WOUNDED BY BULLET FROM TARGET RIFLE

BELLEFONTE BOY'S UNFORTUN-

ATE ACCIDENT ON MONDAY. HUGH HANLEY IN HOSPITAL

The Accidental Discharge of a 22-Cilibre Rifie Almost Ends the Life to be Out of Danger.

Hugh Hanley, the seventeen-yearold son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanley, of Quaker Hill, occupies a cot in the Bellefonte hospital, as the result of a bullet wound in the neck, fort, however, was too late to save the caused by the accidental discharge of target rifle in the hands of John Martin, a young man employed in Alters' shooting gallery on West High street. The accident occurred on Mcnday afternoon about 5 o'clock while Hugh Hanley and a young companion by the name of Frank Hull, were loitering in the shooting talking to Martin. The wounded boy was at once removed to the hospital and for twenty-four hours his case showed evidence of being extremely critical and his life was despaired of. He is now thought to have passed the danger point, if no complications arise. The bullet, which was fired from a 22-calibre cartridge, entered the base of the young man's neck at the left side and took a downward course, and is now lodged in the right breast. Thus far no at-tempt has been made to remove it.

There is no doubt but what the unfortunate happening was purely ac-cidental, although there seems to have been a certain amount of carelessness entering into it. There have been a number of different stories afloat, all of which tend to show that it is a repetition of the old story of the "unloaded" gun. Miraculous Escape From Death. on the form of Commissioner Grove, Benner township, one day recenthad a mmiraculous escape from a horrible death. It was while hauling the last load and the young lady was driving the team. She was seated upon a binder seat that had been attached to the wagon, and while scending a slight embankment she slipped from the seat. Miss Grove fell directly in front of one of the forward whiels which passed over her neck, opportunity to air their grievances, chest and knees. Those who witnessed the accident expected to find her crushed, but were agreeably surprised to see her rise to her feet unhurt beyond a slight abrasion of the skin where the wheel touched her jaw. It was a wonderfully fortunate escape for the young lady, who might have been terribly injured.

State Constabulary Here. Pursuant to general orders issued last week for a re-assignment of the state constabulary, a squad of the troop now stationed at Greensburg has been detailed for Bellefonte. The squad consists of three men as follows: Sergeant Paul B. Stout and privates F. C. McDivitt and J. A. Conrad. For the present their headquarters will be at the Brokerhoff house, their mounts will be kept at Rearick's livery stable.

"WATCHMAN" AGAIN SUPPRESSES THE TRUTH.

An Insidious Lie Published in the Last Issue of the "Watchman" Completely Refuted.

One of the most dangerous forms of falsehood is that which starts with a truth to give it some credence, and then suppressos the vital point at issue. This is what P. Gray Meek did in his paper, last week, when he again attempted to discredit the official conduct of the writer who is the present Surveyor of Customs at Philadelphia. At the conclusion of his two columns of evasion and elusion, he made repetition of his former malicious falsehoods—he attempted to bolster his infamous conduct by an artful, insidious lie-that of telling a part truth and then suppressing the important fact We agree that Surveyor Meek did appoint two Democratic Deputies in place of Republicans. We agree that Perry Lytle, his Republican successor immediately fired them and appointed Republicans. Reason was, then the positions of Deputy were not under Civil Service; since 1904 they have placed under Civil service regulations. Here is the proof of the Watchman's cunning and insidious lie;

"Watchman's" Charge Last Week:

"When the editor of this paper (the Watchman) took charge of the Surveyor's office in 1894 he found two Republican Deputies on duty and fully four-fifths of the other employees of the customs house to be of the same political persuasion. In less than one month thereafter a Democrat was installed as "outside" Deputy and in less than three months both Deputies were Democrats. All these positions were then claimed to be under civil service but the strenuous head of that Department of the government at the time, Theodore Roosevelt, failed to back up the claim. . Mr. Lytle succeeded to the position and in less than four months time had both Deputyships filled by Republicans and scores of Democrats occupying places in the service ousted and others of his own party in-stalled in their places. He found no reason for depriving his party of the patronage properly belonging to it because the customs service was under

Third:—Are the positions of Deputy Surveyor at the Philadelphia Port, now, under the Federal competitive classified Civil Service regulations? Fourth:-When was the position of Deputy Surveyor placed under the Federal competitive classified Civil Service regulations?

Fifth:—At the time of my installation as Surveyor of Customs, on June 9, 1913, or since, did I appoint anyone to the position of Deputy Surveyor at this port; or, could I have made any such appointment?

A prompt reply will be appreciated. Respectfully

CHAS. R. KURTZ, Surveyor of Customs.

THIRD UNITED STATES CIVIL-SERVICE DISTRICT. August 12, 1913.

Hon. Charles R. Kurtz, Surveyor of Customs, Port of Philadelphia.

Sir In response to your letter of August 11, you are advised that during the year 1894 the position of Deputy Surveyor of Customs at the Port of Philadelphia was excepted from Civil Service examination under Section 5, Customs Rule II, and under Special Customs Rule.

During the year 1898 the position of Deputy Surveyor in the Customs Service at the Port of Philadelphia was still excepted from examination, appointment and removal being at the pleasure of the Surveyor.

On November 23, 1904, the President of the United States promulgated an executive order amending Schedule A of the Civil Service Rules, by striking out paragraphs 1 and 2 and part of paragraph 3 of Section 2, which had the effect of restoring to the competitive Civil Service the positions of Deputy or Assistant Collectors Deputy Naval Officer, Deputy Surveyor, and Cashier in the Customs Service. This executive order is still in force and appointment to the position of Deputy Surveyor of Customs is now, and has been since November 23, 1904, made by selection from a certificate of eligibles who have passed the requisite Civil Service examination, unless it has been found expedient in the interests of the service and good administration to transfer or promote a qualified employee, who is in the classified Civil Ser-

At the time of, and since, your installation as Surveyor of Customs on June 9, 1913, you have made no appointments whatever. You could not make any appointments for the reason that no vacancies existed, nor have any additional positions been created in your office. You did not appoint any person to the position of Deputy Surveyor of Customs at this port. Very respectfully,

STEWART WILSON. District Secretary.

"BRANDED AS FALSE."

From the Centre Hall Reporter, August 7: Meek in Error.

The charge made by P. Gray Meek in the Democratic Watchman that Charles R. Kurtz, surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, and editor of the Centre Democrat, upon taking the oath of office made himself a party traitor by appointing two Penrose Republicans to the best positions in his department, has been conclusively branded as false. There is no semblance of truth in the statements. The positions referred to are protected by civil service, and Mr. Kurtz had nothing whatever to do with their appointment or retention. It does appear from the records that Mr. Meek made Mr. Carson, a Republican, and the man complained of, chief clerk during the time that he (Meek) was surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, and at a time when it might have been possible to appoint a Democrat.

These statements made by Mr. Meek, were they considered alone, would not be referred to in this paper, but his attitude toward the Democratic party from the local field up, and from the county chairman to Secretary Bryan, is such that it is necessary to say without reserve that much that has appeared with-in the past few years in the Democratic Watchman's political columns IS NOT THE TRUTH.

From the Philadelphia "Bulletin," August 12th, 1913: A CORRECTION.

Surveyor of Customs Kurtz Did Not Appoint Republican Subordinates.

Charles R. Kurtz, of Bellefonte, Pa., the new Surveyor of this port, has corrected the report that he had reappointed Deputy Surveyors Richard B. Williams and Captain W. R. Carson. It was published in "The Bulletin" that he made the positions of both Mr. Williams and Captain Carson secure immediately after taking the oath of office, June 9.
On that date, "The Bulletin" in a news article on the new

Surveyor being sworn in, said :

"Immediately after taking the oath of office, Mr. Kurtz performed his first official duty by reappointing Mr. Williams and Captain Carson as deputies." As a matter of fact, Surveyor Kurtz had nothing to do with either Mr. Williams or Captain Carson. Both held their office under Civil Service regulations, and have continued to do so. Mr. Kurtz had no jurisdiction in their cases, and did not either reappoint them, or name anyone to succeed them. Vacancies in these positions could only be sented. these positions could only be created for cause recognized by the Civil Service laws, and vacancies could be filled only in acthe Civil Service laws, and vacancies could be hiled only in ac-cordance with same regulations. There are no positions under the Surveyor which are excepted from the operations of the Civil Service reform laws, a fact which has been officially com-municated to Surveyor Kurtz by the Civil Service Commission.

TWC PENN STATE BOYS KILLED. Met Death in Home Town by Elec trocution. Arthur May and Walter, Fey two members of the junior class of electrical engineering at Pennsylvania State College, were electrocuted at the big power plant of the Harwood Elec tric company at Hazleton, last Wednesday afternoon. Death resulted from coming in contact with a live wire carrying a load of 25,000 volts to the Susquehanna terminals, known as the Berwick line. The accident was not seen by any of the employes, but the interference with the current so deranged things that the entire region from Freeland on the north to McAdoo on the south and the towns Berwick, Bloomsburg, Danville, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah were without current for 15 minutes.

Death is believed to have resulted instantly to May, who was working higher on a ladder than Fey. Signs of life were visible in Fey and physicians were rushed to the plant. Pulmotors were used for three hours without avail. Marks upon the body of May indicate that his face came in contact with the conductors but Fey's hand is the only evidence of his contact. It is believed that he grasped the foot of his chum in an effort to warn him or to pull him away, Both young men were working their vay through State college. May was a splendid specimen of human development and was a leader of athletics n his class. He also was exceptionally bright while a student in the Hazleton High school, from which he graduated in 1911. They were registered at the school as students in the electrical engineering course and had been working during the suummer to gain practical experience which they hoped to avail themselves of in the class room during two more years of college course.

MAY BUILD BRANCH RAILROAD

Intention of Company to Open Up Jacksonville Properties in the Near Future-Twelve New Kilns Now Being Built.

While Bellefonte's enterprising board of trade is reaching out for new enterprises to locate in our midst and meeting with some success, we must not overlook the fact that there are other industries already here, which have been steadily developing for years among the number being, the lime stone industry, which has given employment to hundreds of men, and been of immense value to our town and community. A native product of our hills, it is here to stay and cannot be switched away to some other town as was the case with our scale works.

Along this line we are informed on good authority that the Whiterock Quarfies, a company started by local capital, has met with such success, that they are about to branch out on a larger and more extensive scale. They have already commenced the erection of twelve new kilns at their plant at Pleasant Gap. It is said they will open up a quarry on either the Mary Valentine farm or the Spicher farm, east of Pleasant Gap, and will connect this quarry with their Whiterock plant, by a narrow guage road, to carry the stone to their kilns. The present output of this plant is two cars of lime a day and when the new kilns are in operation, the output will be increased to five cars of lime a day, in addition to the amount of stone shipped for ballast, road purposes, furnaces, etc. The building of this railroad and the operating of the kilns and quarry will necessitate the employment of at least a hundred new men, and this number will be increased if the pres-ent plans of the Whiterock company mature.

The Whiterock Company has met with flattering success ever since its inception, and the demand for its product has far exceeded the company's capacity. In fact, they have been compelled to turn down a great many good orders during this spring and summer, but their increased capacity, it is hoped, will enable them to meet all demands.
