

Over The County News

The iron framework on the windows of the Farmers National Bank & Trust Company building, the steel coping on R. S. Stover's store building, and the front of the Spigelmyer building, occupied by R. A. Brandt, at Millheim, were treated to a coat of paint during the week, adding considerable to their appearance and neatness. The A. A. Frank building is also having the woodwork treated to a fresh coat of white paint.

Horace J. Daniels, 46, was arrested for reckless driving by Private C. C. Riggs of the Lock Haven Motor Police after an accident early last Thursday morning from Lock Haven. Daniels was given three days in the county jail after a hearing before a justice of the peace. Private Riggs said Daniels' car, struck the car of Robert H. Yearick, 22, of State College. The damage to Daniels' car was estimated at $25; to Yearick's car $75.

George Housel of Lewisburg, a rural mail carrier, last week brought an action in trespass in the Union county court to recover $10,000 damage from M. L. Clark, truck owner and operator of State College, for alleged injuries in an automobile accident near Buffalo Creek Road on June 2nd. The truck was operated by John Ester, of Sunbury. Housel is said to have suffered bruises and contusions, and his car considerably damaged. He was thrown to the highway when the truck struck the rear of his machine as he entered the road from an intersecting route. After the accident, Housel was arrested by a State motor policeman on charges of failure to yield right of way.

Harry Cooper, of Altoona, a graduate of the Centre State School of Dental Art, is negotiating for the rental of the Guellet property Millheim, for the purpose of establishing a dental office. The negotiations, reports state, are about complete, with the information being submitted that the two front rooms of the dwelling are to be used as a waiting room and office. Dr. Cooper said that the family will arrive in Millheim the last week of this month.

Considerable damage was done to the automobile owned by Mrs. John B. West, Jr., of Centre Hall, when it left its parked position on the Penn State campus and ran down hill for some distance, finally coming to rest against a tree. The front of the car carried the brunt of the impact and was damaged to such an extent that it could not be moved under its own power. Mrs. West holds a stenographic position in one of the departments connected with the College.

A total of 78 Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation checks amounting to $871.05 were issued from the Bellefonte office during the week ending June 3. To and including that date a total of 5,698 checks amounting to $55,991.31 have been issued from the local office. The checks averaged $9.80. By the end of the same week a total of 394 claims for unemployment benefits having been filed that week, 96 continuing for waiting period and 196 continuing for benefit week.

A. C. Williams, 82-year-old horseman of Martha Furnace suffered several broken ribs and other injuries last Monday as the young horse he was riding threw him after it had become frightened by a barking dog. Mr. Williams' condition on Tuesday seemed no worse and he was reported as doing fairly well by the attending physician. When his horse bolted it ran at a terrific pace and threw Mr. Williams into a corn field. Had he landed on a hard surface it is likely his injuries would have been more serious.

A motor bus owned by the Pullington Bus Company, of Clearfield, was destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock near Black Moshannon when flames broke out in the engine of the bus and spread rapidly through the interior. The ruined bus was one of three carrying students to a picnic sponsored by the bus company. The driver of the bus, Elmer Jury, was the sole occupant of the bus at the time and was making test run when the fire broke out. Bullets were fired in the gas tank when it was feared the gasoline in the tank might explode. Damage to the bus was estimated at about $4,000.

The street project in Centre Hall has been halted to action by two of the adjoining property owners. The plans for sidewalks and repaving on West Locust street, leading from Main street to the high school, necessitate a widening of the street, and the use of land heretofore considered a part of the adjoining lots. The lot owners have taken legal action, demanding that the borough council show reasons why a court injunction should not be issued against the use of this land. The parties voicing the grievance are Mrs. W. H. Strobecker and Samuel Biner. Charles Freeman, district WPA administrator, has called a halt to the project until the matter in question can be settled.

Mystery of Finding Man Murdered
despite the report of the shot that no bullet was found in Nelson's head, that undigested string beans and potatoes were in the man's stomach and that the back of the head was horribly mashed.

The robbery motive was advanced. Nelson was described as wearing new trousers, the price being still on them, and in other respects was said to be well dressed, indicating he had some money.

Nelson's body was discovered by five-year-old Mary Dalaba, picking flowers along a mountain firepath, and was reported to police by her father. Five blood-stained stones found nearby and evidence that a car had entered the rocky lane gave police their strongest clues to the method of murder.

Thousands Visit At Phoebe Home

less invalids, and so provide hospitalization for this particular class. To this end the original fixed fee provision for admission was eliminated, but the other rules were retained.

The Trustees present were: Rev. Alvin F. Dietz, Shamokin; Howard Struble, Bellefonte; Walter F. Mack, Strubly Hill Haven; Rev. H. I. Crow, Bethlehem; Elmer Franklin Bean, Quakertown; Dr. Simon Sipple, Allentown; Rev. Jacob B. Landis, Reading; Rev. P. W. Smith, Gilbert; Dr. Carl Gramm, New Brunswick, N. J.; Mrs. David Kratz, Miss Emma Koehler, George F. Ehrlich, and Dr. David A. Miller, this city.

The Rev. John W. Lentz, D. D., of Collegeville, President of the Eastern Synod re-dedicated these new improved buildings, after a very impressive address on "Religion as a matter of direction, not motion."

A steady stream of eager visitors thronged the building to view the mural painting entitled "The Bible on Barns" painted and donated by Allentown's outstanding mural painter, A. Lindenmuth, and unveiled and interpreted by the noted Historian of the Rev. John Bar Stoudt, D. D. of this city. Another painting donated by Mr. Lindenmuth was one from the collection of Peter Gross, received from the Loure, Paris.

Dr. F. H. Meyer, Supt. of the Home for the Aged, in the Auxiliary membership, the growing interest in the home, and the increasing cost of maintenance, and the ever-enlarging circle of friends of the home, together with its widening influences.

Seven patients died during the week and three guests were admitted at the meeting of the Board, and a long waiting list remains to be provided for as the funds are received for this purpose. Prof. Clark V. Johnson entertained the throngs on the New Hammond Organ, and the Auxiliary organization provided dinners and suppers and refreshments to one of the largest gatherings of the home in recent years.

each evening. Participation in these programs is open to anyone of any age, any specialty, group or individual performance. Prizes and ribbons are awarded to winners. Mr. Paul Barges, Aaronsburg, is working with Grange lecturers throughout the county with a view to having every community represented on the program. It is not necessary, however, that one shall be a Grange member to register for the amateur programs. Persons wishing to enter this contest should register with Mr. Barges as soon as possible in order that they may be classified and assigned a place on the program.

Urge Changes in Game Seasons

license is required to hunt deer next winter. Last year the 3-day deer season, Nov. 25 to 27, was invalidated by the courts after the commission sold 5,000 licenses at $2 each. Chief court objection was that the deer season, Nov. 15 to 20, inclusive, was one day too close to the deer season to permit enforcement of the law.

SAME BAG LIMITS

The same bag limits on bear prevailed last year. The commission anticipated that the commission, headed by Maj. Nicholas Biddle, Philadelphia, would "go along" with the recommendations of the sportsmen "as far as possible."

Old Age Pension Work Explained

of widows and women whose husbands are in institutions for the insane. Monthly grants have been limited to $18 for one child and $12 for each additional child, with no allowance for the mother.

Under a plan recently approved by the Social Security Board, the coverage of the ADC program will be extended to all eligible children under 16 living with their mothers and deprived of paternal support because of father's death, divorce, desertion, continued absence from home, or physical or mental disability. Preliminary estimates indicate that this will permit the transfer of upwards of 40,000 dependent children and their mothers now on general assistance (direct relief) rolls who will become eligible for ADC grants under the new plan.

Transferring these families to the ADC program will reduce State direct relief costs and result in between $150,000 and $200,000 monthly in increased Federal participation, reducing expenditures from State funds by an equal amount.

At the same time the inadequate maximum grants hitherto in force for mothers without income will be lifted and an increased monthly assistance allowance corresponding to the general assistance standard of weekly allowances will go into effect.

Responsibility of Relatives Toward Dependents

Much misunderstanding has resulted from the fact that grants to individual assistance recipients have been reduced or discontinued where the applicant is unable to support himself or herself. Such action has been and will continue to be taken on an individual basis.

No of Persons Dependent	Monthly Requirements For	Total Monthly Income Requirements
0 (No dependents)	Food Clothing Housing Fuel Other Requirements	$14 $ 7 $ 18 $ 70
1		20 9 29 96
2		25 13 34 110
3		29 12 35 125
4		32 12 38 140
5		34 12 32 155
6		35 12 37 170
7		35 12 38 180
8		35 12 39 190
9 and over		35 12 40 200

This scale is not intended to eliminate established arrangements, or to restrict contributions of relatives whose income is below the indicated amounts, when such plans are acceptable to them. Generally, when the income of a responsible relative exceeds the allowance indicated in the scale, a contribution equal to the amount of excess over the scale is expected.

This applies to naturally responsible relatives living in the same household with the applicant or recipient, as well as to all legally responsible relatives residing within the Commonwealth. Even though naturalized according to law, persons who are not legally responsible are not subject to the Support Law, the County Board may at their discretion refuse assistance to an applicant or recipient living in the same household with naturally responsible relatives who are deemed able to provide some of the assistance for him, and who are, in fact, so providing for him.

If a naturally responsible relative who is not legally responsible and who is living apart from the applicant refuses or fails to make such contribution, assistance is not denied.

the organization when the band paid its final salute to the circumlocutors the train left about 2:50 p. m. but not a complaint was heard. The band is truly a community band, for they give unstintingly of their services, and are apparently as proud of their new uniforms as are the citizens of the town, who made the splendid new outfit possible. Visitation here frequently comment that the B. H. S. band is the best appearing high school band they've ever seen.

STRICTLY BUSINESS—We'll wind up this column with a little tale taken from real life. It seems a young Bellefonte wife had been failed for failure to pay the costs of a minor charge. During her incarceration, a State College man inquired about her release if he paid the costs. He was no relation to the woman. A short time later the woman's husband appeared before the official and asked if a State College man had tried to get his wife out of jail. He said the man had mentioned the proposition to him, but that he, the husband, declined on the grounds he believed it would lead to future trouble. "He said," the husband related "that if he got her out of jail, it ought to be worth a date."

PERSISTENCE WINS.
For forty years, Oscar K. Carter, of Fairfield, Ill., wooed Miss Daisy D. Williams, a school teacher. His persistence finally won out. They recently announced their marriage.

LETTERS to the Editor

ROCKVIEW GUARD PRAISES SUPERIOR
In the June 9, 1938, issue of The Centre Democrat an article was printed which Rockview guards and Michael P. Kersavage, received his degree from Penn State, and in print Kersavage acknowledged his thanks to Rockview officials and guards, etc. By omission of the names, full credit was not given that rightfully belongs to the men whose names will appear in this present write-up. The previous statement about officials was vague and was inadequate for the occasion. Therefore, I wish to all the following comments:

Dr. J. W. Claudy, Superintendent, is a congenial chap and is respected highly by the officers and by the inmates of the institution. He is a type of man who is always more than willing to help the less fortunate ones, be it officer or inmate, providing that the other man will at least try to put his best efforts forward to overcome his difficulties. Nevertheless, Dr. Claudy has played an important part in my school career. Never forgetting being in my school, Dr. Claudy didn't ask me how I was getting along in my school work. On several occasions when I needed assistance in my school work, he mentioned and sent me to see his personal friends who happened to be college professors, doctors or Deans. Upon his recommendation, I naturally received the necessary help that I was very much in need of at that particular time. It was Claudy who advised, encouraged, and helped me to overcome some of my difficulties and has given me sound and fatherly advice.

Still another fine fellow, Hale and hearty, is Deputy Warden C. C. "Griz" Rhoads, whose name didn't appear in the original article, but the honor and credit that should have been his was omitted in the original write-up through an error. If it wasn't for Deputy Rhoads who interceded in my behalf by pushing ago and gave me employment at Rockview, I am sure that our present story about graduation would have never been printed. Being an official, Mr. Rhoads could have forbidden any officer to pinch-hit for me when I was delayed at school either because of a late class or because of an examining class. It was in his power to favor me or to call me into his office and say, "Mike, you will have to be on time for your working hours in the future, for no other officer will be allowed to work in your place." My work came first, and my schooling was secondary.

Many years have been passed to me in the past by Griz in order that I could continue to carry my studies and to continue to work at Rockview. It was through Dr. J. W. Claudy, Superintendent, and Deputy Warden C. C. Rhoads that final arrangements were made governing my tardiness. A fellow officer was designated to substitute for me when I was late. On Sunday or on a holiday, I would have to repay the other fellow by working in his place.

However, I have another friend, who is Rev. C. F. "Cap" Lauer, Director of Restoration who in this capacity is Chaplain, Educational, and Religious Director for Rockview Penitentiary. For graduation exercises, Rev. Lauer took time off from his duties, so that he could come to State College and pay, his personal as well as institutional respects to all of the graduates.

Also, Cap spent hours to pay tribute to students by pushing a coin in the Outlook for the Rotary Club of State College for June 14, 1938, so that the members of the Rotary would have an inside story of the guard-graduate. The Chaplain's name too was omitted. He has presented me with several volumes which deal with Mining Engineering.

Wherever C. F. had company, he never hesitated to give me an introduction to his host of friends and always added his praise by saying, "Mike is taking up Mining Engineering at Penn State and is working as a guard at Rockview." Words of the above type give courage and help to fire the ambition of a person, so that he could keep up the school work and later hear the words that he had graduated.

Often encouragement and help came from Rev. Lauer whenever I spoke to him and indicated that I needed his assistance.

Assistant Deputy Warden H. R. "Buck" Johnson is an amiable fellow and received credit in the original write-up.

Sergeant Arthur E. May who has been Kersavage's superior officer for a decade of years has to receive credit for his advice and cooperation with my school work.

Mr. S. Francis Mitchell who worked with me is to be honored for his assistance, attitude, and cooperation.

Mr. James Hughes, Headmaster of the closed Bellefonte Academy deserves honorable mention.

In conclusion, I take this opportunity to thank all the persons who in any way have offered their assistance by words or by actual labor in my behalf.

(Signed) MICHAEL P. KERSAVAGE

An Electric Oven $20.00 for less than 20.00!

"Water-less" Cooking
The rich juices and mineral salts are retained in the food, not cooked away or poured off. You can cook a full meal in it, including dessert, all at one time. And the kitchen remains as cool and comfortable as your living room.

AN electric roaster is really an electric oven—a portable electric oven. And it has outstanding advantages—in spite of low prices starting at $19.95 and less.

For instance, the cooking temperature is so easily and exactly regulated. No excess water is needed to prevent scorching, for the heat is evenly distributed around the food.

See the excellent makes of electric roasters that dealers are displaying. Make your hot weather cooking a pleasure instead of a task!
