HOWARD.

If there is one grace more than another to be desired, it is the ability to forget unpleasant experiences.

For the convenience of those who wish to secure it, this number of the Democrat is on sale at the post office at one cent the copy.

Reception to Seniors.

The "Juniors" of our High School, which term in this case includes all below the grade of seniors, tendered this always-distinguished and revered class in every school, the customary reception last Friday and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the function made a record as to excellence and interest.

The small size of the room limited the number of invitations quite unpleasantly, but it was packed to its limit and standing room was at a premium.

All four of our ministers were present, but no speech making was indulged in excepting that furnished by the school.

The programme was full and for the most part well carried out; the failure of some of those who were in the opening "dialogue" to have their parts as well memorized as might have been was the only weak spot. In opposition to this Miss Ada Long delivered in fine voice, a declamation which was memorized almost perfectly. Miss Margaret Butler recited Hood's classic, "Song of the Shirt," without a break or quiver, and acted and dressed the part equally well. The chorus singing by the school was fine, and Miss Rebecca Lucas's solo was better, receiving an imperative encore to which she prettily responded with a bright "moon song." The electric lights which had been but recently installed, were used for the first time, and were a decided improvement upon the old oil lamps. Refreshments were excellent in quality, generous in quantity, and well served.

The decoration of the rooms was attractive and unique; the collection of one hundred and thirty-five pennants of all colors, sizes and kinds arranged around the walls, constituting a prominent feature. The class colors, blue and gold, were duly prominent and very attractive.

The euphonious and truly musical class yell was duly introduced at the close of the feasting, and when interpreted reads something like this:

Rickety, Rickety, Ree, Raw, Res
Who are we but the blue and gold?
Rickety, Rickety, Ree, Raw, Res
Nineteen fourteen, H. H. S.

Following are the names of the bright young folks who compose the class: Miriam Solt, Edythe Butler, Myrtle Fletcher, Marzouite Kane, Pearl Fletcher, George Pifer, George Foreman and Jason Snyder, president.

The junior class proper, in whose name the pleasing function was given and who have chosen green and gold as their colors, have but five members: Hilda Wagner, Anna Leitch, Anna Boon, Rebecca Lucas and Nevin Yearick, president.

Union Prayer Meetings.

By unanimous action of the Ministerial Association the union prayer meeting, tentatively inaugurated some months ago, and intermittently during the evangelistic campaign, will be continued indefinitely, or until further notice. The meetings will be held each Thursday evening at half past seven, and continue until the purpose of the ministers to begin promptly at the hour named, no matter how few may be present, and dismiss just as promptly. The rotation in which the church buildings will be used is Methodist, United Evangelical, Christian Chapel and Reformed, and then repeat around the square formed by these locations, indefinitely. Because of the many things which come into the lives of all ministers and often make necessary sudden changes, no order of leadership will be established, but some one or more of them, and sometimes all, will be present at each meeting, and lead the exercises.

Gains.

As a partial result of the evangelistic campaign the two churches in our town which held service last Sabbath evening received important accessions to their numerical strength. In the Methodist church were received: Pearl B. Maud E. and Gertrude Dietz; Ruth A. Lillian M., Pearl M. and Hazel I. Fletcher; Martha B. and Ethel M. Neff; Ada I. and M. Julia Long; Rosetta E. Schenck, Donald Paul and Margaret Butler. To the United Evangelical church were admitted: T. B. Thomas; Jason, Kenneth and Gladys Snyder; Austen and Madge Allison; Walter Kurtz; Rosetta Knarr; Carrie Quay; Katherine Fletcher; Amy Boone; Ivy and George Pifer; Thomas Kessinger; Harold Yerris; Ella Mann; Myra and Alma Solt. Further additions are expected in both of these churches, and doubtless each of the other denominations will receive increase in numbers at the next regularly appointed service.

General Beaver.

Howard, in common with all other localities in the county, and in the state, where he was known, feels a keen sense of loss in the passing of Gen. James A. Beaver. His high principles, indomitable energy, lofty courage, and appreciation of "service as the best thing in life," made him conspicuous among conspicuous men, and honored wherever good citizenship is appreciated; and tied those who knew him best to him with bonds of friendship which only his departure from this present scene of action could render. He lived splendidly, and died triumphantly.

Council.

The regular meeting was held Monday evening, with all member present excepting Charles E. Fletcher. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Street committee reported that Henry C. Holter had declined to serve as street commissioner, and Samuel Shay was chosen to the place. Neither the water, nuisance nor light committee had any report to make. Bills amounting to $95.82 were approved and ordered paid. Among these were treasurer's commission $19.07, water rent collector's commission $20.09, and the street light bill for January, $48.04.

Miss Idella Williams was a Saturday visitor at the Clinton county capital.

Miss Grace Schenck came down from Milesburg to spend Sunday with her parents.

Miss Josephine Muffy, of Clearfield, made a brief Sunday visit with her home folks.

Philip C. Holter, of Williamsport, made a Sunday trip home, and seems to be prospering.

Miss Nellie Smith, of Bellefonte, was a guest of the George S. Williams family last Friday.

Mrs. A. Pifer, her daughter, Miss Ivy, and Miss Anna Boone were Lock Haven shoppers last Saturday.

Miss Rebecca Lucas enjoyed an Altoona visit Saturday as the guest of her uncle, Mr. Oscar M. Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Ross, of Lemont, spent Sunday with the family of Mrs. Ross's father, Thomas Bows.

Miss Emma Fletcher was the several days' guest last week of her brother George, a freshman of the Pennsylvania State College.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shilling came down from their Bellefonte home to take dinner with the family of Mrs. Shilling's brother, John Loder.

Mrs. W. J. Brooks, of Curtin, was a guest of Mrs. James A. Kane over Friday and Saturday, and was interested in the High School reception Friday evening.

Miss Anna K. Foerster, of Harrisburg, is a guest of her friend, Mrs. James Edwin Dunning. The intimacy between the ladies is close and of long standing. Miss Foerster has been Mrs. Dunning's bridesmaid.

Roy Harter and Miss Ora Beckett, both of Jacksonville, were united in marriage by Rev. M. J. Snyder, at the United Evangelical parsonage, last Thursday evening. The Howard letter tenders the young couple its congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. J. A. Kundt, formerly Miss Almeda Holter, came home Sunday for a few days, pending the removal of her husband and self from Columbus, O., to Toledo. Mr. Kundt who has been station master at Columbus has been promoted to the place of yardmaster at Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Johnson, of Jersey Shore, Mr. Vernon Johnson, who makes his home with his parents here, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Johnson, who has established a reputation here as a hen man, visited Juniata Friday and Saturday, with special reference to the poultry exhibition at Altoona.

The bright hours of Sunday afternoon brought a group of the prettiest, sweetest, daintiest little girls in this or any other town, each with her pet dollie, and every one, dollie and girl, dressed in Sunday best, to call at the home of the Howard letter, and a mighty sunshiny half hour they made of it. They were Mary-Katherine, Edella and Monica Henderson, Margaret Neff and Pearl and Nellie Schenck.

A number of our prominent citizens who had become admirers of Evangelist B. F. Campbell during his campaign were so desirous of preserving his sermon on "Christian Perfection" that they arranged for a yearbook report of it, and asked that the Democrat publish it. We cheerfully comply with the request, and the sermon, according to the report furnished us, will be found on page 2 of this issue.

Many of our people will remember Miss Gertrude Elise, of Orlando, Florida, who visited her relative, Mrs. H. A. Moore, some five months ago, her errand north being primarily to attend the funerals of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Elise, of Milesburg. While here Miss Elise's father, the venerable Daniel B. Elise, died at their Florida home, and she hastened south. Word was received here recently that her mother had passed into the beyond, Wednesday, January 21st. Thus, within five months these four aged people, more than usually closely related, have gone. The two men were brothers and their wives were sisters. The Misses Eleanor and Mary Ryman, daughters of Charles G. Ryman, and full cousins of Mrs. Howard A. Moore.

The Democrat has before referred to an oratorical contest in the common schools of Centre county, scheduled to take place at Bellefonte Friday, February twenty-seven. For the purpose of selecting the contestants for this occasion, and to give the boys practice, the county has been divided into five districts, and in each a preliminary contest will be held Friday, February twenty-seven. District No. 3, embraces all the Bald Eagle townships, and the three boroughs of Howard, Milesburg and Unionville, and Milesburg has been selected as the place for this meeting. Prof. Fletcher, principal of the Howard High school, is the secretary for this district, and all entries should be addressed to him. Now let every plucky boy who is eligible, make a try at this matter. Remember that every one of the great orators of the world, from the beginning of things until now, had to make a beginning. Perhaps this occasion will prove the beginning for one or more great orators who shall help mold affairs, state and national, in the on coming future. Further mention may be made of the affair next week or the week after.

STORMSTOWN.

Messrs. Wason and Shivery spent a few days at Salona with the latter's sister.

Since the roads are bad for traveling, the young men do all their going by daylight.

The pupils of Stony Point school will spend Friday afternoon, Feb. 6th, in entertaining those who are fond of good compositions.

Freda Gummo spent a few days last week at State College with her sister.

Boyd Johnson was a State College visitor last week.

UNIONVILLE.

Geo. P. Hoover, of Altoona, spent Sunday with his aged father, Henry Hoover, of upper Dix Run. George P. is an important factor in the army of P. R. R. employes and has a warm corner in his heart for the Centre Democrat.

Another devotee of this popular publication is Mr. "Ham" Seibert of State College. Ham is an artificer in woodwork—builds houses and "sich" and is way up in G in his line.

Still another of the 10,000 readers of the Democrat is George Stevenson, of Waddle, but George don't believe we have such large buildings in Unionville as described in the items a few weeks ago. Well George, you come over and we'll put you in a coffee joint and close the lid, bring Tom Hartsock and John Stine along.

You have all heard of Billy Sunday, the great evangelist? Well, Sunday will be at the M. E. church at this place on February, the 8th, but it won't be Billy. It will be the second one Sunday of February. Catch on John P.?

Mr. Askin, of Indiana, father of John Askin of this place, is visiting the latter at the home of Wm. B. Turner. He is a gentleman of possessing appearance and of pleasing address.

One of the nicest little boys in our town is master Gilbert Keatley, who is agent for the Williamsport Sunday Girl, but he sells it on Saturdays.

Mrs. Jerusha St. Clair, we are sorry to report, is quite seriously ill and her condition is such as to cause the alarm of her many friends. It is hoped that she will recover and be restored to her former health.

The revival services in the M. E. church are still in progress and a number have been converted. It is hoped that the fire of a great revival has just been fairly kindled.

A quartet of happy, smiling Baltimoreans landed here on Sunday morning and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Holtzworth during the day, to wit: Howard Pratt, Supt. of the B. & O. railroad, his wife, Mrs. Emma Pratt, his sister, Miss Bess Pratt and his son, Master Riley Pratt.

Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, transacted business in our town between trains on Saturday afternoon. Clem always wears his Sunday face with a big, broad, happy, illuminating smile on his photograph, nevertheless, every time a lawyer or the sheriff comes to town, everybody that has one, "ties his dog loose" and locks the outside doors. Tel. he has a feeling there seems to be a dearth of local news this week. I have had another wonderful dream, but owing to the fact that my pencil is worn so short and lack of time I am obliged to postpone its publication till next week. Look out for another crazy spell.

AXEMANN.

John Kuhn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kuhn, died in Canton, O., on Monday; his body was shipped here on Tuesday and burial will take place from his parent's home. The cause of his death was consumption. He had gone out to his brother George in Canton, believing he would get better. His parents and friends have the deep sympathy of the entire community.

Daniel Shuey and wife, Wallace White and wife, Mrs. James Somers and Jerry Donovan were to Centre Hall on Friday attending Pomona Grange.

Perry Steele is visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. M. Allison, of Spring Mills this week.

Mrs. Minnie Huey and son Lee returned to their home at Stormstown, after a pleasant visit here with friends and relatives.

There were eleven taken into full membership of the Methodist church at this place on Sunday evening by Rev. Frum.

Miss Lennie Shuey is laid up with the mumps, and Freddie Miller also, we hope they will soon be about again.

Mrs. William Fishburn and Mrs. John White spent Thursday at the home of Samuel White in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Clayton Royer had a quilting party on Wednesday. They all enjoyed the day very much.

A. M. Rishel returned on Monday after visiting his daughter, Miss Sarah, who is in the Pittsburg hospital and we are glad to say he found her improving very nicely, and in good spirits. He may be able to return home real well again.
