UNITED STATES DEPOSITS.

The U. S. treasury deposits its funds only in national banks, and these are already receiving their quota. Bellefonte having but one, the First National, it will be entitled to receive recognition, as one of the oldest and solidest banks. It has been suggested that in order to "boost the money trust," in New York, when the Secretary of the Treasury deposits money in national banks he might make the condition imperative that not a dollar of it should be used in the speculative ventures of stock gambling in Wall Street. During the panic of 1907, when "Teddy" permitted Cortelyou to help out Wall Street, the money of the county was already tied up there. Six millions of dollars sent to Pittsburg to relieve the situation, the stock exchange having already closed to save the banks and trust companies, was simply shifted from there to Wall Street by the local recipients who had already depleted the banks for one hundred miles around of this currency, and dumped it into the maw of the steel trust, backed by the money trust, who are cheek by jowl in all things.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

A valued subscriber writing from Bradenton, Florida, in remitting subscription is pleased to say these kind and appreciated words:

"Although I have been away from dear old Centre county now for 18 years, I look forward to your Centre Democrat with real interest as it generally gives me so much news relative to so many of my old acquaintances and friends in my dear old home county. I am delighted with your good luck in securing the government position you have been chosen to fill. May success crown your efforts, is my sincere wish.

I will try to tell you a few of my doings here in the beautiful land of sunshine, flowers, birds and their sweet songs. The birds take the place here of the street organ with you. The mocking bird wakes us with his sweet songs all through the night at any hour. He sings just as well in the night as he does in the day. I have eleven fine orange trees on my lawn and the birds live right in them, with lots of nests and young birds. I think this the ideal land and wish that all my friends were here. I like it so well that I will not go north this summer. I want to try the summer here. So far it has been just beautiful. The sun shines hot but there is always a fine, cool breeze. Men can work out here with just as much comfort as our people can up north; even better, for here no one ever gets sunstruck. Exhaustion from heat is not known here. You can readily see from this that the hot weather here is not what we northern people had supposed it to be. I have been a very busy woman since I arrived here. I have cleared 20 acres of land and have set out 1,500 grapefruit and orange trees, which cover nearly 15 acres of my cleared land. I built a tenant house on the tract; have a farmer who will take care of my young grove and truck on nearly five acres which, if farmed well, will produce two or three crops, per year. I have neighbors to my grove who cleared $1,500 this spring, off one acre of celery; then put in tomatoes and will clear about the same amount with this crop. Now I know this to be the real truth. I will not begin to do as well with my land. It may produce as well, but my revenue will be lighter as I must hire all my work done. You know I cannot do more than look after it, which I have been very busy doing. I live right in the fast growing city of Bradenton, which has about 3,500 population. I extend an invitation to you and all my dear old friends to pay me a visit, should you get south.
