SEVERAL AMENDMENTS MADE

Shown That $42,000,000 is Expended Annually to Meet the Needs of 1,500,000 School Children-The Various Sections Explained.

The Pennsylvania School Code. which was two years old on May 18th, 1913, has proved to be a remarkable body of law. As passed by the Leg-islature of 1911, it contained over 800 sections, 600 of which were construc-tive in character and 200 of which related to the repeal of all former statutes in the Commonwealth. It was subjected to some severe tests in the process of administration during these two years, yet its application has met with very general approval. Twice the Supreme Court of the State passed favorably upon its constitutionality, and in many of the lower courts its validity was tested, and the result each time was favorable to the Code provisions.

The most drastic features of the bill as it passed provided for legislating out of office over 26,000 directors and reducing the size of school boards. Thirteen thousand directors were elected to take the place of those deposed. After the election of the new boards, it was found that about onethird of the old members were re-elected. The operation of the Code was, therefore, in the hands of new men. Yet so carefully were the pro-visions drawn and so wisely had the Commission measured conditions that the application of the law produced little friction.

In the course of school administration $42,000,000 are annually expended to meet the needs of 1,500,000 school children. The question of administration is all the more difficult in Pennsylvania because of the widely diversified industrial and social conditions that prevail. A large number of educational measures, many of local character, were introduced during the recent session. It is creditable to the Legislature that only a few minor amend ments were made to the Code, and several new sections added. Following is a summary of educational legislation:-

Amendments to School Code. Section 2806 was repealed. This section provided that pupils living in a territory which at the time of the approval of the Code was attached to another school district for school purposes, could attend the public schools in the district to which the territory in which they reside, was formerly attached, at the expense of the district in which they reside. Sections 2622, 2624, 2626 and 2627 was amended to provide that, in case the auditors in second and third class cities surcharge sums against any person or persons, such charge shall become a judgment in the absence of an appeal within thirty days, and any taxpayer may on behalf of the district proceed to enforce collection of such judgment by appropriate proceedings.

compensation is not to exceed $5.00 per day for each day necessarfly spent by each auditor.

Article XIV added Section 1439 authorizing the State Board of Education to provide for the education of blind children under eight years of age when parents are unable properly to educate them. The cost of such education is not to exceed $1.00 per day for each child. The period of education is to be terminated when the child has reached the age of eight Amendments to School Code.

Section 539, which provides for certified duplicate, etc., in second class cities, is amended so as to read: "The properly certified duplicate to be furnished at the expense of the district shall consist of a bound book printed and indexed according to the form to be submitted by the secretary of the board to the city clerk or other proper official on or before the first day of January of each year."

Section 558 is amended to make it obligatory on the part of employers to deduct the occupation tax from wages due employees, on notice from any school tax collector; if they fail or refuse to deduct amount of such occupation tax from wages then due or thereafter to become due, or, if the employer fails to pay the same over to the collector within 30 days after making such deduction, said employer shall forfeit and pay to said district a sum equal to the amount of such occupation tax, with costs, etc.

Section 1125 was amended with the provision that County Commissioners shall provide for County Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents "postage other than that connected with the Annual County Institute.'

Section 1412, providing for the education of inmates of orphan asylums, children's homes, etc., was amended so that boards of school directors of any school district in which there is located any orphan asylum, home for Triendless children, etc., shall permit children who are inmates of such homes to attend the public schools either with or without charge. When such education is charged for, it shall of which the respective pupils are Segal residents

Additional Educational Legislation. An act authorizing the Department of Forestry to lease portions of the State Forest for church, school, health and recreation purposes. Eighty per cent. of the receipts therefrom shall accrue to the State School Fund.

An act making provision for voca-tional education in the public schools and providing an appropriation there-

An act requiring the reading in the public schools of at least ten verses from the Bible every morning without comment. Penalty of dismissal for failure or refusal to observe this law.

An act requiring separate specifica-tions and separate bids on plumbing, heating, ventilating and electrical work in constructing or reconstructbuildings when the entire cost of said construction or reconstruction shall be more than $1,000.

Rolling Agricultural Exhibit.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has fitted out an agricultural car and a dairy exhibit car, to promote scientific farming methods and ficient farm management among the farmers. The agricultural car will be a moving college and farming exhibit. The exhibit contains some 580 perfect samples of vegetables, grains, tobacco, cotton, etc., grown in the territory traversed by the railroad. Modern dairy methods, buildings and machinery are shown in the dairy exhibit car, in charge of the milk traffic department. The car contains models of a modern dairy barn, silo not exceed the cost of tuition, text and water tower, together with a full books and supplies. Such cost shall section of a cow stable with feed car be paid to the district in which such and litter carried. Both cars will institution is located by the district carry an assortment of literature on farming and dairy problems, which will be distributed to visitors. In the end of each car is an office, where farmers will have the privilege of private consultation with representatives of the company's agricultural and dairy departments. The cars will visit the agricultural region along the Pennsylvania Railroad and stimulate an interest in advanced methods. This plan has been tried with great success by the pro-gressive Western railroads. The agricultural car will go to Erie, Pa., on its first trip and will be exhibited coincident with the celebration of Perry's Battle.

The request of Morris & Sheffer for permission to place hitching posts in front of their places of business in the Eagle Block brought forth considerable discussion. Allegheny street is only 35 feet wide at this point and council was loath to grant permission for more hitching posts, fearing it yould blockade the street too much. Mr. Walker moved that it be referred to street committee to secure estimates for widening the street at this point and taking care of the water and to report at next meeting.

Isaac Underwood, the implement dealer, complained of condition of North Thomas street where the Central railroad bridge passes over road. The hight between road bed oridge is not enough for threshing machinery to pass to and from his place of business near the glass works. The matter will be investigated by Gamble, Gheen & Co., complained of the surface water from West Lamb street flooding their mill property. Referred to boro engineer.

Solicitor Mitchell notified council that he had filed the boro's answer in the state of the spinsh boards on Spring Creek at the falls pposite the Bellefonte laundry.

The request of Prof. Hughes was referred to the street committee and boro solicitor for investigation and report

After bearing the bills council then adjourned.
