

Echoes From the Past

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Daniel Ulrich, one of Millhelm's old and highly respected citizens, died on Tuesday morning. Mr. Ulrich was seventy years of age and feeble in health. On last Friday he had a stroke of paralysis from the effects of which he died on Tuesday.

Garmans Hotel is the principal headquarters for the teachers while attending institute this week. Monday morning every room in the house was taken and the register reached almost a hundred. Their dining room is equal to the emergency and was able to accommodate the crowd.

Doc Gelsinger, Arthur Taylor and Al Dale, Esq., returned last Saturday from an extended deer hunt in the northern part of the county. They brought home as a result of the chase a fine doe knocked down by Arthur Taylor's unerring rifle. The boys were in the best of health from their sojourn in the woods.

Henry Emerick, of near Farmers Mills, is suffering from the effects of a sore eye which has caused his eye to become swollen and inflamed, with danger of blood poisoning resulting therefrom. What makes the condition all the more distressing is the condition of Mrs. Emerick, who is said to be helpless from rheumatism.

The damp and misty atmosphere and threatening clouds were unpropitious on Monday morning for the opening of the 42nd annual gathering of Centre County's army of teachers. Although the weather was unfavorable, at 9:30 o'clock the trains came into Bellefonte to capacity with pedestrians.

There were young and unsoftened youths of tender years—together with many familiar older faces, veterans in the service for many years.

It beats all, the Centre Hall Reporter lamented, how plenty foxes are getting since there is no predation on them. Penn township is swarming with them; two and three together can often be seen in the daytime near buildings. The hunters won't shoot them—they want them to increase in numbers until a $1 bounty is again offered for them.

Our legislature made a great mistake by removing the bounty, for they'll eventually have to pay the same as much as would have been the case had the bounty not been removed.

Since the death of Frank Eckler, at Millburg, by being crushed under the wheels of a freight train, steps have been taken to avoid as much as possible similar accidents in the future. We are told that orders have been issued from the head office of the Bald Eagle Valley Railway to all employees to keep their feet and engines and freight trains. They are also ordered to arrest every boy who jumps a train and the company will take extra pains to see that their prosecution will follow. This is a good idea on the part of the company and will be practically putting a stop to this dangerous habit.

John Powers, Jr., left Wednesday evening for Williamsport to accept a position in a large shoe store in the Academy of Music building on fourth street. We are sorry to see John, the most popular young men of the town.

Farmers who bring poultry to town for sale should know that there is a law prohibiting the tying of the fowl's legs. The same law applies to cows and sheep. Anyone disposed to inform on them could mulct the offenders in a fine and costs. Halt the fine goes to the informer.

Deascher, the gunsmith, has the toys this year that attract the little folks. The front of his shop windows are continuously surrounded by little folks, often blocking the sidewalk. Walking elephants, creeping dolls, sea-sawing and other toys, all of which move and act as though alive are the greatest attractions. They are lively toys and a good venture in that line of Christmas goods.

Monograms worked on stockings is the latest craze among the Philadelphia society belles. A Record reporter got the following information from one of them: "Monograms are worked in the stockings in all colors and all kinds of materials." She said, "Where are they placed? Why what a silly question! They are worked on the instep, of course, where they will be seen. They certainly would not be put at the upper end of a stocking, where they would be hidden!"

One of the finest displays for the holiday season is to be found in Joseph Brothers window. A mountain scene, the display consists of a high cliff in the foreground, covered with a dense forest of spruce, evergreen, mosses and ferns. At the summit of the cliff stand two prominent buildings, an old-style windmill. The long arms of the mill are turned by water power, through machinery ingeniously concealed. At the base of the cliff is a small pond with a fountain playing in the center. The effect of the display is striking and attracts many passersby.

On Friday evening, December 21, the annual election of officers of the Sons of Veterans organization of Bellefonte will take place in their hall.

The smoke stack on the Kurtz roller flouring mill at Centre Hall, was blown down by the storm on Tuesday morning and the mill was forced to suspend operations while repairs were made. A water main on High Street opposite the Court House sprung a leak on Sunday afternoon and sent a pouring stream down hill all day. G. R. Spigelmyer purchased the Hoffer stock of goods and is busy disposing of the same at auction and greatly reduced prices. The hunting season is over and the number of deer killed was not as large as last year. Skating on the mill race is a rare treat to the boys on Saturday last.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

David Harold Crosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Miller, who resided near the Jewish cemetery, Bellefonte, was killed in a battle in France on November 10, relatives were informed.

Miss Christine Wilkie, who was employed as the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray Anderson, Bellefonte, received word of the death of her brother, David, who succumbed to an attack of influenza after being wounded in the head in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quirk, of Snow Shoe, were advised of the death of their twin son Joseph J. Quirk, who was killed in action in France on October 21. His twin brother, Patrick J. Quirk, was also in France as a member of Co. A, 28th Infantry.

R. M. Foster, postmaster at State College, received instructions to advertise for a new post office building in that community. A site had been acquired at the corner of Beaver Avenue and Allen Street and an appropriation of $50,000 had been made for the building.

Through the operation of the draft, a total of 250,000 men were inducted into the service in Pennsylvania, and of this number Centre County furnished 907. Samuel Hoy moved to Centre Hall from Bellefonte and was occupying the Mrs. Rebecca Murray home, which he purchased.

S. G. Walker, residing west of Millhelm, advertised that two of his Poland China sows had strayed from his premises. A week or more ago some of his children were playing with the straw stack in the barnyard when they heard grunts from the middle of the stack. Mr. Walker investigated and found the sows had been covered up by a slide from the stack. The hogs had been "buried" for 31 1/2 days without food or drink, and when they were thin and weak from hunger were in good condition otherwise.

Mrs. W. E. Huxley of Bellefonte was called to New Enterprise, Bedford County, owing to the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Reppel. Manager M. J. Kelley, of the Bellefonte Western Union office, announced a general reduction in night rates. W. H. Macker and Clark Carson, Bellefonte's well known taxi men, were both confined to their homes with influenza. Mr. Carson was in a serious condition.

Mrs. Carson's mother and two of her children also were afflicted with the malady. After many years of service with the Adams Express Company in Bellefonte, John Foulke resigned his post and was succeeded by A. C. Boyer, of Middletown. Mrs. Foulke returned to her home in Steelport after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Martin Foulke, in Bellefonte. James Seibert and Louis Hill, with an assistant, finally succeeded in repairing Bellefonte's fire sirens which had been out of condition through a long period of operation during the local observance of the signing of the Armistice.

James Kerstetter butchered four fine porkers which dressed between 400 and 500 pounds each and which produced 21 cans of lard.

Shem H. Heckenburg on the M. A. Stover farm near Penn Hall, purchased the William Hogen farm of 95 acres at Smullton, and expected to occupy the place in the near future.

Harry Walker, of Howard, an employee of the Hayes Fire Brick Company, at Criverton, had one leg badly crushed when he was caught between two railroad cars. He was rushed to the Lock Haven Hospital for treatment.

The McNitt-Huyett Lumber Company purchased between 300 and 400 acres of coal and timber land in Armstrong County. The lumber was to be shipped to the mill at Criverton, which was to be opened as soon as possible. Coal mines were being opened on the tract.

John Confer, Snow Shoe undertaker, from October 20 to December 1, had a total of 62 funerals. Nearly all the deaths were attributed to influenza which prevailed in an alarming extent in that community. Ten persons died in one day during the height of the epidemic.

John Force, of Pine Glen son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Force, of that community, was killed on the field of battle in France on November 9. Joseph Bechdel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bechdel, of Blanchard, also died a hero's death "Over There" on the day before the Armistice was signed.

Marie Cesna, aged 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cesna, of State College, was struck and injured by Harry J. Behrer's Ford delivery automobile. Mr. Behrer stopped and rushed the girl to her home where a physician found that she had escaped with bruises of the chest and abdomen. She had walked directly into the path of the machine, it was reported.

Harvey Yearick, of Zion suffered an injured hip and his wife and three sons escaped injury when the horse hitched to their buggy became frightened while passing the Brick School, on East Bishop Street, and ran away. The buggy struck a tree, and was damaged, and Mr. Yearick was pulled over the dash and along the street for a short distance before the horse was brought under control.

Harry Smith, popular farmer residing along the back road between Pleasant Gap and Zion, suffered a $10,000 loss when his barn was destroyed by fire. Mr. Smith had gone to the barn before 6 a. m. and was fixing the tank at his for car with gasoline when the fumes ignited from a lantern hanging nearby. Mr. Smith was enveloped in the blaze but escaped uninjured. The loss included 18 tons of hay, fodder from 13 acres of corn, 200 bushels of wheat, 400 bushels of oats and a large quantity of farm machinery. About 20 head of livestock was saved. Part of the loss was covered by insurance.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

At Christmas time there is confusion and excitement everywhere. The practical housekeeper will see to it that much cooking as possible is finished and out of the way before the last minute rush demands her attention. Plan for the cookie jar today and fill it in plenty time for Christmas.

Scotch Date Sticks Filling
Cut 1 1/2 cups of pitted dates in thirds and cook with 3-4 cup of water to the consistency of marmalade, remove from the heat and add 3 tablespoons of orange or lemon juice. Cool.

Cooky Mixture
Place 1/2 cup of shortening and 1 cup of brown sugar in a bowl. Sift 1 1/2 cups of flour with 1 teaspoon of salt and add to the mixture. Work to a crumbly consistency. Add 1 3-4 cups of rolled oats and mix thoroughly. Put 1/2 the mixture into a shallow baking pan or cookie sheet. Spread a thin layer, which should measure about 10 by 14 inches, with the date filling. Sprinkle with the remain crumbly mixture, patting it in place. Bake in an oven 325 degrees for 25 minutes. While warm cut into strips and remove from the pan. These are rich and flaky.

Nut Macaroons
2 egg whites
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups nuts.
Beat egg whites very stiff. Add sugar and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in an oven 300 degrees for one hour. Remove from pan while hot.

Fruit Nuggets
Cream 1 cup of butter, add 2 cups of sugar. Cream together. Beat 2 eggs and add sifted together 3 cups of cake flour, 3 teaspoons of baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon of cloves, 2 teaspoons of cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg. Add alternately with 3-4 cup of milk. Chop 1/2 cup of candied pineapple, 1 cup of raisins, 1 cup of candied cherries and 1 cup of nuts. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking tin. Bake in an oven 325 degrees.

Christmas Tree Cookies
1 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Chopped pecans
Candied cherries
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2-3 cup sugar
3 cups flour
Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then beaten eggs. Mix well. Add vanilla and sifted flour and salt. Mix thoroughly. Chill, roll out thin on a slightly floured board. Cut with a Christmas tree cutter. Brush with milk, sprinkle with nuts and cherries. Bake in an oven 375 degrees for 10 minutes.

German Cookies
2 cups sugar
4 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup citron
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup of chopped almonds
5 eggs
1 tablespoon of cloves
1/2 tablespoon of mace
Mix and sift the flour, sugar, spices and baking powder. Add the grated lemon rind, chopped citron and nuts. Beat the eggs and add to the dry mixture.

Cover and let stand overnight, in the morning work the dough with just enough flour to handle into rolls, each in diameter and 2 long. Cut these into pieces 1 inch long. Roll these into balls. Brush with the white of an egg and bake in floured pans in an oven 350 degrees until a light brown.

Danish Cookies
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup melted butter
1/2 cup almond extract
2 eggs
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon baking powder
Flour to roll out
Beat the eggs, add sugar and beat 10 minutes with a spoon. Add the melted shortening, cream, extract and 1 cup of flour sifted with the baking powder. Add enough to make a stiff dough. Roll out and cut into diamonds about 2 inches long with a split in the middle. Pass one end of the diamond thru the split. Drop in hot deep fat. Cook to light brown and dust with confectioner's sugar.

Coconut Cookies
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
2 cups grated coconut
1 egg
1-8 teaspoon salt
Cream the shortening, add sugar and beaten egg. Mix in the milk slowly. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt, add to the first mixture. Add seasoning and coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Human Cannonballs
The "human cannonballs," the Zacolinis family, are the objects of a suit brought by their neighbors at Tampa, Fla., who charge that they are disturbers of the peace. Among the complaints listed against this acrobatic family are that they have an aviary of very noisy birds that they maintain a "cannon range" to keep their act in practice, that they set traps and chickens prey on neighborhood flowers and shrubbery, and that they generally disturb the peace.

Expensive Beauty
Almost $14,000,000 worth of beauty shop equipment was manufactured in the United States in 1937, according to preliminary reports of the U. S. Census Bureau.

Sunday School Lesson

CHRIST'S NEW COMMANDMENT

International Sunday School Lesson for December 18, 1938.

GOLDEN TEXT: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."—John 13:34.

(Lesson Text: Matthew 5:43; 23:34-40; Luke 10:25-37; John 13:34-35; 15:12-14; Galatians 5:13-14.)

Our lesson for this week is a fitting climax to a study of the "Ten Commandments" and the teachings of Jesus concerning them. The subject, "Christ's New Commandment," and its accompanying Golden Text gives us the necessary motivating power that should enable us to keep all of God's Commandments—that power is love.

For centuries the Jews had been taught that it was essential for them not only to love God but also their neighbors. Yet it was left to the founder of Christianity to give to the world a proper example of the meaning of this doctrine, which he did both by the spoken word and the acted deed.

Sad though it is, it is nevertheless true, that not every church member is a Christian. A man or woman practicing the principles of Jesus in any given community will stand out and be easily distinguished by those who come in contact with him from the others, some of whom may be enrolled on the list of church membership. Christianity in its application to life, has been defined as the "habit of love in action."

Think of others and help them as you go through life; this is the teaching that Jesus gave in his parables. It is a message which many need in this modern age when so much emphasis is placed upon our own comfort, ease and pleasure, and so little concern is taken in the happiness and welfare of others. It is interesting to note that Jesus used to illustrate his teaching here was not in the simple essentials of life, food, clothes, health companionship and rehabilitation. To practice in these arts any man or woman is capable and able if guided by the proper spirit.

"These duties we owe to our neighbors..."

"These duties we owe to our neighbors..."

"These duties we owe to our neighbors..."

"These duties we owe to our neighbors..."

Some of us, like the ancient scribe, might ask who our neighbors are. As Jesus was teaching on one occasion, a lawyer asked him what was necessary to inherit eternal life, being solicitous as to the welfare of his immortal soul, just as most of us, Jesus allowed his questioner to reply to his own query and when he had repeated the familiar Jewish formula about love to God and his neighbor, Jesus placed his stamp of approval thereon, saying, "This do and thou shalt live." But the scribe wishing to explain why he had brought up for discussion a matter which could be so easily answered, inquired further and asked Jesus who his neighbor was.

The Parable of the Good Samaritan, one of the most beautiful stories in all literature, was the answer Jesus gave to the questioner. Then Jesus asked the lawyer to say who had been neighbor to this Jew, plainly pointing out that there were no artificial bounds fixed upon human brotherhood.

While we are living in an age in which philanthropy has been very largely supplanted by a more scientific basis than ever before, we are probably running the risk of fulfilling all our obligations to be neighborly by proxy. Most of us contribute small amounts of cash to various social and welfare organizations and seek to ease our conscience to the burden which it would feel if we were to enter in the presence of human misery, sorrow and distress.

Some of us are restrained from little acts of kindness and helpfulness by a certain timidity, being afraid to come almost instinctively to the proper response to a kindness rendered. How much better the world would be if each one of us tried to show to at least one person each day that somebody else was interested in his life? It would not necessarily take much time or money to do so, and it would be most helpful if we unreservedly accepted the social teachings of our Savior.

A verse by Marguerite Wilkinson is as follows:

I never cut my neighbor's throat;
My neighbor's gold I never stole;
I never spoiled his house and land;
But, God have mercy on my soul!
For all the deed I have not done,
O neighbor, I am sure you know
I costely never won!

HEALTH

Caffeine is found in many different kinds of plants in many different parts of the world. There is no close botanical relationship between these plants. Yet the inhabitants of various countries have found out about this nerve and heart stimulant and have devised ways and means of brewing from each of these plants a stimulating beverage.

In Arabia and Egypt the beverage was made from coffee, the roasted seeds. In western Africa the natives made a beverage from the dried seeds of kola nuts which are almost as large as chestnuts. Africans chewed the seeds and also made from them a tonic drink. In the Brazilian jungles the natives used the seeds of the guarana plant. Fermented tea leaves gave caffeine to the Chinese and Japanese.

Mate is an aromatic beverage prepared by the natives of Paraguay from what is known as Paraguay tea. The Mexicans and West Indians, having no caffeine plants, make their stimulating beverage from the fermented seeds of the chocolate plant.

This contains a closely related ingredient to caffeine known as theobromine. Coffee and tea are purely stimulants. They contain, in themselves, no nutritive qualities. The addition of milk or cream changes them to a food that requires digestion. Sugar, added, increases their viscous content. Much tea and coffee may cause nervousness and insomnia.

Among brain workers, especially those who must be awake at night, the tea and coffee habit may become harmful. The afternoon tea idea is not a bad one. It positively reduces fatigue. Perhaps too much credit is given the tea, for the food taken contributes part of the benefit. "Tea for two at three—right!"

DO YOU KNOW
For every four workers employed in the construction industry during 1936 there was approximately one disabling accident. About 2,900 such workers were killed, 35,400 were permanently injured and 265,000 were temporarily incapacitated.

In France, deaths exceeded births last year by 30,000. In Italy, just year, there were 861,000 more births than deaths. In the totalitarian states the birth rate is rapidly increasing.

DOG SIPS WINE IN CLUB.
Patrons of the Rainbow Room, one of Manhattan's swankiest supper clubs, were astonished the other evening to see a dog sitting at one of the tables drinking wine. The dog, known as King, the wonder dog, turned out to be the new star of the floor show staged at the Rockefeller Center supper club. King, in the course of his act, demonstrated his ability to count money, sing a song, and do some fancy dance steps. King is a police dog.

Answers to Correspondent's Queries

Dear Louisa:
I am engaged to a fine young man but I have never seen any of his people as they live in a distant city. Since our engagement I have not received a letter of any kind from his mother. I feel very much hurt about this as it seems to me that she could extend me a welcome into the family. Would you speak to my fiancé about this matter or would you ignore it?
SUSAN

Answer:
My Dear Susan:
Are you sure that your fiancé's people know that you are engaged to him? Of course, it is always proper for the man's mother to call on his bride-to-be or write her a simple little note welcoming her as a new member of the family and if his mother is a woman who knows what to do, there is really no excuse for her silence.

But there are lots of people who although they possess kind hearts, are not very up-to-date socially. It may be that his mother lacked educational opportunities and hesitates to write for that reason or perhaps she has sent you a message through him and thinks that sufficient. At any rate, if I were you, I would hesitate to make much of it. You might say in a casual way to your young man that you haven't heard from his mother yet and, as a joke, that if she doesn't hurry up and write you a little note that you'll think she is not so overjoyed over the new addition to the family.

However, do not judge his family until you see them. Perhaps everything will be clear to you then.
Yours,
LOUISA

Dear Louisa:
My husband makes me furious. He thinks it perfectly all right for him to go out at night to his lodge but resents my joining a card club which meets once a week at night. Do you think I ought to stop?
MRS. J. W.

Answer:
My Dear Mrs. J. W.:
What is sauce for the gander should be sauce for the goose and I think it is unreasonable for your husband to object to your leaving him at night if he leaves you. It would be ideal if you could arrange to go to your club on the same night he goes to his lodge. Surely he would be glad to know that you had something to do while he was away.
If there are children, perhaps, you could hire someone or arrange with some relative to stay with them while you are gone.
LOUISA

Answers to Modern Etiquette
1. When the bill amounts to $2.50 or more. When the amount is less than this, the tip may be 10c, 15c, 20c, or 25c, just as one wishes.
2. Yes, regardless of whether he is being introduced to a woman or a man, and regardless of age.
3. Whenever the titles Mr. and Mrs. are used together as a name the first name is given.
4. Yes, it is rude and inconsiderate. If it is absolutely necessary to leave before the final curtain, preferably to catch a certain train, one should leave as quickly and quietly as possible, and then put on the wraps at the back of the theatre.
5. An old friend of the family, perhaps a close friend of her father.
6. "Will you excuse me, please?"
7. Any of the following forms is correct: Sir; To the President; Mr. President; Dear Mr. President.
8. By making himself useful to his hostess and agreeable to her guests, or by sending flowers to his hostess on special occasions.
9. Cut the apple into quarters and eat it with the fingers.
10. Not unless the visitors speak first, and then the child must not be permitted to monopolize the conversation.
11. The ties, gloves, and boutonnières; and he usually gives a gift of a small piece of jewelry to each one.
12. It is better merely to ask if he prefers light or dark meat. If there is no one turkey, and six guests would request a leg, it would be embarrassing.
