BELLEFONTE, PA.

The registra of births and deaths in the Bellefonte district recorded 47 babies born during the month of July, 36 of them at the Centre County hospital. Most of the babies are girls.

Prof. James Neidigh, supervising principal of the East Penns Valley School System, entered the Centre County Hospital, Wednesday of last week, for observation and treatment of a double hernia. He underwent an operation on Saturday morning and is now being in a favorable condition.

Measurements were made last week on the plot of ground, corner of Howard and Wilson streets, Bellefonte, selected as the site for the new county institutional home. Inasmuch as construction of the home will be by contract competitive bids will have to be secured before work can be started. Because of this fact actual operation will not begin before September 15th, but must be started by October 1st.

Henry S. Linn of Bellefonte, made an all day trip to Sunbury, recently, having come down to see the archaeological work now being done by the State at Fort Augusta, one of the most historic Indian ports of pioneer days. Its foundation, a part of the Col. Samluel Hunter house, has now been reached, and many most interesting relics unearthed. These along with the collection they hope to recover, will be housed in the Port after its complete restoration.

The joint board of the East Penns Valley School System will take advantage of the Thompson School Plan Bill, which will likely be enacted into law soon, to provide adequate facilities in the matter of building and classrooms for district. The board has discussed this problem for some time past, and the requirements will very likely cost in the aggregate around $45,000. Under the Thompson Plan, the district would have about thirty years to pay off their share of the new construction cost.

An old landmark at Colver is disappearing as the structure long known as the Meigs store is being razed. The building was erected by the late William Colver as a warehouse and cooper shop, about 55 years ago. Some years later, according to the best information obtainable, a mercantile business was established by James W. Glasgow, who enjoyed a liberal patronage from residents in that portion of Potter township. Glasgow, was succeeded by George R. Meigs, Jacob Smith, Reuben Boyer, and Walter Copenhaver, all tenants of Mr. Colver or of the Colver estate. Mr. Meigs acquired the property and opened business there for the second time, and continued as a general merchant until the sale of the merchandise and stand to Harry C. Goodyear. Mr. Goodyear closed out business some time after the abandoning of CCC camp No. 65, nearby. He continues the ownership of the residence, but spends much of his time in the Pittsburgh region. During the greater part of the time Smith, Boyer and Copenhaver did business at the Colver stand, Mr. Meigs conducted a store on Zion Hill. This structure was destroyed by fire, whereupon the Colver store stand was purchased by Mr. Meigs.

Three Year's Progress Toward Social Security

The Federal Government pays approximately one-third of the cost for aid to dependent children. Its total contribution to the States for this program from February 1936 to July 15, 1938, comes to $47,800,000. The average allowance per family in May 1938 was $31.30. In that month payments to recipients under this program from combined Federal, State, and local funds totaled $7,529,313.

OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE
The Hazard—A worker getting on in years faces with dread the time when he will be too old to hold down a job. With nothing to live on but the pittance he may have contrived to save, how can he avoid coming to the end of his resources before he reaches the end of life?

Before August 14, 1935—There was no legislation providing for old-age insurance.
Today—Under the Social Security Act—A national old-age insurance system administered by the Federal Government, effective January 1, 1937, is in operation throughout the country.

Over 39,000,000 applications for workers' social security accounts under this program have been received.
Through this system, industrial and commercial workers now have an opportunity to build up a retirement income, based on their own industry and assured by the Federal Government.

Monthly benefits, ranging from $10 to $45, will be paid to those retiring from employment at 65 or over, beginning in 1942. Single cash payments are provided for workers who do not qualify for monthly benefits and for the relatives or estates of those who die before they have received the minimum amount to which they are entitled.
By June 30, 1938, such single cash payments reached a total of almost $6,000,000.

JOB-INSURANCE
The Hazard—A dismissal slip tells a worker that his services in shop or office are no longer required. He faces the coming weeks of job-hunting with fear, knowing that his idleness will spell privation and want to his family.

Before August 14, 1935—Only one State had passed an unemployment insurance law before consideration of the Social Security Act in Congress. Out-of-work benefits were not yet payable even in this State.

Today—Under the Social Security Act—Every State in the Union, Alaska, Hawaii, had an unemployment insurance law approved under the Social Security Act by July 1937.
Over 25,500,000 workers are estimated to have been in jobs covered by these 51 State laws in 1937.

Unemployment compensation benefits are now payable in 28 States. Benefits will become payable in the remaining States within the coming year.
These benefits amount to about half pay up to $15 a week and are usually available for approximately 16 weeks.

In the first 6 months of 1938, over $180,000,000 was paid in out-of-work benefits to temporarily unemployed workers.
Under the act the Federal Government pays the cost of administering State unemployment compensation programs.

Public employment services have been expanded. Job placement through these offices is an important function of this program for job security.
OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE
The Hazard—An old person with no means of self-support faces the bitter choice of becoming a burden on his already hard-pressed family, or of giving up his home and going to the poorhouse.

Before August 14, 1935—About 314,000 needy old people were aided under State and local old-age assistance laws in August 1935, and in that month more than $5,600,000 in State and local funds was spent for this purpose.

Today—Under the Social Security Act—All the States and Territories but one cooperating with the Federal Government is aiding aged men and women who lack means for self-support.
Nearly 1,700,000 old people are receiving monthly cash allowances which make it possible for them to continue living in their own homes.

The Federal Government pays approximately one-half the cost of old-age assistance. Its total contribution to the States for this program from February 1936 to July 15, 1938, comes to nearly $365,000,000.
The average allowance in May 1938 was $19.26. In that month assistance expenditures for this purpose from combined Federal, State and local funds totaled $32,477,059.

AID TO DEPENDENT CHILDREN
The Hazard—A father is ill and knows that with his death his children will be left without support. Fear for their future remains as a legacy for the mother as she takes up her double burden.

Before August 14, 1935—Approximately 110,000 families taking care of 275,000 dependent children received this kind of assistance in August 1935, and in that month State and local expenditures for this purpose totaled $3,321,000. Today—Under the Social Security Act—Forty States are providing aid to dependent children under the Social Security Act.
Approximately 243,000 mothers and other near relatives are receiving cash allowances which enable them to take care of dependent children at home.
About 602,000 dependent children are thus being brought up in the wholesome atmosphere of home and are living normal lives like other children.

Democrats Charter Ten Special Trains

A Lee Smith, of Harrisburg, chairman of the committee on transportation has announced definite plans for 10 excursions—eight from distant points and two for a special shuttle service between Harrisburg and the park.

One excursion will originate in Erie and be routed via Renora, Lock Haven, Williamsport and Sunbury accommodating passengers from Warren, McKean, Elk, Cameron, Clinton, Lycoming, Northumberland and adjoining counties.
Another will originate in Sharon and make stops at New Castle, Beaver Falls and Rochester before picking up a portion of the Allegheny County delegation at Pittsburgh Advance sales, according to Chairman Smith, indicate two or three sections from southwestern counties will join the party at this point.

Greensburg will be the point of origin of another special which will accommodate Fayette counties who will journey to that point. Scheduled stops will serve passengers from Cambria, Blair, Huntingdon, Perry and adjoining counties.

Philadelphia will send at least one special and perhaps a second. One of these trains will pick up passengers from southeastern counties. Two special shuttle trains have been arranged from Harrisburg to the park and in addition excursion tickets will be recognized on regular trains between these points.

Because of the huge crowd expected Chairman Smith points out that tickets which are on sale at local ticket offices, must be purchased before midnight Thursday, August 25, so that arrangements may be made for adequate railroad equipment.

Federal Agents Find Stills In Operation

George Mekis said he found the five-gallon keg in the woods, drew the one gallon out, and hid the rest in the hay.
Joseph Demko, 49, was arrested for having a 5-gallon complete still operated by a two-burner oil stove, in the cellar. A search of the house disclosed no further violation, but a 50-gallon barrel of rye mash was found under bales of straw in the barn.

Demko declared he couldn't afford to buy liquor at the state store and was making some for his own use.
Officers reported that he had been arrested in 1922 and then sentenced to a 100 fine and costs and two months in jail for a similar violation.

The Osceola man and four Atlantic residents were taken before a justice of the peace Elmer Kephart posted a $1,000 bond for appearance at court. Mike and George Mekis were unable to post bond and were placed in the Clearfield county jail. Emile Dersin posted a $1,000 court appearance bond. Joseph Demko was released upon his own recognizance.

Stills are getting scarcer all the time, according to the officers who stated they seized 53 stills two years ago, only 42 last year, and 17 to date during this year.

Ice-Cream Not American
That thoroughly familiar American desert, ice-cream, did not originate in America, according to information obtained from a research organization at Rockefeller Center, New York. Ice-cream originated in Italy about 1600 A. D. and spread through France to England and then to the colonies in the 18th century. The annual output of ice-cream by wholesale establishments alone exceeds 250,000,000 gallons.

So far as we are concerned the system of financing that is popularly referred to as the "extortion plan" is well-named.

Health, Welfare, and Rehabilitation

In addition to the foregoing provisions, the Social Security Act provides for the extension and strengthening of certain health and welfare services long recognized as the responsibility of the community. For the present fiscal year the following appropriations have been made to be disbursed in grants to States to help them in carrying on the following programs:

$3,700,000 for promoting maternal and child health services, especially in rural areas and economically distressed districts; $1,500,000 for child welfare services to protect and care for homeless and neglected children and those in danger of becoming delinquent; $2,800,000 for locating crippled children and giving them preventive and curative treatment.

$1,800,000 for the economic rehabilitation of persons physically disabled but capable of being trained to hold a job.
$8,000,000 for the establishment and maintenance of State and local public health services adequate to meet the needs of the community.

The three children's services administered by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, vocational rehabilitation, by the Office of Education of the Department of the Interior; and the public health provisions, by the United States Public Health Service of the Treasury Department.

RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT
At the third-year milestone, the road back shows well over 30,000,000 men and women now building up insurance against want in their old age. 25,500,000 workers who have earned some credit toward insurance during temporary unemployment; about 2,350,000 of the needy receiving assistance in their own homes; and health and welfare services reaching out into all parts of the country. State participation in the programs outlined in the Social Security Act is already nearly complete.

The road ahead opens to new problems, new prospects. The experience of the past 3 years indicates that the task of the immediate future is twofold—first, to simplify and improve the administrative mechanisms through which these programs serve the people; and second, to broaden the protections they offer.

In line with the first, both Federal and State agencies are working for increasing effectiveness within each State, between the States and

Nittany Girl Injured In Fall While Hiking

Evelyn Spicer, aged 16 years, daughter of Mrs. Olive Spicer, of Nittany, is reported to be recovering at the Lock Haven Hospital from a severe concussion of the brain and brush burns of the body suffered Wednesday of last week in a five-foot fall while hiking with two friends on Nittany mountain.

The accident happened in a gap about a mile south of Nittany as Miss Spicer, Russell Gable and Ruth Dolan were walking on a steep mountain side. Miss Spicer lost her footing and fell over a stone bank. Her two friends rushed to her aid and took her to the State highway where a member of the Pleasant Gap station of the Pennsylvania Motor Police took her to her home. A short time later her sister, Mrs. Hazel Garbrick, took her to the Lock Haven Hospital, where her condition yesterday was reported as being "good."
