

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

Spring Mills has a host of aspirants for the postoffice. Among the named mentioned are: Billy Brown, Billy McClellan, and Billy Krape.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad Company, a semi-annual dividend of five per cent was declared on the capital stock.

Henry Lyons can now be found slicing beef steak at Sechler's meat market. Charles Beezer, the former employer, resigned the position and will open a meat market in the room vacated recently by the Eureka grocery.

Editor Deiningner, of the Millheim Journal, we are sorry to hear, is not improving in health and is unable to attend to his business and editorial work. R. A. Bumiller, the former editor, is again at work until Mr. Deiningner's health improves.

We are sorry to hear of the sudden illness of B. P. Hunter, of Hunter's station. On Monday afternoon he was suddenly overcome by a paralytic stroke and has been unconscious since. The attending physicians entertain little hope for his recovery.

It is said that it became necessary on Saturday last to take Horace W. Watkins, of Williamsport, a young man about 18 years old, who was a clerk in the Dun Company Commercial Agency office, to the asylum at Danville. Cause of trouble, smoking cigarettes. (Ed note: Tsk! Tsk!)

W. A. Brown and Frank Ream, of Spring Mills, have ordered a lot of organs and sewing machines and having rented W. A. Krise's store room expect to open a music store in a few days. Hiram Grove is teaching for W. A. Krise while he is in Bellefonte attending to his duties as county auditor.

J. J. McClelland's bank barn near Washington Furnace, Nittany Valley, was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon. The barn is supposed to have been set on fire by Henry Davis, a flagman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was killed at Gallitzin last week. He was the oldest son of the late W. C. Davis, of Philadelphia, was born in Bellefonte, and was married only a few years ago. James Pierson and family, who took passage on the ocean steamer Umbria, arrived safely in England last week, the vessel having made the trip in six days and two hours, the best time on record. John Shunk, a Haines township charge for a number of years, was buried on the 7th aged 79 years. On the night of the 3rd, burglars broke into A. J. Campbell's grain house, at Coburn, and stole about two barrels of roller flour and seven or nine ham—Last Sunday morning, Mrs. James Armor, living on Linn Street, fell on the porch of her residence and broke her arm. Frank's Novelty store has moved into the room formerly occupied by C. U. Hoffer on Allegheny Street. Dr. W. A. Jacobs, of Centre Hall, was seriously ill last week, suffering from neuritis of the heart. Rev. Hammill, who has been quite ill at his home in Lemont because of a bronchial ailment, is improving slowly. Mr. Sechler, the groceryman, is erecting a large dwelling on Water Street.

Twenty Years Ago

Mrs. Jerome A. Meyers, of Rebersburg, suffered a fractured arm in a fall on a sidewalk near her home.

Bellefonte's two oldest men in a fall on a sidewalk near her home.

The Rev. James P. Hughes was 91 on December 15, and John Wetzel who observed his 92nd birthday on January 2.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Charles E. Fletcher and Lydia C. Schenck, both of Howard; Alfred H. Walker, Belmont, and Maude E. Harshberger, of Linden Hall.

According to figures released by the Registrars of vital statistics there were 1076 births and 946 deaths in Centre County during 1918, as compared with 1073 births and 933 deaths for 1917.

The Pennsylvania Department of Health, realizing that the return of soldiers from war offered the possibility of a spread of social diseases, announced a campaign of education throughout the state to familiarize citizens with preventive measures. Clinics for treatment of infected persons were to be opened in the larger cities.

While John Lyons was traveling from his sawmill located on the cross road between Howard and Jacksonville, he suddenly found himself within ten feet of a huge wildcat which jumped from the brush onto the road. The cat did not larry but crossed the road and disappeared into the brush. Hunters in that area had reported seeing several wild cats—the first reported in the vicinity for many years.

A serious coasting accident occurred on Bishop Street Thursday night when a heavy cutter struck a tree in front of St. John's Catholic church, severely injuring a number of the coasters. The cutter, owned by Paul Eberhart, who was then in France, was loaded by a group of young folks by Paul's brother, Malion. Thomas Anderson was guiding the big sled and had just reached the bottom of the hill when a horse and sleigh driven by Boyd Sampell, of near Bellefonte, approached from the opposite direction. The horse, seeing the cutter, reared, and the cutter swung to the left and struck the tree. Riders of the cutter were scattered over the street and were picked up and taken to the Blackford restaurant. Anderson suffered head injuries and torn ligaments in the left wrist; William Winton, broken nose and left leg injured; Miss Lewis Shope, broken ankle, bruises and lacerations; Miss Grace Lucas, torn ligaments, lacerations and bruises; Mrs. Roy H. Grove, sprains and bruises, and Harry Sticker, torn ligaments, bruises, and dislocated ankle. Clarence Bodie, another rider, escaped with minor injuries.

PETER DENIES HIS LORD

International Sunday School Lesson for January 22, 1939.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Let him that thinketh he stablisheth take heed lest he fall."—1 Corinthians 10:12.

Lesson Text: Luke 22:31-34, 54-62

Peter had been foremost among the disciples in recognizing Jesus the Messiah, had proclaimed his righteousness on one occasion and the unfitness of his own society, he trusted his power as he started across the stormy waters of Galilee, and he professed his loyalty unto death even if all others abandoned him, but he was to experience the bitter disappointment of discovering how unequal he was to be in a time of great peril and testing.

There are, however, along with his failure certain favorable side-lights. When the soldiers broke into the peace of the Garden to seize his master, it was Peter who played the part of courage as he saw it and in the face of unequal numbers drew his sword to defend Jesus. After the arrest, when all other disciples save one had fled in terror and confusion Peter followed "afar off." It is true, but within range of help and comfort.

The complete change in Peter's bearing came gradually. He had been over-confident of his own fidelity, he had not foreseen the imminent danger and slept rather than prayer in the Garden, he had not kept close to Jesus and in his presence afterwards had fraternized with his captors and enemies during the farcical trial and following this gradual gradation he slipped slowly into the final infidelity of denying with oaths his affiliation or acquaintance with his persecuted leader. Before he verbally repudiated his master he had acted the part in absenting himself from his side.

Upon the completion of his third and most emphatic denial the crowing of the cock recalled the warning Jesus had delivered some hours earlier and a patient, loving look from Jesus brought into complete realization the faithless and cowardly testimony he had uttered. Peter was overcome with humiliation and sorrow, which became evident to those who saw him. Like Judas, the traitor, he went out to weep bitterly, but with this difference, that where Judas found no hope in the es-

NASAL ALARM CLOCK WARNS OF GAS LEAKS

Thousands of lives have been snuffed out by a coffee pot or a tea kettle boiling over and extinguishing the gas flame, allowing the fumes to fill the room unnoticed. But now, according to a report by the American Petroleum Industries Committee at Rockefeller Center, a strongly odorous substance is being made from petroleum by-products that acts as a warning alarm clock to the nose. If the coffee pot boils over or a leak develops in the gas meter, the pungent and penetrating odor carried by the escaping gas is sure to be noticed. One pound of the substance will scent 30,000,000 cubic feet.
