

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER NEW TRAFFIC RULES

The two-hour parking signs which have been erected along the streets in the business district have been removed temporarily while they are being refinished. It was reported.

One member of Council stated that Bellefonte has plenty of parking and traffic regulations, and that the only thing needed to clear up the problem is to enforce those laws.

However, Council unanimously passed a resolution providing for a new set of traffic laws, and also for an ordinance under which the laws may be enforced.

County Commissioner Paul N. Eukley, of Valley View, presented a check for $35.00 to Council in payment for the services of the Bellefonte Fire Department at the recent fire at his home.

The Fire and Police Committee reported that the Logan Fire Company wish to have one room papered, and also desire an adjustment of electric light bills. Since 1933, it was brought out, the second floor rooms of the Logan House have been used at various times by government work and relief agencies, and by the Chamber of Commerce.

The light bills have greatly increased, and the Logan Fire Company has been paying the bills. Council ordered that bills prior to 1933 be checked against bills since that year so that it can be determined how much the Logan Company has paid out in excess of its normal light bill expense. Council probably will reimburse the firemen for the extra expense.

Borough Secretary George Carpeneto and Philip Saylor, of the Water Department, reported that they can set up a borough budget, including a survey of bond-holders, for a total of $85, which is considerably under the estimate given by an accounting firm several weeks ago for the same type of service.

The Finance Committee reported as follows: Borough department: balance, $1,062.37, and bills, $883.88. Water department: balance, $1,532, and bills $552.49.

Burgess Harris turned in $100 from fines and costs collected; Acting Burgess Beaver turned in $12.50, and Officer Donald Johnson turned in $37.50 from the same sources.

The Water Committee noted collections totaling $505.95. Upon recommendation of the Street Committee, Council tabled a proposal by Walter Eberhart. At last meeting of Council Mr. Eberhart offered the borough a plot of ground if the borough would construct a sidewalk along his property on North Allegheny Street.

Council received a check for $47.85 representing a dividend from the State Compensation Insurance fund.

Following the regular meeting of Council, members remained in the chambers to discuss the budget and to prepare estimates of amounts needed during the coming year by each of the committees.

PENN STATE JUNIOR SENT TO HUNTINGDON

The student was Police Officer John R. Juba, of State College, who declared that he began an investigation of Myers when the student's landlady reported that she was suspicious of the amount of goods stored in his room. The officer served out a warrant and arrested Myers when he returned from vacation.

Burgess Wilbur F. Litzell, of State College, called as a witness, testified that the boy had stolen from about 30 persons during his three-year crime career. He testified that Myers gave his father a Christmas gift valued at $100, and had $339.18 on deposit in a Birdsboro bank when arrested.

W. Bruce Talbot, appearing in behalf of the defendant, declared that when Myers was a youth he was struck on the head by an iron bar and that he's been "very nervous" since that time. Physician's certificates were available to substantiate this statement, Mr. Talbot stated. The attorney asked the court to give the case the closest scrutiny before passing sentence.

Stewart H. Lutz, member of the Berks County Bar, appeared as a character witness for Myers. He said he's known the family for many years and that they are honorable, upright citizens. The defendant has never been in trouble before, he said, and added that the youth could return to the game protector's job he held last summer in the event the Court saw fit not to impose a prison sentence. He declared that the boy is highly nervous, and that he never saw him when he was regularly employed or when he accompanied the Penn State soccer judging team on their trips.

Goods recovered by police from Myers' room and home will be returned in all cases where the owner can be determined, it was indicated. A petition will be filed by District Attorney Muser, W. Gettig to permit the return of the goods.

Other cases heard and disposed of last Thursday at the usual session of domestic relations and summary convictions court following the meeting of the Grand Jury, are reviewed briefly below.

John Fleck, of Phillipsburg, was sentenced to the State Industrial School at Huntingdon when he entered a plea of guilty to stealing a purse containing nearly $15. The prosecutor was Nora Curtin, of Phillipsburg, who said Fleck stole her purse from a store in which she was employed. Fleck admitted that he had committed similar charges.

Arthur Roze, of State College, pleaded guilty to the larceny of a automobile robe, was placed on probation for two years, upon making restitution of the stolen goods. The prosecutor was Officer M. L. Kauffmann, of the State College Borough Police.

Ray Stricker, of Bolanburg, who brought charges of assault and battery against three other Bolanburg men, was ordered to pay the costs after the Grand Jury had dismissed the bill against the three men. Stricker was given ten days in which to pay the costs. In default of payment, he will be committed to the County jail.

Arthur William Long, of Phillipsburg, sought an appeal from a decision by a Justice of the Peace on charges of operating an illegal device in an illegal manner.

Sgt. W. K. Duhrkoff and Patrolman Rudville, of the State Motor Police at Phillipsburg testified that late on the night of September 18 they saw Long's car stop at a stop light on Penna Street, in Phillipsburg. While the car was waiting for the light to change, they said, the driver kept sounding a loud whistle, and after the car started into motion the whistle kept sounding at frequent intervals for a distance of more than a block.

The officers pursued and stopped the car, and upon investigating found the whistle to be one operated by the motor compression—which is against the State Motor Code. Then, too, they held that the whistle was being blown unnecessarily, creating a useless noise.

Long said the person who sold him the whistle said it was a legal device. He said the officers removed the whistle from his machine and handed it to him, but in so doing a piece of the device dropped to the road and was broken. The officers also reported that they had removed the whistle after stopping the car, and had given the owner the device.

The court upheld the decision of the Justice of the Peace and sustained the sentence of $10 fine and costs, or in default, five days in jail.

M. R. Stiver insisted what shows some indication of becoming a manhood protest against the manner in which Motor Police and other officers stop traffic on the highways when he appealed the decision of a Justice of the Peace on a charge of reckless driving.

About 10:45 o'clock on the night of November 8, Motor Police and Game Wardens were checking traffic on Bald Eagle Highway in front of the Elk Head Inn, about 2 miles west of Port Matilda. The purpose was to check on hunters coming from the woods with game. In addition to the lights from the Inn, the officers had placed flares about 800 feet apart, in the center of the concrete highway, to act as a warning to approaching motorists.

Motor Police officer Rudville, of Phillipsburg, and Game Wardens Lawson Henry and Elmer Pillsbury, testified in effect that a car roared from the east going at a high rate of speed. The machine, they said, swept past the flares, and instead of slowing down, put on more speed. The officers scrambled off the road, blowing their whistles to halt the machine. The driver finally jammed on the brakes, the car swerved

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER TO BE OBSERVED HERE

The World Day of Prayer will be observed in the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church Friday, March 4, at 2 and 7:30 p. m.

The services will be in charge of the Union Missionary Society, which is composed of the various denominations of Bellefonte. Everyone is invited to attend and to pray for World Peace; for the building of the Kingdom of God on earth, and for a clearer understanding of God's will for the world today.

The day begins in New Zealand and the Fiji Islands with a sunrise service, and as the day progresses new groups in city, town, countryside and hamlet join in praise and prayer until after some 40 hours, the day ends at Gambell on the St. Lawrence Islands off the coast of Alaska.

SAYS CHRISTIANS SHOULD UNITE IN OPPOSING FASCISM

A union of the Christians of all denominations to oppose the spread of fascism has been proposed by Dr. William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, to the annual conference of the church league for industrial democracy.

His address concluded a two-day meeting in New York attended by 350 delegates from all sections of the country.

Dr. Dodd warned the delegates that fascism threatens democracy and that "if democracy falls, so does Christianity."

In Germany, he declared, hundreds of preachers have been imprisoned and more than 1,600 teachers have been dismissed "because they would not fall into line with the state's neo-paganism."

Judging from what we read in the newspapers few men in public life agree upon anything.

Another case backfired on the prosecutor when Tessie Robb was ordered to pay the costs in ten days or go to jail. She charged James Spangler with assault and battery, but the bill was found to be not a true one by the Grand Jury.

Roy W. Tomison, of Bellefonte, charged by the insurance company with which he was once affiliated with fraudulent conversion, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to undergo probation for two years upon payment of costs and making restitution of the amount taken.

David McKean, of State College, pleading guilty to charges of setting up and maintaining gambling devices was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $100.

Francis McDowell, of Harrisburg and Phillipsburg, was ordered to pay $20 per month for the support of his wife and two children after a hearing on charges of desertion and non support. The McDowells were married in 1927. The defendant is now employed in Harrisburg, but his wife and two children have been making their home in Phillipsburg.

Jeroy Sharer, of Port Matilda, charged with reckless driving after his truck in backing from a parking space on Presquele Street, Phillipsburg, struck a car owned by the State. The defendant is now on a term of $250, was discharged from custody and the costs were placed on the County.

According to Sgt. W. K. Duhrkoff, of the State Motor Police at Phillipsburg, who was in charge of the State car at the time, he had parked the car on the curb on Presquele street and had gone into a building nearby when he heard a crash. Investigating, he found a truck backed against his car. One fender of the car had been damaged.

Henry Todd, Jr., of Phillipsburg, a passerby at the scene testified to the accident, while Melvin McMonigal who was in the truck with Sharer at the time, explained that Sharer was not driving in a reckless manner, but that in backing from the parking space the end of the truck struck the car parked on the opposite side of the street. The accident happened December 12. The Court suggested that Sharer pay the $250 damage to the State car.

E. Gregg Plummer, of Tyrone, seeking an appeal from a decision by a Justice of the Peace on a reckless driving charge, was found guilty and a sentence of $10 fine and the costs of prosecution was upheld.

Last night a 23 car driven by Harold Dunkle, of Rockview, was proceeding west along the road between Pleasant Gap and Rockview when Dunkle pulled somewhat to the left preparatory to making a right hand turn into a private lane. As he swung over behind the car, he was washed by Mr. Plummer, which had been following the Dunkle machine, attempted to pass on the right side of the road, and a collision resulted as Dunkle pulled to the right to enter the lane.

The Dunkle witnesses claimed that their car slowed down considerably as it approached the lane entrance, that the car did not swing far over to the left before making the turn and that since the stop light on the machine was in perfect working order, cars in the rear were warned that the driver intended to stop or turn.

Mr. and Mrs. Plummer testified that the Dunkle car pulled so far to the left of the road they thought it was going to park on that side to discharge passengers, so they attempted to pass on the right side. They said they were traveling about 40 to 45 miles an hour at the time, but when the Dunkle machine began to turn into the lane, Mr. Plummer applied the brakes to avert an accident, but was unsuccessful because the road was wet.

Arthur William Long, of Phillipsburg, sought an appeal from a decision by a Justice of the Peace on charges of operating an illegal device in an illegal manner.

Sgt. W. K. Duhrkoff and Patrolman Rudville, of the State Motor Police at Phillipsburg testified that late on the night of September 18 they saw Long's car stop at a stop light on Penna Street, in Phillipsburg. While the car was waiting for the light to change, they said, the driver kept sounding a loud whistle, and after the car started into motion the whistle kept sounding at frequent intervals for a distance of more than a block.

Poets' Corner

My Dear Mother I have a mother to me is so sweet, And in the evening as I sit at her feet.

Looking up in her well worn face, A face that deserves all of God's grace— My dear Mother.

For now her hair is growing gray, But that doesn't take her away; I never grow tired of hearing her speak—

Because her voice is O so sweet, My dear Mother.

Written by Mary Gordon, Halfmoon Hill, Bellefonte, Pa., February 17, 1938. I am 13 years old.

The Empty Rocking Chair Something is hard For me to bear, To go into the room to face The empty rocking chair.

For always before me Came a greeting from that place, With a cheerful word And his smiling face, And now he has gone, And has left his love, Where I know he will be Happy with the angels above.

But there still remains The empty rocking chair, Which will no longer hold, His smiles nor locks of white hair.

We all must be happy, To live and to pray, That we may meet him In Heaven some day.

Dedicated to A. Stine Walker, by his Grandson, S. Stine Walker, Penna. Furnace.

The Trouble With People Today As I was sitting and pondering On one lonely and dreary night, A thought just came into my mind, And I think that I am right.

I thought about some people In different little towns, How they can make disturbance, And cause a lot of frowns. They don't have much to do, you see, But loaf around all day, And gather news so broadcast, To people near and far away.

They are nice while talking to you, And pretend to be your friend; Still they talk behind your back, And there seems to be no end.

Some times they will do you a favor, But mostly turn you down, Instead of giving a helping hand, They will walk a mile around.

God didn't intend for people To do such as they are; So I think if they send to their business, They will be better off, by far.

By Robert E. Fink, Julian, Pa.

My Dream I dreamed one night of Heaven, My Saviour and all His Angels, I were robed in purest white.

I had traveled long, and was weary, I had almost reached the Gate, I hoped that my journey was over, I was fearful of being late.

The first one that came to my vision, Was the Saviour's face, so fair, And close beside Him, side by side, I saw mother and daddy there.

My darling children, gone before, I saw them, Oh, so sweet; There were many friends of years ago, All gathered near Jesus' feet.

Just one more step and I'd be inside, But a sweet voice said, "no dear," A few more trials, a few more tears, Before you can enter here.

I will help you bear your burdens, You need not bear them alone; Just be patient, it will not be long, Till I'll call you to come Home.

My road had been often thorny, Steep and rough with stones; I was often weak and weary, But I turned away alone.

Yes, alone, but not in sorrow, My work is not yet done; I must bear a few more burdens, Before my race is run.

I'll work and wait with patience, For I know that I can rest, When He calls me into my Kingdom In that City of the best.

—Mrs. B. M. H., Milesburg, Pa.

Apricot Fritters Use canned apricots and drain well. Sift one cup of flour with 1-4 teaspoon salt. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs thoroughly and add the flour, beating until light. Add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, the grated rind of half lemon and a dash of mace. Add one tablespoon of melted butter. Then add enough cold water, from one-half to three-fourths of a cup, to make a rather thin sauce. Add the beaten whites of 2 eggs. The batter must be just thick enough to coat the fruit. Dip the apricots in the batter and drop into hot fat. Fry a golden brown, drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar.
