FIRE DESTROYS GRADE SCHOOL

greater start before it was discovered. Pupils, under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Rine, the teacher, succeeded in carrying many books and other items to safety before it became dangerous to enter the building.

The fire was discovered about 9:30 o'clock when pupils noticed the room getting "unusually warm" and saw wisps of smoke passing the windows. Investigation revealed that the entire space between the ceiling of the one-room school and the roof was a mass of flames.

A general alarm was sounded and both Undine and Logan Fire Companies responded. In near-zero temperatures firemen laid hose for a distance of nearly 1000 feet to the nearest fire hydrant, and then fought the flames under the added difficulty of insufficient pressure.

The blaze spread rapidly through the upper part of the old frame structure and it wasn't until the roof caved in that firemen got the upper hand. After that they quickly extinguished the flames. The entire inside of the building is a shambles, while the sidewalks which were left standing when the roof fell through, also are badly damaged. Total loss was placed at about $2000. The building is insured.

Early in the fall a fire broke out in the same building and it too, apparently originated from a defective flue. The damage on that occasion was almost negligible.

According to reports yesterday the Spring township school directors have taken no action on the question of whether or not the building will be rebuilt. The structure was used for seventh and eighth grade classes, pupils in the lower grades attending classes in the brick schoolhouse a short distance away.

As a result of Friday's fire, pupils of the damaged school are getting an extra long Christmas vacation. They will not be required to return to classes until the first week in January, at which time the school directors hope to lease a building for temporary use until a permanent building is secured.

Dr. Light to Speak Tonight

Dr. Charles H. Light, of Centre Hall, president of the Centre County Medical Society, who has recently completed a post-graduate course in pediatrics at the Columbia University School of Medicine, will address the Society at its regular meeting at the Centre County Hospital here Thursday evening.

67,150 SENTENCED TO PRISON IN YEAR

Census Bureau Sets Penal Population at 144,180

Washington.—The American prison population has reached the staggering total of 144,180, the census bureau announced.

These prisoners, 3,731 of whom were sentenced for murder, are confined to 117 prisons, 99 of which are operated by states and the others by the federal government.

Of the total number, 4,902 are women. They constitute 4.9 per cent of those committed. Nearly 9 per cent of the women were sent up for murder, but more than half of them are serving sentences for commercialized vice and other sex offenses.

During the past year there were 67,150 prisoners admitted, including 3,416 women. In the same period, 67,000 prisoners were released, including 3,312 women.

The bureau said:

"It is apparent that there are few successful escapes from prison these days. The federal institutions reported 31 escapes and 32 men returned from escapes, one from a previous year. During 1936, the state institutions reported 1,263 escapes and 1,120 escapes returned."

The bureau found that federal prisoners averaged older than those in state prisons.

"The medium age of federal prisoners was found to be 32.4 years, while that of state prisoners was 27.1 years, or over five years' difference," it said. "This is probably to be expected, as it is state reformatories that receive those prisoners under eighteen."

"Over 2,300 prisoners were received who were under eighteen years of age."

There were 149 executions of prisoners last year while 1,034 died in prison. Terms of 24,041 expired, while 31,318 were paroled and received pardons and the remainder were released conditionally.

More prisoners are serving time for burglary than any other offense, the bureau said.

MOHANNON AIRPORT TO BE LARGEST IN STATE

tional grant of a quarter of a million dollars was the increased use expected to be made of huge luxury liners of the United and other commercial airline companies. These large planes require a runway of approximately 5000 feet.

The Harrisburg and Martinsburg airports now under construction will have one runway of 4000 feet each, and the Pittsburgh airport one runway of 4000 feet, but of all the 27 ports now being constructed in the state, the one at Black Mohannon is the only one being constructed with long runways, both east-west and north-south, to take care of the huge air liners of the future.

The Black Mohannon airport, it is said, will cover an area of 190 acres, of which approximately 130 have been cleared to date. Among the other large airports of the state now being constructed with state and federal funds, the Allentown-Bethlehem port will cover 176 acres, the Coudersport port 52 acres, Conneville-Uniontown 40 acres. Approximately 200 acres are being reclaimed for a Philadelphia airport, although probably not all the acreage will be used.

When the Black Mohannon runways are completed next summer, an administration building 60 feet by 40 feet, will be built, a large hangar erected, a radio building will be installed and it is expected that the Kyertown weather bureau will be moved there.

The size and modern construction of the two huge runways, combined with the proposed buildings, will give this section one of the finest airports in the United States, aviation followers here have stated.

The airport is located 1900 feet above sea level at a point almost midway between the Black Mohannon WPA camp and the Wolf Rock CCC camp. It is one and one-half miles from the Black Mohannon highway. A new road, from a point near the Black Mohannon Inn, is now being constructed into the airport.

Work on the airport was started April 2. Two hundred and fifteen men are now employed there.

The field will be known as an emergency landing field and will be under the supervision of the State Aeronautics Bureau.

Test Shows Dual Tires Best for Marsh Ground

(Madison, Wis.)—Farm tractors, like most people, find advantage in going rubber shod when traveling over marsh ground.

Tests conducted on the University of Wisconsin marsh at Madison by F. W. Duffee, agricultural engineer, revealed that a farm tractor slipped less, picked up less dirt, and sank into the marshy ground less when equipped with dual rubber wheels than when steel wheels were used.

Single rubber wheels were not found satisfactory, however, as there was excessive slipping in the rear wheels as they sank into the loose soil about the full diameter of the tire. The performance of the dual tire equipment Duffee found very satisfactory in every respect, as the tractor steered much easier when equipped with rubber in front than when fitted with wide steel wheels, and the dual tires in the rear kept the tractor so the surface fully as well as did the wide steel wheels and with very little slippage.

No attempt was made to accurately determine what difference, if any, there would be in fuel consumption. Duffee observed, however, that the tractor with dual wheels would just barely pull a 10-foot harrow disc in high gear while it would not pull the harrow in high gear when equipped with steel wheels.

Nicknames of Criminals Kept on File by G-Men

Washington.—As a needed adjunct to its fingerprint records of gangsters, kidnapers, bank robbers and other criminals, the federal bureau of investigation has set up a moniker or nickname file. It was recently reported by Director J. Edgar Hoover. This is based on a theory, whose validity is now accepted, that a man's nickname is seldom changed. Though a criminal may masquerade under a dozen aliases, almost invariably, if he has a nickname, he will continue to be known by that name by his men and women associates in the underworld.

Nicknames often are based on physical appearance, mental attitudes or personal idiosyncracies and mannerisms. Hence the nickname may often provide a valuable clue to officers of the law in their search for missing criminals.

Youth Flews the Fields

Washington.—Farm laborers are young compared with other occupational groups, according to a recent survey in 11 states by the Department of Agriculture. More than one-third of the farm laborers included in the survey were between twenty and twenty-nine years old and two-thirds were under forty.

Find Lost Ruby Ring in Gizzard of Hen

Clinton, Ill.—The lost ruby engagement ring of Mrs. Earl Craley has been found.

Some time ago she found the ring, which had been lost for some time, but the set was missing. While dressing a hen she found the ruby in the fowl's gizzard.

Dies by Mistake

Confronted by a police officer, William Pierce, 73, an apartment owner of Oakland, Calif., mistook the officer for a holdup man and shot him. The officer, Deputy U. S. Marshall Raouil Dorsey, died later.

Poets' Corner

HUNTER'S TROUBLES.

Where did you put my shell belt?
I laid it down right here;
I suppose it's up in the attic
Where you put the rest of my gear.

What did you do with my hunting knife?
I put it in my belt;
And what about my long underwear,
And, oh, by George! my felt shoes?

I'll need another pair of pants,
These won't be warm enough;
The corduroys will be just the thing
If you patch that hole in the cuff.

Now, I'll need some rags, old dear,
To clean and polish my gun;
Where did you put my ramrod,
I'll have to hurry, by gum!

I hope the boys are ready,
I hate to have to wait;
But it's a cinch that some of them
Always turn up late.

Did you fix my hunting coat?
It had a hole in the back;
Well, that's O. K. then, so I'm sure
That I won't lose my pack.

Now, is breakfast ready?
I hope you've got the goods;
Well, get it on the table then,
I'm a goin' to the woods.

Have you any more coffee?
I'm hungry as a bear;
Well, hurry up and get it here,
My buck's a walkin' out there.

Well, I guess I'm ready,
My gun and shells,
My knife and hunting license,
The rooster and the bells.

And now, good-bye, my darling,
I'll bring you back a buck;
And while you're thinking of me
Don't forget to wash me luck.

And now, the weary housewife
Looks back with just a hunch,
She spies the kitchen cabinet—
Oh! Lordie! he forgot his lunch!

Grabbing it up with both hands,
She yells with a loud hoo! hoo!
And he, turning back, looks upon it
And says, "Oh! What would I do without you?"

Mr. Blanche Gardner,
State College, Pa., R. D. 1.

STAR OF THE EAST.

Star of the East, thy beams brightly shown
Dawned on the Wise Men on the hill
all alone;
It caused them to fear until an angel appeared.
And said, "Fear not, for unto you this day a Saviour is born."

The star moved silently through the blue sky,
The shepherds followed, passing by
Shadows, and on through the night,
Only for the swish of sand from their sanded feet.
Quietly walked man by man, the King to greet,
For Christ was born the promised son,
The star was to guide them to yonder town.
And over the stable where Christ
was born,
It stood still and cast its radiance,
that first Christmas morn.
The Wise Men knelt at the Mother's feet,
As she held her son for their homing age to receive,
Was there joy in her heart as they laved the gifts?
They had brought to her son,
through the night so swift,
Joy to the world! A child was born
With a heart full of love for every one.
It was his hand as a boy full of life,
That held the cup of water for the slave in the strife;
As he marched through the heat
so thirsty and tired,
Saw a hand extended with water
to drink.
That man child grew and He lived
all for others,
God's son sent from above to that lovely mother.
Sing forth thy praise on this glad
Christmas Day,
Christ came unto this world our souls to save.
—Anna M. Harter.

GONE WITH THE WIND

Gone with the wind, our Kenny
Has passed to that unknown land,
And has saddened the hearts of many,
As he takes God's waiting hand.

Why can't we all be so tender,
So patient, so kind and so meek;
He, always had service to render
To the sad, the lonely and weak.

With the wind he has gone from us,
Over that calm, quiet sea,
To rest forever in heaven
Where he'll wait for friends and me.
Some day I hope I'll meet him,
Away up there in the sky;
And together we'll be contented
To watch the world go by.

OLD SANTA'S CALL

Grandmother dear, is growing old,
Her step is feeble,
And she shivers from cold,
She lives high on a hill
In a house so small,
It's sometimes quite airy
Near the big trees so tall,
On the edge of a wood.

Where sweet memories linger,
The snow is very deep
And the sleigh-bells jingle,
She has asked "Old Santa" to be sure to call

As he passes her way this next
Christmas day.

She said she would be sure
To leave the door ajar,
And hopes to find gifts
From her loved ones afar.

On the table there by the fire so bright,
May she find in a letter
The surprise of her life;
And may it make her very happy
Along life's way.

As she uses it thoughtfully
Day after day,
For it's packed full of love,
Kindness—and all—
And may she never forget
Dear "Old Santa's" call!"

—Composed by E. L. Paleto, Renovo, Pa.

GREETINGS

Have you ever sat and wondered
At the setting of the sun,
And thought of the things you did
Today.

And the things you might have done.

You could have said good morning
To your neighbor o'er the way,
Or just a cheery greeting—
How are you today?

Such little things as these
Are no effort on our part,
But they often help to cheer
A lonely aching heart.

Do the things that you should today,
Then the setting of the sun
Will find you thinking not
Of the things you might have done.
