Announce Changes In Four Pastorates

from the Glen Hope charge to the Penn's Valley charge, succeeding the Rev. Seth Russell, who has accepted a position as professor in rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State College.

At Snow Shoe the Rev. R. C. Decher was transferred to East W. Terford, while the Rev. Charles M. Hammond is the new pastor of the Snow Shoe charge.

The Rev. W. J. Cummings, formerly stationed at Wallace Run, was assigned to the Half Moon charge, succeeding the Rev. R. L. Naylor, who has withdrawn from the ministry and who is now engaged in farming in Buffalo Run, Valley.

Pastors of four other county charges were returned for another year, as follows: Bellefonte, the Rev. H. Willis Hartsock; State College, the Rev. Harry F. Babcock; student pastor, Rev. C. G. Norris; Port Matilda, Rev. D. A. Sowers, and Phillipsburg, the Rev. George S. Womer.

Nearby changes in pastorates include: Karthaus, the Rev. N. D. Shurey, succeeding Rev. Elwood Blair, who goes to the Lock Haven charge; Salona-Lamar, the Rev. M. W. Randall; Sandy Ridge, the Rev. M. S. Cowher.

C. C. Shuey, of Bellefonte, attended the conference as lay delegate from the local church, while the Rev. Mr. Hartsock and Mrs. Hartsock also were in regular attendance. Various members of the Bellefonte congregation motored to Williamsport during the week-end to attend special features of the conference.

The conference adopted resolutions placing its 109,000 communicant members on record as opposing the legalization of gambling, lotteries and bingo, urging continued resistance to the liquor traffic and calling for the "nationalization of the munitions industry" as a means of preventing the exportation of war materials to foreign countries.

The report of the committee on peace, submitted just before the concluding business session of the conference adjourned, appealed to national legislators to prohibit the exportation of all materials of war and to allow military training in public educational institutions to be optional.

Capacity crowds attended the Sunday services of the conference in the Pine Street church.

The annual Love Feast, at 9 o'clock Sunday morning and the ordination service in the afternoon were highlights of the day.

An audience estimated at 2,200 persons heard Bishop Charles L. Mead, D.D., L.L.D., of Kansas City, Mo., presiding at the conference business sessions, presiding in the morning worship period. His theme was "The Sufficiency of Christ."

He emphasized the fact that sin is everywhere apparent, that it touches all lives, that human effort to achieve a better life and gain victory over sin must center entirely in the forgiveness of God.

The Love Feast service was conducted by the Rev. S. B. Evans, D.D., retired, of Williamsport, who has been in the Methodist ministry for 52 years.

thereupon consider the amendment. State Council Must Approve

"If the Council approves the amendment, the Court may consent to the amendment. If the Council disapproves, the Court may refuse the application. Hearings may be had for the purpose of determining objections to the proposed change of name. After approval, the articles are recorded in the office of the recorder of Centre County. Thereupon, they are returned to the prothonotary and filed in his office."

Margiotti's opinion traces the evolution of the college name from its first title of Farmers' High School of Pennsylvania, at the time of its original incorporation in 1885 to the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania in 1882, and thence to its present name of the Pennsylvania State College, adopted January 26, 1874.

Earle contends the school's present name is misleading and that it should be designated as a university.

Snyder. Phillips had taken his son to church in Sunbury before his parked car was found. It is believed that he leaped into the water from the bridge.

Pressure groups continue to make the American taxpayers pay through the nose.

FIGHT FLIES FOR SAFETY AND HEALTH OF FAMILY

Safeguarding the health of the children and the family is the responsibility of every homemaker. One health hazard is the common house-fly. The first one to appear should remind us that generations will follow if we and our neighbors do not do something about it.

There are protective measures we can take to safeguard the home and food supply from flies, explains Miss Eleanor J. Smith, home economics extension representative of Centre County. Spring housecleaning is the time to clean out and get rid of their breeding places.

A general clean-up campaign is suggested to dispose of all refuse and rubbish that collects rapidly in any house. All members of the family can have a part in this campaign.

Screens on all doors and windows help to keep flies out of the house. The screens should fit tightly and the meshes of the screen should be small. Screens made of copper wire are more expensive than those made of painted or galvanized. However, copper lasts longer and will be as cheap or cheaper in the end. Screen doors should fit close and be hung so that they open out. Flies gather on the screen and when a door opens in, it is easier for flies to enter the house.

In spite of a well-screened house, flies get in so that all food should be covered. Constant warfare is necessary. We may have to resort to swatting, fly traps, sprays, and fly papers, but continue the fight against flies for the sake of the family's health.
