REBERSBURG.

Chas. H. Small, who has faithfully and satisfactorily served as tax collector for Miles township, in the past, is a candidate for re-election. He has proved a faithful and vigilant public servant.

Benj. Limbert, of Madisonburg, sent down to pastor Hassinger some fine specimens of fall apples. He has a bountiful yield, which is exceptional for apples are apples this year, and every one counts. He expects to gather about 600 bushels from two orchards which lie up along the northern slope of the mountain south of west Brush valley. He sprayed his orchards last fall and early in the spring with lime sulphur.

The Bigelow-Tener Highway advocates in Centre county should be confronted by examples of the highway robbery attempted under the forms of law, and for which no criminal prosecution will be made. Recently, Beaver dispatch in the North American related how a contract for a two-mile state "warrenite" near Harmony was let by Bigelow to the Duquesne contracting company, a year ago at $51,625.25, which was $2,000 higher than the bid of the George B. Clifford Company of Rochester. Think of it! $26,811.624 per mile! At that rate $50,000,000 would build 1865 miles of automobile road! If Bigelow's contractors should ever be able to scale the walls of Heaven they would pull up the pavements of gold and lay down "warrenite" for St. Peter at $26,811.624 per mile! Yet a few simpletons want to vote for the $50,000,000 bonds. But only a few!

One evening last week we beheld the campfires of Cupid in the woods south of Madisonburg. Some thought the mighty blaze was a house or a barn on fire. But on inquiry it was learned to be a bright fire of love, built by a newly-wed couple and their friends in a sylvan nook of the Arcadia of the Alleghenies.

We are told there is a department at Harrisburg called "the State bug house," or something like that. Your correspondent heard a great many odd and queer things whilst sojourning at Bigelow's contractors' camp in Columbia where trees grow to a size almost beyond belief. But he never heard botany and tree culture called by such names before. Zoology has capped the universe of life and the living exemplification is sufficiency. To speak of "well" we don't want to throw stones. However, many living things have been killed in the name of science, but by dense ignorance. For example, "limesulfer," if put on any living thing too plentifully, it kills. It is a sure death. Limesulfer, when slaked, adds certain elements of activity to the soil, to excite vegetable growth, but it has the same kind of life that alcohol has in the stomach of a scandinavian on a Minnesota prairie. Too much lime is death. Sulphur in proper quantities has been held to be a great stimulant to land, for the growth of vegetation and the destruction of insectivora. But too much sulphur absolutely kills all vegetable life. Witness the regions in Penna. flooded with coal cum and refuse. On many streams no fish can live because of sulphuric acid. The great fertilizer of our Pennsylvania forefathers of one hundred years ago was gypsum or plaster. It was used for corn, wheat, rye, barley and clover. Then the luxuriant clover was turned down as a manure and restorer of mellowness, strength and sweetness to the soil. Now, it is "lime-sulfer," and phosphates! Poison and exhaustion! But these have the scientific sanction of today.

It is to be noted that the period of which we write was devoid of universities, colleges and academies. Practical farmers had practical knowledge and experience. But what we would like to have information upon, is not whether a snake can climb a tree, or a living plant grow out of the bark on a tree or out of a crevice in a rock, for we have seen these things exist, but what is the principle of life, motion and volatility in plants and trees. We would like some of the high salaried gentry of Pennsylvania's wonderful institutions of learning to explain these things in common English and illustrate by practical examples. The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it."

A stranger here begs to suggest to Secretary McAdoo that he can "do" the Wall street speculating trust at one blow, by calling in all the U. S. deposits from the banks and placing Uncle Sam's money on deposit only in such banks as bind themselves not to use the money in Wall street speculation and stock gambling, but only in loans to legitimate business. Farm products are much more secure for loans than New York speculation in wild cat enterprises.

The Wise orchestra, which furnished delightful music is composed of George Wise, 1st v. leader, Boyd Hazel 2nd v. Ernest Wise, violinello, and Mrs. Boyd Hazel, organist. Leader Wise intends to add drums.

Apple merchants were plentiful a few days ago—but all came at once, and choked the demand.

Miss Mary Meyers, lately teacher of language in Patterson, N. J. High school, is visiting her parents.

Miss Ethel Harter does not expect to return to Selingsgrove to attend the University next term.

Public schools will open next Monday.

A tent show was held during last week on the school lot.

Kreider's mansion has been much improved. Charles C. Bierly and Charles Faxon put on the finishing touches.

Our summer visitors are all going home, delighted.

William Kaines left on Monday for Cincinnati and other western marts for another lot of cattle.

Farmer Confer, at Wolfs Store has some fine apples in an orchard lying on high ground.

Wallace Deebler marketed about three bushels of plums this season. His plot is situated near the top of the first mountain and escaped the weight of the frost.

alfalfa is being cultivated by Nev-in Moyer, Noah M. Corman and other progressive farmers. There are some fine clover fields east of Madisonburg.

W. R. Neale, of Big Run, Clearfield county, was at the Odd Fellows' picnic representing the Safe Ligniting Conductor Co. of his place. No lightning struck!

Mrs. David Meyer returned recently from a visit to relatives in Ohio. She was absent ten weeks and visited her oldest brother, Cornelius Bierly, at Bradner, Wood county, who is president of the Bierly family association of America organized three years ago. She also visited Edna Westfield and Nancy Plant, daughters of George Bierly, her uncle, also Mrs. Wooleim, a daughter of her uncle David.

Mrs. Amanda Evans returned Saturday from Lock Haven and Jersey Shore. Incidentally she attended the Bierly family reunion No. 2 at Nippeno, in which she took a conspicuous part, reading a letter from Chas. Westfield, of Kansas, who is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Rachel Young, the latter having been a daughter of Anthony Bierly 2nd. The attendance, she says was large, some eloquent speeches were delivered and all went merrily.

Mrs. Orpha Ocker and children, of Millburg, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bierly.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose Mackey attended the Odd Fellows' picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Krape and children, of Lamar, enjoyed the Odd Fellows' entertainment, on Saturday.

Emanuel Ziegler, of Madisonburg, one of our most progressive farmers, who believes in good but not graft roads, was an attendant at the Odd Fellows' picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Pierce Barker, of Penn's Creek, with their family were at the Odd Fellows' picnic on Saturday.

The chicken waffle dinner of the Genoa Hickenburgs went off like buttered parsnips on Saturday.

Titus Gramly and family, of Spring Mills, attended the picnic.

"Danny" F. Luse, Centre Hall, was at the Odd Fellows' annual.

The Odd Fellows' annual picnic at Smith's grove was a gratifying success in all respects—the once threatening skies clearing beneficently for the brethren whose foundation motto is: "The brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God." The attendance was exceedingly large, probably over 1000, during day and evening, prominent people from seven valleys being present, with elegant and expensive turnouts including Odd Fellowesses costumes. The inspiring music was furnished by Stover's cornet band of Harrisburg. Hon. C. Luther Gramly presided and eloquent addresses were made by D. F. Fortney, Esq. of Bellefonte and Rev. J. F. Hassinger, of Rebersburg, extolling the fraternity, whose chain now encircles the civilized world, and whose foundation in America was at Baltimore, April 26, 1819. The social merriment was unmarred by any untoward event.

John J. Shultz, a practical farmer of Centre Mills, attended the Odd Fellows' picnic. John can raise "clover," which some of the college "sheep skin" fellows can't.

There are still five of the old apple trees standing below Hubler's mansion, which were planted by the Buchtel's about 1790, and they look thrifty.

MILESBURG.

This little hamlet has again been smitten with sorrow. The grim reaper has taken four from our midst within the past week. The carriage wheels that conveyed the remains of the esteemed and respected H. C. Elise, and Earle W. Johnson to the cemetery have scarcely lost their echo over the distant hills, until the angels came and gently lifted the darling baby of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Dyke from its mother's arms, and stopped long enough on their way to relieve the bereaved and sorrow-stricken wife, Mrs. Elise by conveying her noble spirit to join her husband in that beautiful summer land of all the redeemed.

Miss Bettie Haupt spent a few days visiting friends in Cressen last week and returned home Sunday.

PIMPLES COVERED NECK AND CHIN

Large and Red. Burned Fiercely. Couldn't Wear a Collar. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Entirely Cured.

109 Cherry St., Philadelphia, Pa.—"My trouble started with a cluster of small pimples under my chin to which I paid no particular attention. But in about a week my neck and chin were literally covered with large red pimples which burned fiercely. I couldn't wear a collar. The larger pimples festered and came to a head while others were small and red and exceedingly sore. They caused disfigurement while they lasted and their burning would keep me awake at night. For three weeks I slept about three hours a night and never over four.

"Becoming worried I tried a treatment and my case only got worse. I used every preparation on the market, among the remedies I tried were — and — without success until a friend told me of his success with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I immediately tried them and you can imagine my surprise when a week later the pimples, heretofore very red and sore, assumed a dried up appearance. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and of Cuticura Ointment I used two boxes, and two weeks later I was entirely cured." (Signed) Thos. A. Fitzgerald, Apr. 3, 1913.

Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

*Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.
