

Liberty, Keynote of Address

dead but never to himself had said. "This is my own native land." At no time in the history of our country do we need deeper patriotism. From the bottom of our hearts we should rejoice that we are citizens of the United States. The highest distinction that the old Roman had was that he could say, "I am a Roman citizen." Even the humble St. Paul boasted of it. These men never had the reason to rejoice in their citizenship that we have. Look at the world today. After the World War, as the poet prophesied, "Kings became a broken brood." And the foundations of the world seem shaken. Men wandered in confusion seeking a cure for the ills of the world. In their foolishness, they placed their hopes in new forms of government. They thought change meant progress. From that feeling communistic Russia was born. To counteract that communism, fascism sprang up in Germany and Italy. In Mexico we have socialism. Did these nations find peace or happiness in their new found forms of government? They did not, and they never will because they sacrificed their greatest possession, Liberty.

It is as true today as it was when Patrick Henry said it, "Give me Liberty or give me Death." In these countries I have mentioned, Liberty is an unknown idea. The rights of the individual and the family have vanished, and the people of these states are called upon to forget God and to worship a mythical organization called the "state." The very idea of Liberty was destroyed in these countries.

How different it is with us. I know, through our carelessness, many evils have crept into our government. I know that a democracy lacks efficiency. I know that our tax burden is great, but after all, we have our liberty, which means to us the right to life and the pursuit of happiness. The individual has his place, his rights are not trampled upon, the family is allowed to flourish and education is not controlled by any dictator. Our press is still free. We are not fed on the propaganda that keeps us in power. Our philosophy still is true that government should be of the people, by the people and for the people. Through the ballot we are still kings, and by our Supreme Court we are defended in our inalienable rights. All's right with the world when such an event as the Scoboro case can occur. It is a fine example of our love of justice, when the august Supreme Court stood between five poor colored men and a prejudiced court to show the world that even the lowliest has a right to Liberty in our dear land.

Of my friends, when we see what is masquerading in the world today under the name of government, we should get down on our knees and thank God for our American citizenship. It is our duty today to rededicate ourselves to the task of keeping our Liberty unimpaired. Perhaps upon the greatest defenders of our Liberty is a free press. Let us help to keep it free. In this respect we should be like the old Liberty lover, "I hate what the man says, but I am willing to give up my life that he may have the right to say it." It's a fine thing and a very safe thing, when we do not hold our rulers in too much awe and can realize their human limitations like the rest of men. In no country of the world could a play be put on the boards exposing the foibles of the President, as lately occurred in New York. Of course, with St. Paul we honor our government, but they are not so sacred, and it is well for the Liberty of our country that the light of a free press fall upon them.

The other great bulwark of our Liberty is the Supreme Court. It is the most priceless fruit of the wisdom of the founding of our State. As in the Scoboro case, the Supreme Court has always been the defender of the weak and helpless. The evil of communism and fascism is that it gives minorities no rights. The Supreme Court has taken upon itself the defense of our minorities. It has always upheld the Constitution, so that the rights of the individual can not be trampled upon. As long as the Constitution stands the Supreme Court will interpret it in favor of Liberty.

We should be on our guard to see that that Court should never be tampered with. We should keep it as our last defense against encroachments of usurpers. It should be our greatest defense against the foes of Liberty. We should have a real appreciation of its worth and by eternal vigilance keep it as it stands.

In concluding, there is no greater thought that I can leave you than saying that Liberty is our greatest blessing. That its value is beyond words. Knowing this, let us live and act so that government of the people, by the people and for the people should not perish from the earth.

It's about time for your neighbor to be telling you about the fine garden that he has.

YOUR EYES AND OUR SERVICE

June 2, 1938. It is not necessary here to enumerate the various errors of vision. There are but few of them, but the variety of results of such defects is beyond computation. Scarcely any two people have identical results or require a similar correction. That indicates the folly of a person believing that he or she can choose a correction of imperfect sight, or can be properly supplied without an examination.

Women of Ancient Greece Whiteden Face With Lead

The women of Greece were among the first to use white lead—carbonates—to whiten their faces. Although it was usually accompanied by unexplained cases of poisoning which often led to the death of the individual, this substance continued in popular use for many centuries. Soot was used to darken the eyebrows, and rouge was commonly made of vegetable substances, including seaweed and mulberry.

The toilet of the Greek lady began when she put on her face a mask of meal which remained there all night and in the morning was washed off with milk. It was a beauty mask, writes Virginia S. Eifer in National Histories guaranteed to remove blemishes and restore waning beauty. After the morning milk bath, the white lead powder was put on, and then the rouge, the eye-shadow, and the eyebrows. These latter were sometimes false.

As the Roman writer Petronius said: "The lady takes her eyebrows out of a little box." False or not, the lady fixed her eyebrows, submitted herself to the hairdresser's fingers, was dressed and heavily perfumed, and then was ready for the day, much of which had already passed in beautification.

Both men and women indulged in fancies for the hair. Blondes were popular in Greece, and while the rage for light-colored hair was at its height, any means was permissible to obtain and display a head of golden hair.

Memory of Louis XIV is Always Keen in France

Although a republic, France remembers Louis XIV as one of the greatest monarchs of the past, for it was through him that the country received many of its artistic and architectural treasures. Because of their value to the republic, France devotes a fraction of its budget to maintaining and restoring the castles, gardens, churches, squares and other contributions of Louis XIV to the country.

Versailles palace is an achievement of the monarch which has remained a wonder of the world throughout the centuries. Important in French history of the past, the palace plays a major part in the life of the country, for it is there that the election of the president of the republic takes place.

France recalls the fact that Louis XIV gave the country its golden age in literature and art, that he enlarged the Louvre, helped create the Tuileries gardens and did much to beautify the city of Paris.

On September 5, 1638, Louis XIV was born at St. Germain-on-Laye in the chateau begun by Henry II and completed by Henry IV. The room where the "sun king" was born still remains and is now a miniature Louis XIV museum.

Palms in Coat of Arms

Palm is used in the coat of arms of South Carolina. Legends have it that the Virgin Mary commanded the palm to bend its leaves over Christ during the trip into Egypt. Palms were known to have supplied tribes not only with food, but also oil and fuel. One of the superstitions pertaining to palms, notes a writer in the Rural New-Yorker, is that if one would make a cross of leaves he would be free from injury during a heavy storm. People in some sections of the country believe that it will drive mice away from granaries; that if leaves are eaten it will cure fever, or that if a palm leaf is put behind the picture of Virgin Mary on Easter morning it will drive away all animals without bones.

Genre Painting

Though practiced in early art, as Pompeian frescoes show, and in the Middle Ages, genre painting was not recognized independently until the Sixteenth century in Flanders, where it was popularized by Pieter Bruegel. It reached its heyday in Holland in the Seventeenth century with Gerard Dou, Ter Borch, Metsu, De Hooch, Vermeer and others of note and extended to France and England in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries. Among its exponents were Watteau, Chardin, Morland, Vibert, Boughton and Wilkie.

Suitors Must Stand Pail

Suitors in the Egyptian Sudan must be able to "take it" if they would win the hand of a Sudanese maiden. The ability to stand severe pain is the first prerequisite in becoming eligible as a husband. When a girl is unable to choose between two men she sits a sword to each of her wrists, sits between the men and brings the sharp sword points slowly down on their thighs. The man who can endure the most pain wins the girl.

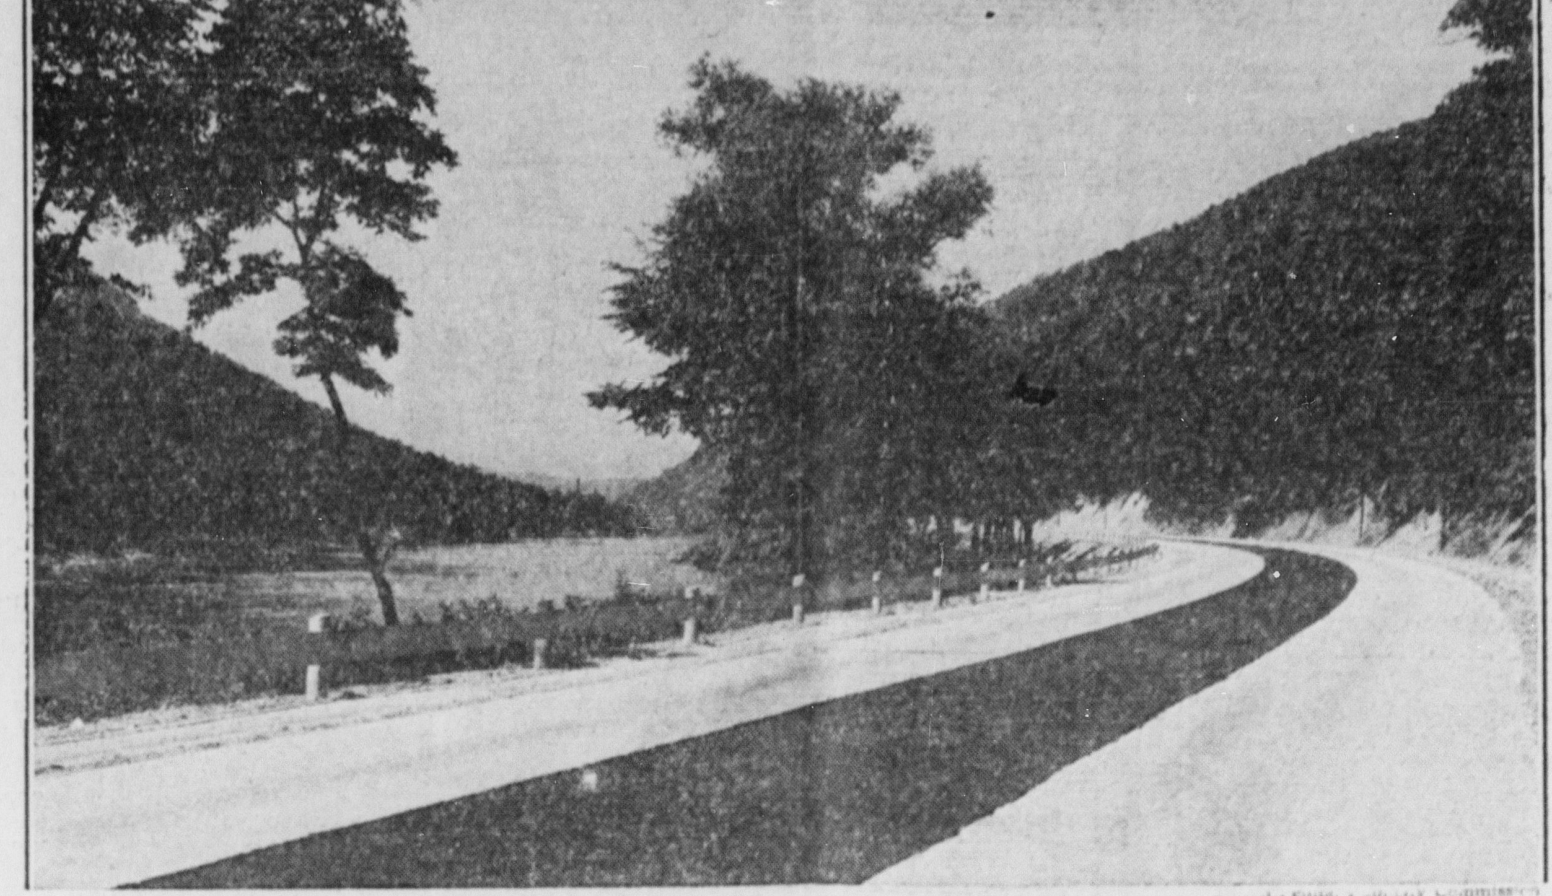

Poi, Native Hawaiian Dish

Hawaiians, in their native dish or poi, discovered the real source of good teeth and bones long before modern science. Research into the dental superiority of Hawaiians reveals that poi, which has long been a leading native dish in the islands, contains an unusually large quantity of calcium and phosphorus. This coupled with the sunshine of the islands, which furnished the necessary vitamin D element, resulted in the fine teeth and bones of the island race.

Visits Doctor—Dies

Wilmer Harry Stewart, 33, of Bellefonte, drove to his physician's office and then started home but didn't reach there. He died at the wheel from a heart attack. As the machine went out of control it nearly crashed another vehicle.

Broad Highway Through Lewistown Narrows

A modern three-lane highway now carries motorists through beautiful Lewistown Narrows—famous for a century as a major stagecoach and Conestoga wagons rumbled, the highway is a favorite with tourists seeking roadside beauty.

reer was employed as a trust teller for the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company.

Since completing his college education, Mr. Robb has been employed in the credit department of the Irving Trust Company in New York. There he and two other men had charge of the foreign credit work for the bank, and he comes here with the highest of recommendations from his superior officers.

Mr. Robb is married and there is one daughter in the family, Mrs. Robb, the former Anne Wagner, is a native of Bellefonte and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Wagner, of Willowbank street. They will move to Bellefonte as soon as suitable living quarters have been secured.

Relatives Now Expected to Aid

ings in excess of $190.00; a relative with nine children and over would be expected to contribute his earnings in excess of $200.00.

This schedule applies to naturally responsible relatives living in the same household with the applicant or recipient, as well as to all legally responsible relatives residing within the Commonwealth.

A memorandum recently issued by Arthur W. Howe, Jr., Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance explains that the law establishes the legal responsibility of a spouse, a child, parent, grandparent, grand-child for the support of their dependent relatives. The assistance program also recognizes natural responsibility of other relatives where such responsibility exists.

Individuals having a natural responsibility toward persons in need are expected to discharge this responsibility before the public is asked to assume it, according to a recent statement by Mr. Howe.

"I am not completely in sympathy with this policy of the State office, and feel that they should be strictly enforced," another member of the Centre County Board of Public Assistance said recently. "In Centre county it will mean that the investigators will be required to discontinue Old Age Assistance to beneficiaries whose children or grandchildren have relatively small incomes."

"I am in sympathy with these policies and feel that they should be strictly enforced," another member of the Centre County Board of Public Assistance said today. "Why should the taxpayer's money be spent for the maintenance of old men and women whose children or grandchildren are able to support them? Too many relatives are passing the burden to the Government when it comes to helping members of their families."

When it is determined that a responsible relative is able to support an Old Age Assistance recipient in whole or in part, that relative will be advised that the grant to his dependent will be cancelled or reduced and such cancellation or reduction will be made immediately, Leon Mirbach, executive director, Centre County Board of Public Assistance explained today. A Review Committee, he said, has been established to hear appeals from applicants, recipients or relatives concerning the amount such relatives have been expected to contribute to the support of the applicant or recipient.

Bellefonte Man Gets 2 to 4 Years and Bellefonte Police Officer Donald Johnson Wednesday night of last week saw a Bellefonte boy, under 16 years of age get into Morgan's car. The officers followed the car but lost the trail. The following night the Sheriff and Johnson again followed Morgan's car after he had picked up the same youth, but again lost track of the other machine. That night he questioned the youth, and obtained a full statement from him, which led to Morgan's confession after his arrest.

Herbert Hilliard, of Coleville, entering a plea of guilty to a charge of furnishing intoxicants to minors, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $1 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 30 days. According to Sheriff Keeler, who was the prosecutor in the case, Hilliard gave minors liquor he purchased at the State Liquor store in Bellefonte.

Two Phillipsburg youths were sentenced to make restitution of more than $100 worth of stolen property, pay a fine of $1 each and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days when they entered a plea of guilty to breaking into and robbing the Jones & Company hardware store in Phillipsburg on April 12.

The boys were William Smith, aged 16, and Walter Winn, aged 19. Winn served a third month of the party who acted as watchman during the robbery, fled before he and Smith came out of the store and has not been apprehended. Two years ago Smith completed a two year sentence at Kils-Lyn on a larceny charge, while Winn had no previous record.

The prosecutor in the case was Charles Rumberger, of Phillipsburg, who claimed the boys took guns, ammunition and fishing tackle valued at about $170. Much of the loot was recovered, he said, but was badly damaged through having been exposed to the weather. He said his loss was more than $100.

Arthur McCoy, of Phillipsburg, entered a plea of guilty to the larceny of less than $20 worth of canned goods, silver ware and other items from the home of Joe McMinical, but contended that he was so intoxicated he didn't remember taking the things.

"Joe (a neighbor) had a full quart of whiskey, and he invited me down for a drink," McCoy told Judge Walker before sentence was passed. "I went down to Joe's at least five times, and after that I don't remember what happened."

McCoy, a WPA worker, was advised to stay away from drink if he couldn't handle it, and in addition was placed under probation for three years upon payment of the costs of prosecution and making restitution of the pilfered goods.

After pleas of guilty had been disposed of yesterday morning Judge Wallace Smith, president judge of Clearfield county, presided over hearings in two civil actions in which Judge Walker had been interested in as an attorney.

in and about Altoona, Blair county. Then they returned to Centre county for four years, and in 1914 bought a home at Warriors Mark, Huntingdon county, where they have resided since that time.

At the anniversary gathering a sumptuous picnic dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Nelson, of Hollidaysburg; Mr. and Mrs. B. T. McCombs, of Lakenont; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Baney, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Baney and children, Mary, Ernest, James, Clair, Jean and George; Mr. and Mrs. William Sunday and children, Dorothy, Calvin, Eva, Paul, Florence, Violet, William, Jr. and George Henry. Mr. and Mrs. John Baney and son Donald, all of Warriors Mark; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker and son Merrill, of Stormstown; Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, of Fairbrook; and Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Baney, the guests of honor.

Of their twenty grandchildren all but four were present, and of their five great-grandchildren, only two were present.

It is the sincere hope of their many friends that good health and happiness may attend them for many more years.

HOUSEHOLD SCRAPBOOK

Perishing Hands

When troubled with perspiring hands, try applying two or three times a day, or at least nightly, an astringent lotion consisting of one part boracic acid to twenty parts of water, and then dust them with talcum powder.

Remove Rust

There is nothing like a touch of kerosene to remove the rust from iron or steel, when applied with powdered bath brick to give it the proper roughage.

Pie Crust

If the pie is warmed before the undercrust of a pie is put into it, the crust will not become soft and soggy when it is baking.

Rose Bushes

When watering a rose bush, the best method to follow is to allow the hose to run on the ground around the bush so that the water will seep into the ground; the roots require an abundance of water, but not the foliage.

Clean All Fruit

It is a wise practice to wipe off all fruit with a damp cloth when it comes from the market, not only to clean it from dust, but also to check any rot from infected fruit with which it may have come in contact.

Setting Colors

To set colors in cotton goods before washing the first time, soak for twenty minutes in cold water, to which a handful of salt has been added.

Care of Dog

If the dog has an upset stomach, stop feeding him immediately and allow his stomach to rest for a day. The following morning give him a physic and feed lightly. This will aid his digestive tract.

Dish Cloths

Often in damp weather, the dish towels and dish cloths will acquire a disagreeable smell that ordinary washing does not seem to remove. In this case, add a little ammonia to the water when washing them, and they will again become fresh and clean.

Cleaning Grained Woodwork

Grained woodwork may be effectively cleaned by rubbing well with linseed oil and polishing with a dry cloth.

Cream Tint

If it is desired to tint the lace or muslin curtains, a cream color, this can be accomplished by dipping them into weak coffee or tea. Be sure, however, that the latter is strained before putting the curtains into it.

Peanut Butter

Try spreading peanut butter between crackers and placing them in the oven until crisp and a golden brown. You will have a delicious little tidbit to serve with almost any kind of salad.

Aged Tyrone Woman Dies

Miss Anne Morrow, one of Tyrone's oldest residents and the oldest member of the First Presbyterian church of that town, died at her home last Thursday morning. Her only survivor is a nephew, Ralph Morrow, of Salt Lake City, Utah.

liver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at services to be held in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, June 5. This service will be the first of what promises to be a busy commencement week for the 124 members of the graduating class as well as for pupils in the lower high school classes and grades in the Bellefonte schools. The junior declamatory contest will be held Monday night, June 6, in the high school auditorium. The program is scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and the usual 15 cents admission fee will be charged. Girl contestants are: Winifred Fleming, Helen Olsen, Mary Kathryn Flynn and Roseann Brachbill, with Jean Wallace, of Milesburg, as alternate. Boy contestants are: Jack Cole, Glenn Peters, William Johnson and Theodore Lindquist, with Robert Cheesman as alternate. The contestants have been studying under the direction of Miss Mary Forbes, of the English Department.

On Tuesday evening pupils in the 7th, 8th and irregular grades will present their promotion exercises in the high school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock. There is no charge for this event.

The Bishop street, Spring street and Primary buildings will hold their programs on Wednesday afternoon and will repeat them Wednesday evening in order to furnish all parents the opportunity of attending the exercises. These programs will be presented in the respective classrooms.

The manual training exhibit will be held in the gymnasium on North Spring street and will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 8 to 9:30 o'clock. The sewing and art exhibits will be held in the Home Economics Department on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9:30 o'clock. Social festivities for the com-lish returned from an eight-week visit with her sister at Parkburg. While there she suffered an attack of pneumonia but overcame it and was apparently in better physical condition than before. Family members stated that her health had been failing for some time and had not been good for ten years. On Sunday Mrs. Emigh visited the family graves at the Phillipsburg cemetery and was active and in apparent good health.

She was born on February 10, 1854, in the same house at which she died. She lived all of her life in Phillipsburg with the exception of twelve years spent in Woodland, a cousin of the Phillipsburg Public schools for some eight years before her marriage to Dr. G. W. Emigh, a physician of Woodland and Phillipsburg.

After her marriage, the couple lived at Woodland where the doctor practiced, and after twelve years moved back to Phillipsburg and occupied the Phillipsburg Club House now occupied by the Ratowskys.

The only child born to this union, Walton, met death by an accident at the age of fourteen when he fell from a telephone pole. The doctor died in 1919.

One sister, Mrs. Lynn Howe Harris survives at Parkburg, and a brother, Ira B. Howe, lives at the family home.

The deceased was a daughter of Robert M. and Julia Ann Phillips Howe. Her grandparents were the William Phillips, early settlers and a cousin of Hardman Phillips, the founder of Phillipsburg.

Funeral services were held at the home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.
