dr. Ambrose M. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left at once for Elmira, where the groom is employed in a factory. The wishes of a host of friends follow them to their new home.

Chimenti-Hahn.
On Sunday, April 20th, at 3 p. m. a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's father at the residence of Harry Chimenti, of Moshannon, and Miss Gertrude Hahn, of Pine Glenn. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace T. D. Weaver, of Moshannon. It was attended by about fifty guests who presented the bride with many beautiful and useful presents. A sumptuous wedding supper was served which was enjoyed by all.

Bowmaster-Shultz.
On Thursday evening, April 17th, a quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated in Bellefonte at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stanley, an east of town. The happy parties to this nuptial event being George R. Bowmaster, son of Mrs. Samuel Bowmaster, of Zion, Pa., and Miss Florence F. Shultz, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Shultz, of Curtin. The ceremony, which was always by Rev. E. H. Youm, pastor of the Methodist church. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and blooming plants. The bride and bridesmaid both wore white. Miss Shultz was bridesmaid and Mr. Frank Shultz, brother of the bride acted as best man. Immediate relatives and a few friends were also present. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. The happy couple will spend a few days at home in Bellefonte after which they will go to housekeeping at Curtin.

Little Girl's Singing Delights Audience.
In speaking of a recent service held by Evangelist McConnell in Clearfield, the Public Spirit pays the following tribute to a little former Centre county girl: "The meeting was opened with a delightful song service by the chorus under the direction of Prof. Kinsey and the audience joined in the singing. Little Miss Helen Oyer, the 10 year old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Oyer, of the 11th Street M. E. church, formerly of Milesburg, rendered 'God Will Take Care of You' in a most charming manner. The little lady possesses a voice of rare sweetness and talent beyond her years."

A. S. Garman to Retire From Hotel.
Allen S. Garman, the former Bellefonte hotel man, who recently completed a handsome hotel building in Tyrone, has sold the business and equipment to James Stewart, of Milesburg, who will assume charge about July 1st. Mr. Garman will continue to make Tyrone his residence where he has varied business interests.

Will Preach to Bald Eagle I. O. O. F.
Rev. Clark, pastor of the Baptist church of Milesburg, will preach the annual sermon to Bald Eagle Lodge No. 416, I. O. O. F., on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. All members of the order are requested to be present, and a cordial invitation is extended to other Odd Fellows.

Bill to Help Travelers.
A bill to compel railroads to issue interchangeable mileage books good on all roads, was introduced in Congress on Monday by Representative Wallin of New York. It would make a uniform mileage rate of 2 cents apply to all roads.

THE WERT FAMILY AFTER A FORTUNE

RELATIVES LIVE IN CENTRE CO.

Will Ask the Government's Aid in Securing a Hearing—Important Documents Discovered—Have Proof of Claim.

Last August we published an article from Irvin Wertz, of West Allis, Wisconsin, relative to a large fortune in Holland left to the members of the Wertz family. Mr. Wertz was formerly of Houserville, College township, this county, and there are other members of the Wertz family now living in that section. This week the following article appeared in the Chambersburg, Pa., "Spirit" which gives additional information regarding the Wertz fortune that will interest Centre county readers and especially the members and relatives of the family: "The Spirit" has told the story, in various forms, of the pursuit by the descendants of Franz Wertz, many of whom live in this county, and especially in the Mont Alto section, for their identification as heirs of Wertz and his $226,000.00.

Wertz, it may be remembered, was a famous field marshal of the 18th century. His descendants live in all parts of the United States and Europe, but the largest group reside in Pennsylvania and Ohio. About 150 years ago three direct descendants of his came to this country, one in the east, and it is from these that those now claiming the fortune have sprung. According to a member of the family there are about 150 heirs here and abroad who will share in the fortune when it is distributed.

Mrs. Estelle Ryan Snyder, of Chicago, president of the Wertz association is well known here and visited, among Chambersburg relatives last summer. Mrs. Harvey Rife, also a Wertz descendant, Mrs. Snyder left here for Holland and for several weeks made a thorough investigation of the claims. Important documents were discovered and information was procured which, in the opinion of the descendants, fully prove the claims. These were brought back to this country and translated and are now being put into shape to present to Secretary of State Bryan. "The Spirit" is informed that among those who have assisted the heirs of Wertz to procure proofs and establish their claims is William Ragen, American consul at Amsterdam.

J. B. Maxwell, of Philadelphia, a member of the Wertz family and one of the claimants, informs "The Spirit" that there is not the slightest doubt but that he and members of his family are entitled to the huge fortune of Franz Wertz. Maxwell states that an attempt will be made to interest the United States Government in the case and a lawyer, of international reputation, will be employed to fight the case.

"To obtain a hearing in the case," declares Mr. Maxwell, "we must first have the United States Government become interested and through it have the German and Holland governments agree to give us a hearing." The city government of Amsterdam recognizes our claims and was at one time willing to settle for $226,000.00. The fortune now reaches $226,000.00 and we intend to fight for every penny of it. "We are now collecting all our data on the case and within a short time will present it to Secretary Bryan. Among the property of Paul Wertz that we lay claim to are 22 trunks containing paintings of gold and silver and tapestries worth a fortune in themselves. Indeed, if these antiques were sold they would bring a fortune. J. Pierpont Morgan spent $500,000 to procure an antique similar to several that we claim."

Wedding Anniversary.
A most delightful and enjoyable event occurred on Monday, April 21, 1913, when the 60th anniversary of their marriage was celebrated by Lemuel Warner and his wife, Rachael, he being in his 83rd year, and living at Snow Shoe Intersection, Centre county, Pa. They have eight children, George Flick, wife Mary and five children, Hillary Gansaulus, wife and three children; Jesse Witherite, wife and two children; Clara Witherite, wife; Mrs. Andrew Sigelton, of home; Mrs. Andrew Sigelton, of home; Mrs. E. Fouk, of Altoona; and Rev. J. Zeigler and wife, Laura, constituted the company. The men made themselves useful in plowing a garden and the women in preparing a sumptuous dinner, of which all partook with a relish, except the old tool with a new roof was put on part of the house, and other necessary work done, which occupied the afternoon till near sundown. It reflects great honor upon children thus to care for their aged parents, and long may they all live.

Julian Young People to Give Play.
The young people of Julian have arranged to give an interesting play entitled, "At the Village Postoffice," on Saturday evening, April 26th. The entertainment will take place in the town hall at that place, and ample facilities have been made for comfortably seating all who attend. The play is clean and very interesting. Proceeds that everyone should see the church. Admission 15c and 20 cents. Doors open at 8 o'clock.

Keeler's Sentence to Stand.
The board of pardons, sitting at Harrisburg last week, declined to recommend commutation of the death sentence of John O. Keeler, the former Bellefonte man convicted of murder at Clearfield.
