

The Home Circle

Pleasant Evening Reveries Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

A Word to Fathers.

We have read a story of a little boy who when he wanted a new suit of clothes, begged his mother to ask his father if he might have it. The mother suggested that the boy might ask for himself.

"I would," said the boy, "but I don't feel well enough acquainted with him."

There is a sharp reproof to the father in reply of the son. Many a father keeps his children so at a distance from him that they never feel confidentially and lovingly acquainted with him. They feel he is sort of a monarch in the family. They feel no familiarity with him. They fear him and respect him, and even love him some—for children cannot help loving some everybody about them, but they seldom get near enough to him to feel intimate with him. They seldom go to him with their little wants and trials. They approach him thru the mother. They tell her everything. They have a highway to her heart on which they go in and out with perfect freedom. In this keeping-off plan fathers are to blame. Children should not be held off. Let them come near.

A Cheerful Face.

Next to the sunlight of Heaven is the cheerful face. There is no more taking it—the bright eye, the unclouded brow, the sunny smile, all tells of that which dwells within. Who has not felt its electrifying influence? One glance at this face lifts us out of the mists and shadows, into the beautiful realms of hope. One cheerful face in the household will keep everything warm and light within it. It has something in it we feel, yet cannot express and its cheery smile sends the blood dancing through the veins of every joy. Oh! there is a world of magic in the plain, cheerful face and we would not exchange it for all the soulless beauty that ever graced the fairest form on earth. It may be a very little face, but somehow this cheery face ever shines and the shining is so bright the shadows cannot remain, and silently they creep away into dark corners. It may be a wrinkled act, but all the dearer for that and none the less cheerful. We linger near it and gaze tenderly upon it and say, "God bless this dear, happy face! We must keep it with us as long as we can, for home will lose much of its brightness when this sweet face is gone." And even after it is gone, how the remembrance of the cheerful face softens our way.

Two Sets of Manners.

If we only had on our company manners all the time, how delightful we would be, for, deny it though we may, we certainly have one set of ways for everyday use and another when strangers are present. The frown fades into a smile when our next door neighbor suddenly enters during a heated argument. The features that were set in obstinate and unbending resolution relax before the eyes of the casual caller, and the voice, snappish and sharp, becomes tuneful and lovely when outsiders appear on the domestic horizon. How well a child understands this universal hypocrisy and beseeches for favors in the presence of others, knowing full well no reproof or curt refusal will take place at such a time, while the same knowing small one would not dare ask for cake or a penny if mamma did not have company in the parlor.

Do we not, we children of a larger growth, know of pleasant words and endearing terms used only between husband and wife when they wish to impress outsiders with the felicity of the relations which assume a very different place as soon as the door is closed and there is no one around to see the averted gaze and indifferent air which mark their natural behaviors. Why can't we wear our company manners with our everyday gowns instead of hanging them away out of sight only to be brought forth on occasions of ceremony along with our best bib and tucker?

Wouldn't life be richer and sweeter if more of the little courtesies were shown when there are no eyes to behold them save those that are sure to brighten at the unusual demonstration. Is there anyone in the world as aware and true and devoted as the home folks, yet are there any in the whole wide world treated with the same courtesy these dear ones receive? Bring the company manner into the intimacies of home and life and see how much brighter and sweeter will seem the world at large for the kindness that you are giving your best to those who desire it most.

A gentlewoman never fails in the small, sweet courtesies. Instinctively she respects the feelings of others and having the golden rule by heart, it is from her heart that all lovely love compelling graces flow. "In her tongue she has the ready tact which takes advantage of every opportunity to render the lives of others happier."

"And every morning with good-day, Makes each day good."

Her winning smile and gentle ministrations, her soft voice and unfailing sympathy, insure her always a ready welcome.

If some good entertainment comes along, ask the girls and boys if they wish to go. Don't make them beg for a holiday.

OVER THE COUNTY.

The third annual reunion of the Red Men of Central Pennsylvania will be held in Philipsburg, Thursday, August 7th.

Want Boys in Blue to Come South.
The soldiers of the Confederate army enjoyed the "hospitality of the north" to such an extent that when they returned from the Gettysburg celebration, they conceived the idea of holding a similar celebration at Chattanooga to celebrate the bloody conflict at Chickamauga. The executive committee at once began communications with the post commanders throughout the country, and the commander of Gregg Post in this city has received a communication to this effect. They want the boys in Blue to visit the boys in Gray on Southern soil. Other information will follow, giving details of the arrangements now under way.

For Cuts, Burns and Bruises.
In every home there should be a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, ready to apply in every case of burns, cuts, wounds or scalds. J. H. Polanco, Delaware, Tex., R. No. 2, writes: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve saved my little girl's cut foot. No one believed it could be cured." The world's best salve. Only 25c. Recommended by C. M. Parrish, Bellefonte, Pa.—Adv. July.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

Educational bills to the number of 84 were introduced in the session of the Legislature just closed, of which 58 were House bills and 26 Senate bills. Only one section of the Code was repealed, and seven sections slightly amended. Six additions were made, and three measures still await executive action.

A new departure in school-house architecture is being worked out in the four-room, one-story building at Edwardsville, Luzerne county. Instead of stairways to the basement and exits, there will be concrete inclines covered with cork carpets. The floors in all of the rooms will be of concrete.

State College Summer School for Teachers opened June 23rd with an enrollment of 500. One hundred and fifteen college courses are offered to persons actually engaged in teaching or holding certificates to teach. Regular students of the college are not permitted to attend.

The State Board of Education has authorized the permanent investment of $10,000, the first money to accrue to the permanent State school fund. The income is to be used toward equalizing the educational advantages in different parts of the Commonwealth and to promote education in conservation of natural resources and education in forestry, agricultural and other industrial pursuits.

Bucknell's $600,000 Raised.

The fund of six hundred thousand dollars for Bucknell University was completed June 30, within the time limit prescribed by the General Board of New York city. This additional fund places the institution on a strong financial basis.

DO YOU HAVE A DAUGHTER?

Would you like your daughter to study domestic science, voca, music and drawing and at the same time fit herself to teach? Do you know that if she is over seventeen years of age she is entitled to $60.00 from the State to pay her tuition in a Normal School? Do you know that when she graduates she will receive from $50.00 to $75.00 per month as a teacher? Why not send her to the Lock Haven State Normal School next fall? Good board, furnished room, washing, electric light, steam heat, etc., at a rate cheaper than you can furnish it at your own home. Send for particulars and illustrated catalogue to Dr. Geo. P. Singer, Principal, Lock Haven, Pa.

A Beautiful Book.

The Pennsylvania State Normal School of Indiana, Pa., is now sending out its 116 page catalog, a very beautiful and interesting book. This school has exceptional opportunities in the matter of presenting such a catalog. Indiana—the school in the foothills of the Alleghenies—is itself a wonderfully beautiful place.

The big school graduated more than 300 students this year—the greatest number ever graduated by a Normal school in Pennsylvania.

The King of All Laxatives.

For constipation, headaches, indigestion and dyspepsia, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. Paul Mathulka, of Buffalo, N. Y., says they are the "King of all laxatives. They are a blessing to all my family and I always keep a box at home." Get a box and get well. Price 25c. Recommended by C. M. Parrish, Bellefonte, Pa.—Adv. July.
