4,000 SPEND SUNDAY AT MOSHANNON PARK.

The heat and urge to travel Sunday took more than 4,000 to Black Moshannon Park, near Phillipsburg, where many from nearby towns, state-wide and out-of-state people gathered to escape the sweltering heat and to enjoy Black Moshannon's scenic beauties. Swimmers swarmed into the bathing section of the lake and the parking spaces on both sides of the park were jammed. Picnickers filled all the open cabins the entire way on either side. The cabins which are rented out to campers were all filled as the vacation period began to round out its mid-summer term. TWO NEW WPA PROJECTS BEGIN; ONE IS RESUMED. Four new projects were launched and three others resumed operations in Works Progress Administration Area No. 10 during the week ending July 2, G. C. Cleaver, Area Administrator, reported yesterday. Among them are these Centre county projects: Gregg township, improvement route 14470, started June 27, and Penna. township, improvements, Coburn school grounds, started June 27. One Centre county project resumed is one calling for street improvements in Bellefonte. Work was resumed June 27. It is easier to borrow than to repay; and the world will be better off when everybody realizes this fact.

WHAT IS THIS THING WE CALL HEAT?

Of the two extremes of temperature that man must face, he is less likely to survive excessive heat, according to the Taylor Instrument Company, Rockefeller Center. The effect of heat varies with individuals. One who perspires freely benefits by the cooling of the skin, induced by evaporation, and is not apt to become prostrated in a drier climate. But, with high humidity, when the air is saturated, evaporation no longer functions and the perspiring individual is placed at a great disadvantage. In fact, more suffering occurs when heat is accompanied by high humidity, than even at a greater heat but with drier air. The oft-repeated expression, "It's not the heat but the humidity," contains more truth than most people realize. The low humidity, frequently less than 15 per cent, of some southwestern areas, permits human existence in temperature far in excess of 100 degrees, while the high humidities of the east and south at times approaching 100 per cent in clear weather, cause heat fatalities in temperatures as low as 85 degrees.

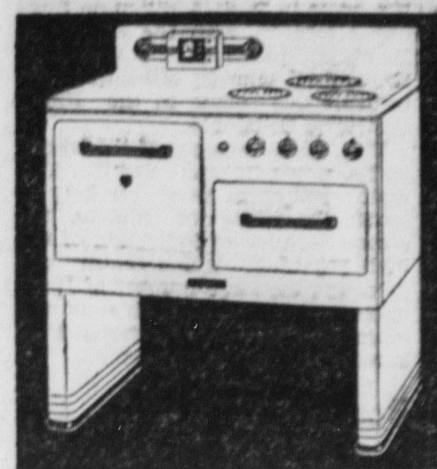

RELEASE BEAR THAT DID NOT LIKE CIVILIZATION.

The black bear that apparently could not decide whether he liked civilization or wild life is now believed to be acclimated to his natural surroundings in the widest section of Lycoming county. The fine bear which weighs about 150 pounds and is now 17 months old, was one of the four that were raised at the Loyalsock State Game Farm. Three were released several weeks ago and the other was shipped to the Pittsburgh zoo. After being out for a short time, the particular bear wandered into the borough of Avis and it was necessary to send attendants from the game farm to capture him and return him to the farm. Ten days ago he was again released and since that time no reports of having seen the animal have been received. John B. Ross, Game Commissioner, who had charge of releasing the bear stated he felt sure the bear was all right now, as he was placed in "the widest part of Lycoming county" and when they let him go "he started off in high gear."

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture
Plant Late Vegetables—During July and August, vegetable seeds germinate in a short time and the plants grow rapidly, provided sufficient moisture is present. Vegetable gardening specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say that the most frequent reason for failure of mid-summer seedlings is the loss of moisture during germination and while the plants are small.
Train Teams to Pull—Horses and mules which are to be entered in pulling contests need careful training for competition. Drivers who have been most successful in contested their teams up to heavy loads gradually, according to Penn State livestock specialists.

Control Cabbage Worms—A dust containing one-half to three-fourths per cent rotenone can be used to control cabbage worms. Penn State entomologists recommend applying at the rate of 25 to 30 pounds an acre.
Reduce Fire Losses—As a safety measure, farm buildings should be set at right angles to prevailing winds where possible to lessen the danger of sparks being carried from one building to another. Constructing roofs of fire-resistant material also is recommended by Penn State agricultural engineers.
Pulle's Nest Nests—If pullets are taught to use nests on range, the problem of gathering eggs will be lessened, Penn State poultrymen explain. The eggs should be gathered several times a day.

Control Late Blight—Thorough spraying with bordeaux mixture is the best insurance against loss from the threatened late potato blight epidemic, say Penn State plant pathologists.
