

Over The County

R. S. Jamison has taken on a new role and is now coach for the boys' wrestling teams in State College High. The grapplers are connected with the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Wrestling Association.

The Bellefonte Lime company at Salona has announced a ten per cent wage increase to its employees, effective Wednesday of last week. The quarries were to have been opened last Monday, but due to weather conditions, did not open until the latter part of the week.

C. F. Emery is back of the counter in his store at Centre Hill after an attack of grip that kept him at his home almost continuously for five weeks, much of which time he was confined to bed. Mr. Emery has been in business for twenty-eight years, and his most recent illness was the longest and probably the most serious of any.

Bernice, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shook of Spring Mills, has been seriously ill for some time from quinsy and other complications. A few days ago Mr. Shook and Dr. McQueen, both of Millheim, were in consultation over her case. Bernice was a pupil in the eighth grade in the Spring Mills school, but due to illness was obliged to give up her school work some time ago.

Paul M. Auman, owner of the Auman clothing store, Millheim, has moved his place of business next door, into the A. A. Frank building, formerly occupied by the Burger Shoe Store. The room is being completely remodeled. The room vacated by Mr. Auman is also being renovated and will be occupied by Stanley C. Bierly's Radio & Electric Shop when the work is completed.

Mrs. Alice Bechtol, aged Millheim resident, had a narrow escape from horrible injury and possible death last Friday evening about 5 o'clock. In preparing the evening meal, Mrs. Bechtol's apron strings caught fire at the stove. The smoldering strings were not noticed until they burst into a blaze and her clothing caught fire above her waist. She ran from the house, presumably to summon help, just as Ed Tharp, West Penn service man of Aaronsburg, came along in the company car. Mr. Tharp snatched the blazing clothing with a coat and called a doctor to attend the injured woman. Fortunately the burns were not serious.

Flying into a severe snow squall and with their gasoline supply running low, two Clinton county fliers were forced to land their plane in a field on the Joseph Davidson farm at Wingate, on Monday afternoon of last week. The fliers who gave their names as Mr. Monroe and Mr. Engle, and their address as Woodrich and Lock Haven, spent the night at the Davidson home and about 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning took off for their home field in Lock Haven. The pilot informed Mr. Davidson that they had flown to Aaronsburg from Lock Haven in order to meet an air official so that their plane could be inspected. Unable to contact the inspecting official they decided to return to their homes only a later date. When they left Aaronsburg the weather and visibility were clear but the fliers encountered heavy snow squalls near Wingate and spotting the level field, "set her down". The plane, a two-seater with an open cockpit, was not damaged in the forced landing.

Franklin W. Musser is now comfortably located on the W. W. Kiefer farm, east of Aaronsburg. This is the young man's first venture away from the former home acres in Penn township, but he has had the training and experience to get his work done, and he predicts that he will be on the job where he is now.

Russell Hark is now located on the Tibbens farm, in the Penna Cave district, owned by his father, A. C. Mark. The father and son exchanged locations, the younger Mr. Mark moving from Spring Mills to the Mark homestead to take up farming as a vocation, and the elder Mr. Mark coming to Spring Mills to occupy the home recently purchased by him, where he will live retired.

Harry Lingle and Miss Virginia Albright, the former of Beech Creek and the latter of Mill Hill, both of whom are teachers of the Orviston school, met with an accident near Monument Tuesday evening of last week while returning from Orviston. Mr. Lingle states that his brakes were frozen and when he came to the top of the hill his car swerved and slid from the road into the ditch alongside. No one was hurt and the car was not badly damaged.

One of the best sales of the season based on common reports, was that of Charles H. Foster, at Centre Hill, on Monday last week, at a clean-up of farm stock and farm equipment and household goods. The gross of the sales amounted to $3890. The 135 hogs sold at top prices. It was the first sale this season that hogs brought what they were worth. The lot sold did not nearly supply the demand of buyers, which indicates that hogs hereafter throughout the March sales will be in demand.

A. D. Gledhill, of Howard, has received notification from the Philadelphia office of the Underwriters that their report from their engineers show that the requirements of Howard Fire Company have been complied with and that Howard Borough will be re-rated in the near future. The Howard Fire Company feels proud of the progress that has been made in the last six months, and is now looking forward to purchasing a booster pump to add to their equipment so as to take care of outlying districts such as Mt. Eagle and Jacksonville and farm properties.

The Millheim Journal, last week says "It is our opinion that the borough dads should do something about making preparation for a grand celebration in 1938. That year will mark the 150th anniversary of the founding of the town of Millheim, the centennial having been celebrated in 1888. Many of the older residents can tell you of the "big time" that was held here at that time. Bands, floats, parades, (with Squire F. P. Musser impersonating President Cleveland) were the order of the day and "enormous crowds" lined the streets. Permit us to suggest that the start early enough to get something accomplished."

The craftsmanship of Floyd E. Snyder, Centre Hill builder, is reflected in the construction of two models from plans prepared by Ruth M. Bailey of Centre Hill, Penn State senior, in the department of architecture. The one model drawn on 1/4-in.-to-one-foot scale, presents a Greyhound bus terminal for State College. The other just completed, is an airport for the city of Williamsport, built to 1/4-in. to one-foot scale. Since Williamsport has a PWA airfield project under way, there is more than a remote possibility of the model in question becoming a reality for that city. The City engineer is greatly interested in the student's plans and the model will be on display at that place in a short time. Referring to the construction of the models, meticulous care was exercised by Mr. Snyder. No detail has been overlooked even to the landscaping.

In Centre county during 1936 there were 10,301 registered pleasure motor cars, 1690 registered commercial cars, and 15,561 licensed operators. The total expended for registering pleasure and commercial cars and for operators' licenses summed up to $219,972.43. The total for the three items in a few of the more populated counties are noted: Allegheny, $4,474,792; Philadelphia, $5,104,792; Delaware, $1,225,960; Berks, $1,046,138; Lehigh, $1,334,604; Montgomery, $1,361,291. All other counties are under a million. The counties of Dauphin, Erie, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Northampton, Schuylkill, Westmoreland, and York have expended more than three-quarters of a million for registration of cars and operators' cards, and the counties of Blair, Bucks, Cambria, Chester, Fayette, Washington, over a half-million. The total receipts for the entire state for these three items are $45,330,900.

History records no fanaticism like that of the righteous.

Warren Van Dyke, secretary of highways, said the state is pushing forward the "greatest" road-building program in its history.

"Generous federal aid, of course, has enabled us to do this," Van Dyke said. "The administration has earmarked a total expenditure of $126,269,900 on the 37,000-mile system during the next two years.

Approximately $2,200,000 has been pledged by Washington for construction and improvements of federal highways running through Pennsylvania.

PENN STATE COMPLETES WINTER SPORTS SEASON

One of the most successful winter seasons in Penn State's athletic history has just been completed, with six National Lion varsity teams compiling a percentage of victories of 64.3.

Although progress was made in every sport, particular credit should go to the wrestling, boxing, and basketball teams. The grapplers successfully defended their championship by amassing a record breaking total at the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association tournament.

The boxers completed the first undefeated winter season in Penn State's athletic history while losing their Eastern title to Syracuse by a single point. In winning ten out of seventeen games against leading teams in the east, the basketball five showed great improvement.

Under Coach John Lawther for the first time, the Lion quintet finished third in the Eastern Conference. A two point deficit by Temple was the margin which prevented Penn State from ending its Conference schedule in a tie for first place.

No problem of life has ever been solved by dodging facts and running away from the truth.

HUSBAND GAVE HER AN ELECTRIC RANGE . . . MRS. REEVES DIDN'T WANT IT

"I didn't get an electric range because I wanted one—mine was a Christmas gift from my husband. I am frank to say that I was much 'put out' about it at the time.

"Friends had told me that an electric range was slow and cost a lot of money to operate. But even they admitted it was the cleanest way to cook, so I gave it a trial.

"Right from the start I was enthusiastic. My electric range cooks as fast as the stove I used to have, and I get such wonderful cooking and baking results each time.

"Electric ranges may have been slow and expensive to operate years ago, but they're certainly fast and cheap today. We also have an electric refrigerator, cleaner, washer, radio, lights, and small appliances, and our monthly electric bill is less than $6.00."
