Help Pullets Find Feed

Pullets sometimes have difficulty in finding grain fed in the litter. For this reason, it is best to use only a thin layer of litter when the birds are first housed. Placing the evening feeding of grain in hoppers is one way of maintaining normal intake of grain. County Agent R. C. Blaney cautions against making a sudden change from cracked corn to whole corn in the scratch grain ration, for birds may refuse to eat the whole corn. All changes in rations should be gradual. Carefully watching the body weight of the pullets is necessary because if they lose weight there is likely to be a drop in production, and possibly in molt. Sheets that are torn down the center have not lost their usefulness. Tear them completely apart, sew the selvages together, and hem the edges. This adds appreciably to their service, explains extension home management specialists of the Pennsylvania State College.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Destroy Insect Refuges—Many insects hibernate over winter in dead plant parts. Penn State entomologists recommend a clean-up of trash in fields and gardens to help control insect numbers and lessen damage to crops next year. Where corn borers are still active, it is particularly essential that stalks be destroyed.

Good Condition Counts—Sheep growers agree that breeding ewes taken into the winter in good physical condition are half wintered. Another advantage, say Penn State livestock specialists, is that a healthy ewe flock is necessary for rearing a strong lamb crop.

Store Flower Plants—The cold frame can be used for winter storage of flower plants, such as foxgloves, Canterbury bells, pansies, English daisies, certain varieties of chrysanthemums, and forget-me-nots. Penn State horticulturists remind that a few roots of violets, in the frame will provide late blooms during the winter.

Learn About Termites—The Pennsylvania State College has published Circular 187, "Termite Control for Pennsylvania." Ask your county agent for a copy or write to the Agricultural Mailing Room, State College, Pa.

Select Turkey Flock—The time to select next year's turkey breeding flock is before any birds are marketed this fall. Penn State poultrymen explain that feeding qualities of turkeys are inherited. This characteristic must be supplemented by correct feeding to produce good market birds.

Sweet Corn Grown—Thirty sweet corn variety demonstrations were conducted this year by Pennsylvania State College vegetable extension specialists. Ask your county agent about varieties adapted to your conditions.

Mrs. Nelson and Patsy were treated for bruises and then returned to their home.

Roast Wild Turkey

- 1 wild turkey (about 8 1/2 lbs.)
- 1 1/2-cz. jar chili peppers.
- 2 quarts peeled onions.
- 4 quarts soft bread crumbs.
- 1 cup melted butter.
- 3 tablespoons salt.
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
- 3/4 cups fresh oysters.
- 1 cup giblet liquor.
- 5 strips bacon.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 1/2 cup hot water.

24 hours before cooking the turkey, dress it for roasting, weigh, then stuff with the drained and chopped chili peppers and onions. Let stand in refrigerator until roasting time. Meanwhile cook the giblets from the turkey until tender; reserve the liquor (there should be 1 cup) and chop the giblets. Combine the bread crumbs, melted butter, salt, pepper, oysters and the giblet liquor. Use to stuff the turkey; giblets sew up the slit in the body as well as the one in the neck. Place 3 strips of bacon over the breast and 1 piece around each leg. Place on a rack in an uncovered roaster and roast, allowing 15 minutes per pound. Roast in a very hot oven of 450 degrees for 1 hour and then reduce heat to a oven of 350 degrees for the remaining time. Baste every 15 minutes with a mixture of 2 tablespoons butter and the hot water.

Place marshmallows in a paper sack and keep in the brooder. They will stay fresh for a much longer time.
