

Echoes From the Past

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Married: April 19th, 1888, at the residence of the bride's parents, Marsh Creek, by the Rev. M. B. Lansing, of George Neff, of Roland, and Miss Lulu Heaton, of Marsh Creek.

The family of the late Lawrence O'Leary are in almost destitute circumstances and the charitable disposed can do a good turn by contributing something to the paper in the hands of Martin Morrison.

On Saturday evening of last week Detective Amos Mullen of this place, brought two young men up from Milledale and took them before Justice Linn on a charge of robbing some freight cars at the Milledale depot. After having a hearing, when the prosecutor was unable to produce sufficient evidence the defendants were discharged.

Burnett-Curtin: On next Wednesday afternoon, May 2, there will take place at the residence of ex-governor Curtin, the marriage of his daughter, Miss Kate, to Mr. Maurice Devitt Burnett, of Syracuse, N. Y. It is understood that great preparations are being made for the happy event. Mr. Burnett is a real estate agent doing business in Syracuse where the young couple is to reside.

Mrs. Bridget McCaffrey, of South Allegheny Street, died on Monday morning about 5 o'clock, after an illness of some duration. Mrs. McCaffrey was seventy years of age at the time of her death. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom survive: the Misses Annie, Kate and Eliza, of this place; Lawrence, now residing in Williamsport; Patrick, living in Lock Haven; Mrs. Elmer, residing in Harrisburg, and one other. The funeral took place yesterday morning.

Just outside of Lewisburg the railroad of the Montandale and Bellefonte line winds around a curve. Only a few days ago, at 1 o'clock p. m., the passenger train was drawing out of Lewisburg and was approaching this curve. The rate of speed was about 20 miles per hour. In the engine were Fireman Piers and Engineer Cherry. The former was bending forward giving his attention to the fire in the engine. While he was doing this he felt the engine stopped with desperate energy and for urgent cause. Looking into the face of the engineer for the reason he saw that it was as white as a sheet and the engineer was looking intently at some object forward on the tracks. The fireman, too looked and saw that the object was a small child endeavoring, though unable to move from the track and looking at the engine with terror. The engine was still moving rapidly and was almost upon the child. Fireman Piers leaped from his place and ran to the front of the engine. He seized the child just as the engine was almost upon it and thus saved its life. It developed that the child was with an older sister, and had wandered on the track while the sister was picking dandelions.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Thomas Johnson, one of the first colored draftees to go to Camp Mead for training, spent a short furlough among friends in this community.

John T. Bent, youngest brother of James G. Bent, of Bellefonte, was reported missing in France. He was a member of Co. C, 236 Overseers Battalion, with the McLean Killites of America.

Charles Boone, of Romola, while en route from Milledale to Howard, escaped injury when his car ran into the side of the railroad bridge at Mt. Eagle. Several occupants of the machine were slightly injured.

Harold Hollobaugh suffered a severe laceration of the head when he fell on Bishop Street. Harold was helping deliver packages for the Adams Express Company, and fell while climbing down from the delivery wagon.

Fifty people from Penns Valley assisted in the moving of Frank M. Fisher from Penn Hall to Centre Hall, Pa. moving removed from Penn Hall the last member of one of the oldest families in that end of the county.

Wilbur E. Saxton was appointed by the Governor as First Lieutenant of the Machine Gun Detachment, Squadron Cavalry, P. R. M., and he was seeking 45 young men between the ages of 18 and 20 and all men over 31 years old to enlist in the company.

The wheat crop in Penns and Nittany valleys was believed to have been saved from destruction by a timely rain. The crops had suffered so severely from a prolonged spring drought, that many farmers were just about to plow their wheat under and plant oats, when the much needed rain arrived.

Miss Mildred Holt, of Moshannon, had resigned her position as teacher in the school at that place to accept a position in the Snow Shoe bank. Her place was taken by Miss Jennie Lucas. Miss Holt took the place made vacant by the resignation of A. L. Shote who had enlisted in the United States Army.

The Pittsburgh and Eastern flyer, due in Bellefonte at 1:26 p. m., figured in a wreck at Dis Station while making up lost time between Grove and Bellefonte. Although two coaches were derailed and thrown to the side of the road bed, no one was seriously injured. The accident was caused by a broken rail. The following Centre Countians were slightly injured in wreck: Mrs. George Summers, Snow Shoe Intersection; Mrs. Iva Shaw, Snow Shoe; C. H. McBride, State College; J. A. Armstrong, Pleasant Gap; and Walter G. Talheim, Julian. C. C. Shuey and Miss Janet Potter, of Bellefonte, were passengers on the train but were not injured.

William S. Zeller had been confined to his home for a week because of illness, and because of his inability to secure a competent druggist, the store had been closed, pending his recovery.

W. S. Runkle had rented the storeroom formerly occupied by C. T. Corman, at Spring Mills, and had installed a steam vulcanizing plant. Mr. Runkle had had long experience in vulcanizing of all kinds.

The roof on the McCoy-Linn charcoal shed caved in from the weight of a heavy snow, and the damage was quite extensive. A granite shaft was erected over the grave of Rev. Father McArdle in the Catholic cemetery by M. R. Johnson.

At a jitney supper held in Millheim, the Red Cross chapter of this community cleared $110.35. Another indication of the progressive spirit of Millheim Red Cross leaders was shown in the fact that they collected more than 1000 pounds of clothing for destitute Belgians.

At a recent pretty wedding ceremony performed in the Little Church Around the Corner, in New York City, Miss Elizabeth Ardell became the bride of Harry Curtin. The groom was a resident of Curtin while Miss Ardell was formerly of Bellefonte, but had been living in New York for some time. The couple was to reside at Curtin.

The funeral of Andrew Crozier took place from the Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. The K. of L. of which he was a member, attended in a body. He leaves a wife and five small children. Consumption was the cause of his death. Deceased was about 35 years old. Mr. Crozier had no near relatives in this community, but a sister, his aged mother and one brother living in Ireland.

John M. Ward, the base ballist, has concluded to cast his fortunes with the New York club again this summer. A dispatch from New York says that President Day met Ward and formally offered him $4,000, which is $1,000 more than he received last year. Ward, he said, demanded $5,000 and refused to sign, but later agreed to the offer. The beautiful and accomplished shortstop will accordingly wear red socks this summer as usual.

Daniel Garman will erect a brick business block on High Street east of the Bush Arcade. Mrs. William Garbrick, of Coleville, was buried on Sunday at Zion. She leaves a husband and large family of children. Consumption, we believe, was the cause of her death. The puddlers of the Bellefonte Iron and Nail Company will still receive 50 cents and more than those of Potstown and Birdsboro. The Brook Iron Company reduced the puddlers wages from $3.50 per ton to $3.25.

John Byrne was severely hurt on Saturday night last. He was walking down Bishop Street in company with some friends when one of them stepped on a loose board on the sidewalk, and one end of the board flew up, striking Mr. Byrne in the head and breaking several ribs. He suffered intensely. The Borough dads had better look after the pavements of the borough while money can be saved. The condition of the boardwalks and pavements of the borough is outrageous and it is a miracle that someone hasn't been hurt before this.

Dr. E. S. Dorworth was confined to his home on East High Street and was in critical condition as the result of a light stroke. Dr. Dorworth was 84 years old.

Twenty-five men and boys from Rebersburg, Millheim and Aaronsburg accompanied Harry Confer, of Rebersburg, into the Woodward Narrows to begin work of planting trees on state lands.

Edmund Blanchard spent several days in New York City in the interests of the McCoy & Linn Iron Works. Mr. Gideon C. Payne departed for Camp Hancock after enjoying a pleasant furlough with his mother, Mrs. Mary Payne. He was stationed with the 109th Artillery Headquarters Company.

John Sourbeck, Bellefonte green grocer and florist, was seriously injured when he was struck by a car driven by John Hoy, of Jacksonville. The accident happened at the railroad station, and the injured man was rushed to the Bellefonte hospital in W. H. Macker's car. His condition at the hospital was serious, it being feared that he had sustained a fractured skull.

R. J. Hartle, road supervisor of Spring Township, was notified to open the road known as the old Lewistown Pike, which was impassable because of snow drifts. Snow blocked roads in April was something of a rarity, but Mr. Hartle, upon driving to the scene in a bobled, found the road completely blocked about a mile southeast of town. It required the efforts of a crew of men several hours of hard work to permit the passage of traffic.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa:— I live in the country and we are comfortably well off but not wealthy. We have a number of relatives who live in nearby cities and whose ideas of a pleasant way to spend Sunday is to pack up their car with all of the children and come to see Cousin Emma— I am Cousin Emma. Now the summer is hot and Sunday is supposed to be a day of rest, but it is anything else but that for me. Ned and Mamie and George all come in with their mouths watering for some of dear Cousin Emma's good fried chicken or country ham or pound cake, which means that I have to swelter over a hot stove and rob the hen and smokehouse. This would be bad enough, but the worst part of the whole thing is that they never insist on my coming to see them, they tell me to come see them but they never set a date. Once when I told them that I expected to be in the city they were awfully sorry that the family was planning to spend that week at the beach while Mamie and George almost burst into tears because their apartment was too small for visitors. I feel that they are making a sucker out of me, but what can I do about it? COUSIN EMMA—N. J.

ANSWER:— You are right when you say your relatives are making a sucker out of you. If they were not inordinately selfish they would refuse to accept your hospitality so much unless they returned it. And there is no law against bringing food from the city to the country. People on the farm enjoy "store" hams for a change or any number of delicacies that they are unable to get in a small place. Of course there are some parents who always consider themselves first and never let their children interfere with anything they wish to do. These parents are just as bad for the children as those who go to the other extreme. Try to strike a happy medium; let them realize that you want them, but that they must learn to give as well as take. LOUISA.

Health and Beauty

DISCOURAGEMENT— Did you ever stop at a shack where there were one or more half-fed and ill-treated dogs? Perhaps they made a pretense of salivating ferociously and snarling at your feet. If you had no stick with which to defend yourself they might bite you, but if you furnished a cudgel, they would tuck their tails between their legs and sink away. What was the matter with those dogs that they showed such an anti-social spirit? Why were they so sneaking, threatening, snarling and yet so cowardly and mean-spirited? The real trouble lay with their masters. The dogs were unfriendly and threatening because their masters had been warped by cruelty and mismanagement. They were cowardly and mean because fear was in their hearts. The same thing happens to children who are not treated well. They do not develop their good qualities, because they constantly suffer from fear and discouragement. On the other hand there are parents who spoil their children. They systematically shield them from all hard tasks. Such children do not develop normally. They are usually egotistical, overbearing and unreasonable. They expect other people to defer to them as their parents have always done. They lack the qualities of forbearance, courage and persistence that it takes to succeed in life. They have not learned to face and surmount difficulties, because their parents were too doing and short sighted to help them to develop those qualities. By spoiling and pampering their offspring they send them out in life unprepared for its trials and utterly unable to meet successfully its emergencies. Do not dampen the ardor of children by discouraging them. Don't tell them that they cannot perform reasonable tasks. For instance, if your small boy wants to build a little wagon, don't tell him that he can't build it, that you'll buy him one. The boy desires and needs to use his hands and his brain. He will develop initiative and self-confidence by planning and making it for himself.

Answers to Modern Etiquette

- 1. This depends entirely upon the intimacy. "Let us forget." "To a good friend." "Greetings from a friend." "Greetings from (place taken)." If a group picture, this picture would be complete if you were in it.
2. Yes. It is always annoying to Mr. Gordon to be called Mr. Jordan, or Mrs. Hudson to be called Mrs. Hobson; but a well-bred person will not show the annoyance, and can tactfully correct (a person if the error is repeated.
3. There should be one set of shakers between each two covers.
4. It would be better to merely say, "How do you do," and not recall the other occasion.
5. After the last guest has departed, unless one or two guests are unduly late.
6. Parallel across the plate, with the handles to the right.
7. The same form should be used as when replying to any formal invitation, and should be written on the first page of good, white note paper.
8. Yes, they should even be encouraged to do so, and trained to converse quietly and intelligently.
9. No, it is not good taste. A woman in business should avoid any conspicuous makeup.
10. No; the tissue paper should be discarded.
11. The hostess should stand at her place and tell each guest where to sit.
12. Either form is correct.

Sunday School Lesson

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE. International Sunday School Lesson for April 24, 1938.

GOLDEN TEXT: "This is my beloved son; hear ye him."—Mark 9:7. Lesson Text: Mark 9:2-10.

The regular sequence of our lessons was broken by the special Easter lesson last week. This week's lesson in point of time follows the one for April 10th, in which Peter made his avowal at Caesarea Philippi that Jesus is the Christ, and Jesus' announcement of his coming crucifixion, by about six days.

Taking with him his three favored disciples—Peter, James and John—Jesus went apart from the crowds into a mountain, probably for prayer and spiritual communion with God, his father. There on the mountain-top, Jesus was transfigured before them, passing through an inspiring spiritual experience. Moses, the ancient lawgiver, and Elijah, the brave and determined prophet of the days long past, were recognized by the disciples.

The effect upon Jesus was noticeable. The three witnesses saw his face shining as the sun and his eyes being radiating purity and goodness in its inherent brightness. Other men have revealed transfigured souls to a lesser degree. Moses, the law, and Stephen, dying for his faith at the hands of fanatical opponents, both attracted similar attention. H. M. Luckock, describes the transfiguration thus, "The veil of flesh which had concealed the glory of the Godhead was, as it were, withdrawn, and the full glory of infinity broke forth from within, while ever his garments caught the wondrous rays, and shimmered with the dazzling brightness of sun-mountain snow."

Just what was the purpose of the transfiguration? Had not Peter already uttered in his naturally emphatic manner, that Jesus was the promised Messiah? But, did Peter or any of the other disciples realize all that that statement meant, either for Jesus or for themselves? Therefore, they needed confirmation of the confession which Peter had made, to realize more fully that he was the Christ the Son of God, even though he was to be put to death, as Jesus had prophesied. In order to meet this situation, "A revelation was given to three of their number—Peter, James and John—in the vision of the transfiguration of Jesus; the single purpose of which was to confirm their Messianic confession despite what seemed to them the un-Messianic way of the cross." (S. D. Not only did the transfiguration serve to convince his three chosen disciples of the deity of Jesus Christ, but it may also be said that it served as a means of comfort and assurance to Jesus himself in the midst of so many misconceptions of him and his mission on the part of those he came to serve and even his own disciples. He heard also the voice that came out of the cloud which declared, "This is my beloved Son; hear him."

It is worthy of note that the vision came after prayer. So often in the Gospel we read of Jesus going off into some quiet, solitary place, apart, for prayer and communion with God. "Communion with God issues even in a transfigured life," says G. Campbell Morgan. "It was when Christ was praying that he was transfigured. When the disciples pray, as he prayed, they also will be transfigured as he was transfigured. This will not be until salvation is complete. While there lurks within possibilities of unbelief, fellowship is not perfected, and final transfiguration cannot be. And yet, the measure of transfiguration, even here and now. How often, even amid the shadows of the little while, with the faces of the saints are seen lit with the light of the inward glory. Those who, indeed, would escape the darkness of the world, must be transformed and transfigured by union with God."

What was the reaction of the three disciples to the glory of the transfiguration? Aweed by the sight and the magnificence, Peter spoke the first thought that came into his mind—"Rabbi, it is good for us to be here." HARRY V. KEELER, Sheriff's Office, Bellefonte, Pa. 117
