

Echoes From the Past

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Gray, daughter of Dr. Laurier, was very agreeably surprised the other evening by a number of her friends. A beautiful repast was furnished and a testimonial of regard presented to the lady.

The Daily Journal published in Philadelphia made its first appearance on our table on Tuesday, and it is as neat and tidy as a fellow's best girl dress for a picnic. It shows energy, pluck and careful editing. We congratulate brother Barb on his enterprise.

The citizens on some of the remote streets of Bellefonte have to depend entirely upon the periodical visits of the moon to light their thoroughfares. Thus the queen of night shows a greater degree of solicitude for the welfare and comfort of some of our citizens than do our thoroughfares.

The Centre County Democratic Club held its first meeting in the new club room, Monday night. About twenty-five new members were received into the organization. On Monday night, Judge Orvis, president of the Club, will deliver an address, and it is expected that speakers from a distance will be present.

On last Thursday evening during a thunder storm, Mr. James O'Bryan was one of his best cows. The animal along with two other cows were in the stable, the lightning striking a wire fence which runs along the upper part of his lot, following the same to the corner of the stable and killing one cow instantly. It was the severest storm we have ever experienced in this locality so early in the season.

John Beightol, who resided about a half mile west of Eagleview, Centre County, took about a tablespoonful of Rough on Rats yesterday afternoon, from the effects of which he died this morning. It is said that he had been suffering from dyspepsia for some time, which occasionally caused him mental depression, and it is supposed that he committed the rash act while in this state of mind.

Mrs. Judge Divens had been appointed postmistress at Hubersburg, this county, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Goodhart. George W. Rumberger, clerk for Charles Smith, Centre Hall, is experiencing a similar boom in business activity to Bellefonte. . . . Quite a number of rats went over the Look Haven dam last week, the late rains raising the river so rapidly that the rats could not be made secure.

Mr. Christ Der, who has been ill for over a year, and confined to his house for the past three or four months, died at 12 o'clock and was buried in the Union cemetery Monday afternoon. Mr. Der at one time was a prominent business man of Bellefonte and took an active interest in political matters, but during the latter part of his life he met with business reverses from which he never recovered. He was about 70 years old at the time of his death. He leaves a wife but no children. For some years Mr. Der has acted as tip-staff to the courts.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

John Kline and Samuel Waite, returning home from a dance at several Coleville belles, met up with a pocket and were put out of circulation for several days.

Samuel H. Poorman, former Centre Hall boy who was engaged in the garage business at Pleasant Gap, went to Harrisburg and returned with five new Overland cars; one a Willys Knight.

One of several new cars being built for the U. S. Navy was christened the Capt. Kidder Randolph Breeze, in honor of Captain Breeze, who married Miss Marcie Curtin and whose family was well known in Bellefonte.

Rev. George Glenn, born and raised in Buffalo Run Valley, and pastor of the Methodist Church at Mt. Carmel, was among a number of speakers at the annual retreat held at a Methodist conference at Newberry. Although the Rev. Mr. Glenn had not reached retirement age, his health had failed seriously and he was no longer able to carry on the work of his congregation.

Max Krouse, 14-year-old boy of Winburne, Clearfield county, dislocated a 300-pound boiler on a hillside and watched it roll down on the N. Y. C. railroad tracks near Winburne. Fortunately a train which came along a short time later was stopped before it struck the rock. Krouse, brought into court in Bellefonte, frankly admitted dislocating the rock, but denied doing so with a malicious intent. After a severe reprimand, he was released from custody.

Josephine Solt, aged 12, of Snow Shoe, was instantly killed when the car in which she was a passenger was struck by a New York Central passenger train near the Clarence station. The car was driven by her brother, Millard, and Frank Oman also was a passenger in the vehicle. The little girl, seeing a crash inevitable, is believed to have jumped from the car, and was struck by the engine. The two men were considerably shaken up when their machine was struck, but neither of them was injured, except for minor bruises.

William Conley had his left arm in a sling, owing to a severe carbuncle on that member. . . . Donald Gettis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gettis, of Bellefonte, who had been at the Newport training station, was to report to the Philadelphia receiving ship to receive appointment to permanent berth in Uncle Sam's Navy. Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: George L. Russ and Cora D. Ripka, both of Spring Mills; Dan G. Kelen and Leah B. Bigelow, both of Philadelphia; Henry Ellis Hennich, Spring Mills, and Nellie M. Bibe, Spring Mills; Frederick C. Cronemiller, Bellefonte, and Marion V. Smith, Spring Mills; Louis Schneider, Williamsport, and Maudie E. Dunn, Bellefonte; Clayton Slicker and Laura F. McKinley, both of Williamsport.

Sime, and infant son of Port Maillida, Unionville, Milledale, Rebersburg, Aronsburg and Hubersburg, and the weight of the contributions was 20,000 pounds. Mrs. R. S. Bruce was chairman of the movement.

HEALTH

The house guest was duly impressed. Such lovely table service, all sparkling. Rugs and upholstery new and clean. Bedding so white and fresh. Bathroom a delight to the eye.

Then she opened the medicine cabinet. What a shock! It was like finding a rat in the pantry. To some households the medicine cabinet is just a disordered cabinet. It is highly important to the safety of the family that the medicine cabinet be neat and orderly.

Who can excuse rusty razor blades mixed up with remnant bits of hard soap? Or bits of cotton and sundry bits adhering to apocyns sticky from medicine?

Fancy that iodine bottle with its crumbly cork pierced by a bent hairpin?

The cold cream jar with its top off. Not to mention someone's hair comb mixed up with someone else's tooth brush. The spring cleaning should commence with the medicine cabinet. Bottles containing medicine should be properly labeled.

State and useless objects should be thrown away. Of all places, the medicine cabinet should be sanitary and orderly. Danger lurks in the medicine cabinet. Ever heard of someone grabbing the wrong bottle in the dark. It happens often.

This is "Clean up the Medicine Cabinet Week."

Many of the 140,000 persons who die each year in the United States of cancer might be saved. The early diagnosis of the disease is undoubtedly the greatest single factor in successfully combating cancer.

YOUNG SELECTED HEAD OF BELLEFONTE I. O. O. F.

Edward P. Young was elected noble grand of Centre Lodge No. 153, I. O. O. F., at a meeting held in the lodge rooms at Bellefonte Friday night. Other officers elected were: C. E. Hartman, vice grand; Leonard Wiltmer, recording secretary; Cyrus P. Hoy, representative to grand lodge. Two candidates were elected to membership.

The lodge will attend church services in Bellefonte in a body as is the annual custom. It was decided at the meeting. This year's services will be held April 24 at the Reformed church at 10:45 a. m. The Rev. C. Nevill Stamm, pastor of the church, will be in charge of the service. Members of the Rebekah lodge will attend the church services with the Odd Fellows.

Health and Beauty

LISTEN YOUTH!

No. 1

You are standing upon the threshold of life. Only two roads before you. One of them seems very pleasant and easy to travel, but will not always be so. There are swamps and morasses along the way in which hidden dangers lurk. Many groups of young people have started down this road that seemed so fair to them. But, alas, they have been overcome by enemies who came to them in the guise of fair friends. They promised them pleasure if they would but yield to their seductions.

Some of these young people who started upon the wrong road have turned back and have gotten into the right road. But those who heedlessly remain on the wrong road find out when it is too late that they are hopelessly entangled in the morasses of bad habits, shattered health and weakened will.

Listen youth! It is fashionable to drink cocktails today. There are many parties and social gatherings where alcohol is served. You'd better let it alone. It is one of the chief enemies that you will encounter upon the wrong road. Alcohol seems to be such a jolly fellow. He's wearing a mask. If you cultivate him, that pleasing face will change and some day you will know him for the friend he is. If you listen to his siren song and follow him, he'll lead you down a dispiriting and despairing mad house, or an early death.

Let us look at some of the facts about alcohol. It is a narcotic poison. At first it seems to exhilarate to stimulate. When you take one drink it calls for another. For a little while care seems to slip away and you feel rich and happy. By and by the various appetites accept themselves and the drinker falls into stuporous slumber. Next morning the head aches and nausea and depression take the place of exhilaration. What does this mean? It means that alcohol is a poison and is unfit for human consumption.

Listen youth! You are now looking into the real face of your enemy, alcohol. Last night with the jolly crowd, the gay laughter, the bright lights, he presented himself to you as a charming and desirable companion. You listened to his wiles and followed where he beckoned down the wrong road. This morning in the revealing light of day you see him as he is, a deadly enemy that is seeking your destruction. Don't risk him again. Every time that you do, your will is being weakened and your powers of resistance are lessened. If you continue to indulge the habit of drink, you are lost.

The liquor habit is increasing, and to relate. In one city where records are kept, women contribute over nine per cent of the total drunk arrest. Formerly drunken women were almost negligible in this country. Now they are fairly common.

Many people are so susceptible to alcohol that they almost invariably become addicts if they once begin the habit of indulging in it at all. They cannot drink in moderation. This is because alcohol injures their brains and their nervous systems. It masters them and they become its slave. They started on the wrong road and they haven't the strength of character to turn back and get into the right road.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

- Waffles are one of the most acceptable dishes. Breakfast is the most popular meal for them, but they may appear at supper and every day be served as a short-course for dinner.
- Waffles
- 2 eggs
 - 2 cups milk
 - 2 cups sifted flour
 - 1-4 cup fine cornmeal
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 6 tablespoons melted shortening
- Beat eggs well, add milk. Sift together flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Beat into the egg mixture. Add melted shortening. Beat well. Bake in hot waffle iron.
- Chicken and Waffles
- 1 cut-up roasted chicken
 - 3-4 cup sifted flour
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1-2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 small onion
 - Boiling water
- Press into the chicken as much flour as it will take. Chop up very finely the onion. Into a large pot put chicken fat from the chicken. Melt the fat, add butter; into this hot fat add pieces of floured chicken. Brown both sides of each piece. After pieces are brown, place on platter. If pot becomes dry, add a little butter from time to time. When all the chicken is brown, add cut-up onion and brown slightly. Return chicken to pot and add sufficient boiling water to just cover the chicken. Season with salt and pepper. Cover with lid and allow to simmer for 2 hours. Serve with waffles.
- Cheese Waffle
- 1-2 cup flour
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon baking powder
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 2 cup milk
 - 2 eggs
 - 2 tablespoons melted fat
 - 1 cup grated cheese
- Beat eggs well, add milk. Then sifted dry ingredients. Beat well. Add melted fat and grated cheese. Mix well. Cook in hot waffle iron.
- Waffle Shortcake
- 1 cup milk
 - 3 eggs
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 1-3 to 1-2 cup melted fat
 - 2 cups flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
- Combine ingredients as for plain waffles, stirring to dissolve sugar. These rich waffles are better if baked at a lower temperature than the plain ones. The iron may be disconnected for a short time during the baking. Bake about 6 minutes. Serve with pineapple, strawberries, apricots or peaches. Any kind of berry may be served. Top with whipped cream.
- Gingerbread Waffles
- 2 cups flour
 - 1-2 teaspoons ginger
 - 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - Salt
 - 1 cup molasses
 - 1-3 cup butter
 - 1-2 teaspoons soda
 - 1-2 cup sour milk
 - 1 egg
- Sift flour, spices and salt. Heat to boiling point but do not boil. molasses and butter. Remove from fire and beat in soda. Add sour milk. Bake in waffle iron. Do not let iron too hot. Watch carefully. Serve hot with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored.

Sunday School Lesson

FINDING OURSELVES IN SERVICE

International Sunday School Lesson for April 10, 1938.

GOLDEN TEXT: "What doth profit a man, to gain the whole world, and forfeit his life?—Mark 8:36.

Lesson Text: Mark 8:27-37.

Six months before his crucifixion, Jesus led his disciples once again away from the crowd and, anxious to ascertain the fruit of his association with them, asked, as he walked along the roadside, "Who do men say that I am?" Peter, the impulsive Jesus of the group, made the great confession of faith. "Thou art the Christ."

"It was a divine revelation to Peter, in a flash of intuition, which drew into itself the best thoughts, feelings and expressions of the past two years," says William A. Grant. "The lowly origin of the Carpenter, the familiarity of daily intercourse, the shocks of disagreement, the delay of hope, making the hour sick, the haughty repudiation of Jesus by the authorized teachers of Israel, and the ebbing tide of his popularity in Galilee, might have almost justified a fisherman's inability to decide this momentous question. But, in spite of all doubts and graceful uncertainties, there was that in Simon's soul which meant up in answer to the Master's word—wholeheartedness and a sudden sense of the greatness of the Reality in Jesus—impelled by this spirit, he trumped down all doubts, and burst out in enthusiastic confession of faith and loyalty."

Following Peter's outspoken recognition of his divinity, Jesus then began to explain to his disciples how it would be necessary for him to die, also prophesying his resurrection three days afterwards. The prophecy of so shameful a death was certainly the understanding of the disciples. Peter, again the impulsive spokesman, probably encouraged to speak by the recognition given his confession of faith, took Jesus aside and boldly rebuked him.

Without realising it, Peter was bringing back to his master the same objection presented by the devil during the forty days. Jesus proceeded to rebuke Peter, intimating that he was serving Satan in such advice and was unworldly of the things of God.

"The words of Jesus opened up a strange path," says Francis J. Mc-

The Household Scrapbook

- Care of Shoes
- To preserve shoes and make them wear much longer, apply several coats of copal varnish to the soles and the vamp. Shoes treated in this way will seldom have to be half-soled. This is particularly good for children's shoes that receive such hard wear.
- Kitchen Window Shades
- As the kitchen window shades are subjected to more soil than any others in the house, if they are taken off the rollers and turned at house-cleaning time, it will prolong their life.
- Discolored Aluminum
- A discolored aluminum pan will be brightened like magic if a stalk of rhubarb is cut into pieces and boiled in it.
- Cleaning Photographs
- When a photograph has become soiled, it may be cleaned by sponging it very lightly with a cloth wrung from warm water containing a little ammonia. Another method is to moisten some absorbent cotton with alcohol and rub very gently until the photograph is clean. Let it dry naturally.
- Dresser Drawers
- Why not finish the inside of all the dresser drawers with a coat of good white enamel? It will give them a clean, attractive appearance and also lessens the burden of cleaning.
- Seeding the Lawn
- Be sure to sow the grass seed on the lawn on a calm day. Grass seed is very fine and light, and if sown on a windy day, it will not do very much good.
- Dried Fruits
- If dried fruit are to be chopped in food grinder, run cold water over them and they will stick together. Dried fruits can be cooked and kept on hand for a week or more.
- Cough Remedies
- A remedy that is excellent for relieving coughs is made by mixing honey and lemon juice. To relieve a violent spasm of whooping cough, allow a lump of butter to melt in a glass of warm milk and give it to the patient.
- The Double Boiler
- To hasten the cooking of foods in the double boiler, add one tablespoon of salt to each cup of water that is used in the lower portion of the utensil.
- Bluing
- If a lump of soda is dissolved in the hot water on washday, it will prevent the bluing from streaking the clothes.
- Venetian Blinds
- The slats of Venetian blinds should be washed occasionally with a mild soap, as dust accumulates on them very quickly. After washing, rub the slats with a cloth dampened lightly with lime-juice.

Answers to Modern Etiquette

1. It would be better not to do so unless requested by some very intimate friend. Oftentimes a "with all my love" sentiment is deeply regretted.
2. No; this expense should be borne by the family of the bride. The average bridegroom will have enough expense later.
3. It's right arm.
4. No, "Respectfully yours" is used only when writing a business letter, or when an employee is writing his employer. When writing a social letter to one of equal position, "Sincerely yours" is better.
5. With the salt spoon, and placed on the plate, never on the table's harmonica. Another method is to place a small salt cellar on the table.
6. Twenty-five cents a day.
7. No; he should wear only black hose.
8. Notes of invitation should be personally written by the bride.
9. Simplicity. It should have the least number of pieces possible. An over-loaded table does not show good taste.
10. About three weeks.
11. The more important person's name should be accentuated so that it will be as clear as though the word "May I present" had been used.
12. When sauce is served, pluck a leaf of artichoke at a time, holding the pointed tip in the fingers, dipping the other end in the sauce. After eating the tender part, the fibrous tip should be laid on the plate.

Weekly English Lesson

- Words Often Misused
- Do not say, "It was a hectic party," or "We had a hectic time." Say "It was a wild party," or "We had an exciting time." Hectic pertains to slow waste of animal tissue, as in consumption.
- Do not say, "It was a remarkable phenomena." "It was a remarkable phenomenon." Phenomena is the plural form.
- Do not say, "Cut the melon in two halves." Omit two. Halves means two equal parts.
- Do not say, "I placed me in a predicament." Say, "I placed me in a predicament (or dilemma)."
- Do not say, "Let us consider it from this standpoint." Say, "Let us consider it from this point of view."
- Do not say, "He handled the transaction in a cule way." Say, "He handled the transaction in a shrewd (or clever) way."
- Words Often Mispronounced
- Roof. Pronounce the oo as in boot, not as in book.
- Alsace-Lorraine. Pronounce alsas jo-rain, first and second 'a' as in as, as in unstressed, third 'a' as in rain, accent first and last syllables. Abstemious. Pronounce the e as in steam, not as in stem; accent second syllable.
- Gondola. Accent first syllable, not the second.
- Enterprising. Pronounce last syllable as in enter, second syllable as in Manitoba. Pronounce man-i-o-
- Words Often Misspelled

"It detracts nothing from military skill to have been aided by political sagacity."—Canning. SOLICITIOUS; full of desire; eager. "You are solicitous of the room-will of the meepest person."—Ezra-Russell.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Girls:

Two of the letters I received this week, which I have answered, are given below. I think they will be of interest to most of you.

Dear Louisa:

I am engaged to a fine young man who has always been devoted to his mother. He is an only child and when we are married we will live in his mother's house. I like her very much but have heard so much about mother-in-laws that I hesitate to name the day for our wedding. What do you think about it?

RUTH M.

Answer:

In your case, Ruth, there is nothing else to do but live with your mother-in-law. And if you like her there is no reason why you shouldn't get along all right.

Of course you must recognize the fact that you are living in someone else's house and must not try to take over the management of the place. A lot of good common sense is needed by in-laws in the same house but I have known girls who learned to love their mother-in-laws almost as much as they did their own mothers. And having someone in the house with you has its advantages as well as disadvantages.

It is very pleasant to have mother-in-law in the house when you get sick or if you wish to run out at night for a while and don't care to leave a sleeping baby in the house by itself.

Mother-in-law can keep you from making many mistakes the first year—if you'll listen to her. I think the ideal plan is for a young couple to be in a home of their own but if circumstances are such that this is not feasible the best idea is to make up your mind not to be sensitive and not to notice little things that you happen to dislike. Remember, too, that she is making concessions as well as you in having another woman in the house. It is a real joy after you have been married ten or fifteen years to know that your in-laws love you and like to have you with them.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am a woman with four small children. I have some help during the day but we can only afford a cook who leaves after dinner and I nurse every afternoon. I could stand that, I think, but my husband is gone almost every evening and I sit at home by myself. He is not a drinking man but he joins every lodge and attends every meeting that is held in town. He says he benefits his business and that I am selfish to object if I have to spend some evenings by myself.

J. E. B.

Answer:

What you need, J. E. B., is a good servant if your husband can afford one. Many lodges have an attendant and any woman with four small children needs one. As far as your husband's business is concerned, one or two lodges is probably a good thing for it, but when he established a home he created another business for himself which is due a part of his time and interest.

Don't sit at home by yourself every evening. Hire some responsible person to stay with the children and if your husband is otherwise engaged, take in some of the meetings yourself or go to the movies with some of the neighbors.

A man who "joins" everything that comes to town and then is so poor that his wife has to wear her life away nursing and staying alone is the embodiment of selfishness.

LOUISA.

PHILIPPS HOSPITAL IS ALLOTTED FEDERAL FUNDS

Congressman Don Gingery has been notified that the President has approved an allotment of Federal funds in the sum of $3,566 for the improvement of the Phillips Hospital in the borough of Philadelphia, by relocating tennis court, construction of entrance to drive and parking area and performing appurtenant work.

The sponsor of this project is the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare.
