Parks was twice tried and twice convicted of the charge. The first trial, held in September, 1936, brought a verdict of guilty and a sentence of from 5 to 10 years in prison. The second trial, held upon a technicality, and last May, the second jury reaffirmed the findings of the original jury. The prosecutor in the case was a 13-year-old girl residing near State College, whose mother acted as housekeeper for Parks.

Accepting a recommendation of the state board of pardons, Governor George H. Earle Tuesday postponed until March 14 the execution of Roy T. Lockard, Altoona native, who was sentenced to the 14th for Lockard since his conviction in the slaying of 3-year-old Matthew Karmend, Jr.

Ham is a good standby to have on hand, it keeps well and is the source of heat and energy. None of the ham should be wasted, even the smallest bits add flavor and food value to other foods. The drippings should be strained, used as shortening in ginger bread, etc., also used in the making of stuffing and dressing and for frying.

Ham Baked with Dried Limas Soak 1 cup dried limas overnight in cold water. Drain, put in a baking dish, cover with a layer of sliced onions, add 1 cup of water and top with a slice of raw ham. Bake covered, one hour in an oven 325 degrees, uncover and bake 30 minutes longer. Serve with cabbage salad.

Ham Ring With Peas 1 1/2 lbs. lean ham. 2 tablespoons flour. 3/4 cup grated cheese. 1 cup milk. 3 eggs. Pepper. Cook ham until tender and chop very fine. Mix the flour to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Add to the milk and cook for a few minutes, stirring constantly. Add ham, cheese, beaten eggs and pepper. Pour into a well-greased ring mold, set in pan of hot water and bake in an oven 375 for 25 minutes or until firm. Turn out on a hot platter, fill with hot buttered peas.

Ham Au Gratin Prepare 2 cups of light cream sauce. Pare and slice 3 large potatoes. Put alternate layers of sliced potatoes and thinly sliced cooked ham into a casserole. Cover with cream sauce and cheese. Bake covered, for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove the cover and brown the cheese.

Ham Baked With Fruit Use a thick slice of ham. Place in an oblong baking dish and cover with one medium size can of pineapple or peaches or apricots. Bake in an oven 350 degrees for one hour.

Spaghetti and Ham Souffle 1 can spaghetti with tomato sauce. 1 cup diced ham. 4 tablespoons butter. 1/4 cup tomato soup. 2 eggs. Cook the flour and butter until well blended, add the tomato soup. When thick remove from fire, add the spaghetti, ham and beaten egg yolks. Fold the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in an oven 350 degrees for 30 or 40 minutes. Serve with a sauce made from additional soup.

Spanish Onions With Ham Parboil Spanish onions for 20 minutes. Drain, split and hollow the centers slightly. Chop the center onion and saute in shortening. Add one tablespoon crumbs for each onion, a little minced parsley, salt and paprika. Stuff in onions and put a half onion on each slice or raw ham. Bake 40 minutes at 400 degrees.

Tomato Ham on Chinese Noodles Prepare tomato sauce, adding chopped green peppers to make it savory. Add leftover ham which has been cut in cubes and serve on Chinese noodles. Garnish with parsley.

Ham Loaf 2 cups bread crumbs. 1 egg. 1/2 teaspoon pepper. 1 teaspoon salt. 1 cup milk. 1 lb. of lean pork, ground. 1 lb. smoked ham, ground. Mix bread crumbs, egg, seasoning, and milk together and work into the meat. Knead gently. Mold into a loaf and place in a pan (3 1/2 inches by 10 1/2 inches) which has been lined with strips of bacon. Bake 1 hour in an oven 375 degrees. Strips of bacon may be placed over the top during the baking. Serve surrounded with broiled bananas.

Sandwiches Combine equal quantities of minced ham and grated cheese with a little Worcestershire sauce and some prepared mustard; put 2 tablespoons of this mixture and a slice of ham between two circles of brown bread. Add a little lettuce, mayonnaise or a slice of tomato.

Favorable Maple Sugar Season

Time Almost Here to Tap Flow of Sap for Sugar and Syrup

The "sunshiny" days and cold nights of the current spell of winter portend a favorable season for the maple sugar and syrup industry this year. Secretary James P. Bogardus of the State Department of Forests and Waters said today.

The mid-winter flow of sap from which these maple products are made is largely dependent upon weather conditions, Bogardus pointed out. And the conditions this winter are just right for a good year, he said.

In southern Pennsylvania, the maple syrup season usually opens from the middle to late February and continues about five weeks, in northern Pennsylvania, it begins about the middle of March and lasts from five to six weeks. Several sugar maples in the State are so favorably situated that good runs of sap occur as early as the first week in February.

It has been found advisable, the Department says, to tap trees early in season to obtain the early runs of sap. These are generally the sweetest and the best sugar producers. Syrup and sugar from the early runs are lighter in color, more delicate in taste, and command a better price among buyers.

The volume of sap flow from the tree is directly proportional to its leaf area and amount of sunshine it receives. Open grown trees have the wide leaf crowns, with dense foliage, and produce more sap than trees with small crowns competing with others in the sugar bush.

There are seven maples native to Pennsylvania but the sugar or hard maple and black maple produce the best quality of syrup. The sugar maple is one of the principal trees in the beech-birch maple forests of northern Pennsylvania and grows practically anywhere in the State. The sugar bush as a farm project should appeal to many farmers for beside providing additional income, the work occurs during the few weeks in winter when other farm work is not pressing.

In setting out hard maple trees, the Department advises the planter should seek to utilize those material conditions under which nature has produced the finest groves of sugar maple trees. Hard maple flourishes best on well-drained, rich soil but will thrive even when the soil is not so fertile. It is common on ridges, at the base of mountains and slopes. It reaches its best development in northern Pennsylvania and in Somerset County because of the high altitude. The lumber of the sugar maple is valuable and in addition to its products this tree is one of the most attractive ornamental varieties.

Broken Glassware Broken glassware can be mended by cementing together with a mixture of one ounce of isinglass dissolved in two ounces of spirits of wine.
