Logan Firemen Eat Roast Pig

ed potatoes, baked lima beans, and other items on the menu, the dinner was the most ambitious one undertaken by the Logan Company for the past number of years. Two tables extending nearly the entire length of the main room, and comfortable chairs provided by E. E. Widdowson, were a welcome change from the buffet suppers which have been in vogue for some years.

Charles E. Dorworth, of Bellefonte, acting as toastmaster at the dinner, enlivened the occasion with a rich vein of ready wit, and called upon the following persons for brief talks: Earl Custer, president of the Logan Company; Fire Marshall John J. Bower; Councilmen Thomas Beaver, William Doll, Melvin Cherry, Leslie Thomas and Harry Badger; Charles Kellerman, a visiting fireman from the Undine Company; State Motor Police officer George L. Finkbeiner; Captain Herbert M. Beezer, of the Machine Gun Troop; Charles Schaeffer, in charge of the evening's program; Fire Chief Philip Saylor, and E. E. Widdowson.

Toastmaster Dorworth threw congratulations into the camp of the Bellefonte Newswriters' Association when he unexpectedly called upon three members of that organization, namely John Smith, Jack H. Yeager and P. M. Dubbs for a few remarks, none of which the association has voted, is worth repeating.

The dinner was the result of a happy inspiration of Mr. Irvin's at the St. Patrick's Day buffet luncheon. At that time he suggested a pig roast, with him bringing the pig. Other Logan members immediately fell in step, and Tuesday's affair, which might well become an annual Flag Day event, was the result.

Ordinance Held Invalid by Court

clares that it is the purpose of the law to seek uniformity in regulations whenever possible, and that the State College regulation is directly in opposition to this policy.

Going further, the Court holds in substance that if the State College law were declared valid and binding, there is nothing to prevent every community in the state from passing traffic laws requiring almost an unlimited variety of regulations, to the hopeless confusion of motorists traveling through the various municipalities. It is pointed out that under such conditions, a motorist would oftentimes not know when he was committing a violation of some local law.

The decision was rendered in the case of Walter S. Zahniser, of Fleming, commander of Brooks-Doll Post of the American Legion, Bellefonte, Zahniser was arrested in State College for failure to report an accident in which total damage was over $5.00. He was fined $1.00 and directed to pay costs of $2.25. He appealed the case to court and at a hearing May 5, was found guilty and was directed to pay a fine of $5 and the costs of prosecution. He then filed a motion for arrest of judgment on the grounds that the ordinance was not valid.

In yesterday's opinion, the arrest of judgment is allowed, Zahniser is discharged from paying any penalty, and the costs are placed on the county.

According to Judge Walker's interpretation, the State laws hold that local authorities may require reporting of motor vehicle accidents, but that such local reports shall not conflict with the necessity of reporting such accidents to the state. The State Motor Code, requiring a report only where the total damage in an accident is $50 or more, provides a penalty of a $10 fine or 5 days in jail for failure to obey the law.

On the other hand, the State College ordinance, requiring a report on all accidents where damage is more than $5.00 carries a penalty of a fine of from $1 to $25, or from 5 to 30 days in jail. The Court holds that it is possible under this set-up for a motorist violating the State College ordinance to suffer a heavier penalty for failing to report an accident of less than $50 than if he failed to report an accident with damage of over $50 to the State.

Anyhow, the opinion continues in effect, the State law provides that the maximum sentence for violation of local borough traffic ordinances shall be not more than a $50 fine nor more than 10 days in jail.

Concluding, the Court rules that Section 2 of the State College ordinance is without legal standing in the Courts.

Male Chorus to Sing in Pine Hall Church

church. With this nucleus from which to work, E. C. Martz had the vision and inspiration for a male chorus.

During the following week, a revival meeting was held in the town and at one of the meetings the male chorus of Lewistown sang some very fine selections in an impressive manner. Their singing ignited the glowing embers and fired the hopes and zeal of those present and soon plans were under way, books were ordered, and practice night set for a chorus.

Early practices were held at the home of Miss Mary Ward, who served as pianist. Later, as the group grew, the place of practice was moved to the Methodist church.

During the time of their organization the chorus has made 35 appearances and has sung 220 numbers. They have sung at Pine Grove Mills, Fairbrook, Bellefonte, Warriors Mark, Boalsburg, Centre Hall, Unionville, Lemont, Franklinville, Lewistown, Elkh, Western Penitentiary, and Hubersburg.

The officers of the chorus are: A. Brooks Corl, president; G. H. Everts, vice president; George Burwell, secretary and treasurer, and E. C. Martz, leader.

At present the chorus has the following membership:

1st Tenor: E. C. Martz, Clair Kline, Ben Hoover, Charles Gearhart, Blanchard Parsons.

2nd Tenor: Wilson Henry, George Burwell, Wilbur Sunday, Gerald Newman, Russell Bloom, Fred Gearhart, Jr.

Baritone: A. Brooks Corl, Robert Corl, Robert Callahan, G. H. Everts, George Reed, Frank Reed.

Bass: John Bailey, Joseph Johnson, George Harris, Burton Ward, Vernon Wetmore, Roy Myers.

Pianist, Miss Mary Ward.

June 16, 1938. Living conditions today impose a strain on the eyes that was not foreseen by nature. More close eye work is done than formerly. Instant decisions are constantly required by drivers of automobiles. Glare is everywhere and incessant. All of which suggests that EVERYONE should have his eyes made as nearly perfect in efficiency as possible.

Seek PWA Aid For School

district's share of expense not to exceed $62,000. This will mean probably that some rooms will not be fully furnished, or that other work will not be completed in the project, although the PWA requirements demand that any building shall be completed and equipped to the extent that it is "usable."

The new building will not be ready for use until the opening of school in September of next year, Mr. Hunter predicted. Even with everything moving smoothly he held out no hopes that the building could be put to use before that time. He urged immediate action upon getting the work started, for he claimed that the present time is an ideal one for purchasing building supplies, costs being about 20 per cent lower than they were a year ago. He also added that the cost of building materials is expected to rise sharply in the near future.

The Board, which at the May meeting decided not to open a department of Vocational Agriculture until next year, reversed this decision Monday night when the State Department notified them that if the funds set aside by the State to aid in establishing the department are not taken this year they will be allocated to another district, and Bellefonte would have to take slim chances of being given an allocation at some future time. The funds are nearly exhausted, the State officials wrote, and there is no prospect for more.

In view of this condition, Board authorities decided to claim the funds set aside, and to establish an Agricultural Department at once. In line with this action they gave notice that applications for an instructor to head the department will be received at once.

A representative of a Pittsburgh bond house appeared with an offer to prepare detailed financial report of the borough and of the proposed bond issue, to make the bond issue more saleable when the sale time arrives. He indicated that the report, sent to about 200 banks and financial institutions interested in municipal bonds, opens up a wide market for the sale of the bonds. Claiming that financial institutions insist upon accurate and complete figures upon bonds upon which they bid, the representative said that when such information is given it usually results in a more favorable rate of interest on the bonds. If such a report brings one-quarter of one per cent reduction in the interest rate, he said, it would more than pay for the making of the report, (estimated at from $700 to $800). However, there is no way of determining whether the reports, if used in selling the bonds, have resulted in any advantage to the district issuing the bonds, the representative admitted.

The board took no action in the matter. Some members felt that the preliminary report of Hunter & Caldwell, containing financial figures in addition to a review of the building program, would serve in place of a report prepared by a financial institution.

May Impose New Regulations

Because some parents give school officials erroneous information regarding the birth dates of their children in order to get them into the first grade before they are of the proper age, it was suggested that all parents be required to furnish birth certificates, or signed certificates for their physicians, before children will be accepted in the first grade. This practice is followed in many other schools, and according to sentiment expressed at the meeting, it is probable that such a measure will be adopted before the opening of schools in September.

A complaint was entered by a Board member regarding the conduct of pupils attending High school dances. While it was pointed out that the conduct at such dances is no worse than in other communities, a more strict discipline should be maintained. One member recommended that in the future no dances be held in the high school building, owing to many classrooms which afford excellent places for unchaperoned conduct. It is probable that a code of regulations pertaining to dances and other social functions will be drawn up before schools open next fall.

branch and the other over the Bald Eagle Valley branch. The L. & T. train will arrive at 12:30 p. m., and the other at 1:30 p. m. They are expected to carry about 600 passengers each.

The Bellefonte High school band, in full uniform, will play from a bandstand to be specially erected at the station, while Mayor Hardman P. Harris, of Bellefonte, is scheduled to give a brief address of welcome to the visitors and to outline briefly some of the attractions to be seen in the vicinity.

Members of Bellefonte Girl Scout troops will pass among the visitors distributing Chamber of Commerce descriptive folders bearing illustrations of some of Centre county's scenic marvels. A full turnout of Chamber of Commerce members is requested at the station during the time the trains are here, for the purpose of mingling with the 'guests' and pointing out to them some of the nearby attractions, such as the town's famous big trout, the falls and the Big Spring.

Victor H. Pifer, of the Bellefonte Banjo Band, and Drum Major Houck, of that organization, will install a public address system at the station to amplify band music and Mayor Harris' speech. The band stand is being erected through the courtesy of the Claster Lumber Company.

The train arriving here over the L. & T. will depart over the Bald Eagle Valley branch, while the other train will travel in the opposite direction.
