Most of the major prizes offered this year will be in the form of credit tickets from local business places. In former years many prize winners were awarded articles for which they had no use. To eliminate this objectionable feature, this year merchants instead of giving definite prizes, have agreed to give credit slips which may be exchanged for any article on their shelves, up to the amounts shown on the credit The Judges' stand and the street in front of the stand will be bril-

High street, from the Diamond Spring street will be closed to traffic from 6 p. m. to midnight Monday to keep the street clear for paraders, spectators and judges. Reports yesterday were to the effect that at least four bands; a dozen or more floats; scores of decorated cars and a number of marching units will be seen in the line of parade, in addition to an untold number of mummers.

The parade will form on Railroad and Thomas streets, with the floats lining up on Thomas street and the mummers on Railroad street. The ine will move promptly at 7:30 p. m. with Mayor Hardman P. Harris and his escort, immediately followed by the Bellefonte High School Band heading the procession. A band will be at the head of each of the three divisions of the parade. Among the music organizations definitely listed to appear are the Pifer Banjo Band, the Pleasant Gap Band and the Old-Time Bread Bakers Band of Aaronsburg.

The route of the parade will be as follows: From the railroad station east on High to Spring; south Bishop; east to Allegheny; south to High and on High to the station where the floats and cars will fall Mummers will countermarch on High street for a third review before the judges' stand.

The parade management has prohibited political advertisements of any kind in the line of march, and this ruling will be rigidly enforced. Floats are to be entered by number of organizations, those definitely entered to date being: American Legion, Titan Metal Co., American Lime & Stone, Federal Match Co., County Chevrolet Co., Decker's Garage, and Elks Lodge, Cars Will be entered by the Woman's Club.
