Examine Sanity Robber Who Asked I.O.U. (Continued from page one) tended victim Mike Hanza, of Rush township, who explained his case through an interpreter, John Hanck, also of Rush township, ripped open the door of his home about 3 a. m. January 12, and poking a shotgun through the door demanded that Hanza give him $100. Mike said he didn't have $100 on him at the moment, but said he'd get it the next day. The man back of the shotgun wanted him to put that statement on paper, but Hanza refused.

Sometime later, Hanza said, Hanck again returned with his shotgun and again asked for $100. Hanza, in broken English, said he recently was released from a hospital and that Hanza, whom he termed a "witchcraft," offered to "cure" him for $25. He admitted attempting to rob Hanza, but said he took the law in his own hands when the law failed to give him redress for damage Hanza allegedly did to his property.

Burglary Gang Sentenced At Court

(Continued from Page 1) have committed at least 13 burglaries, only three of the jobs were singled out for prosecution in accordance with the court's instructions to minimize costs.

Clark Charles, 19, of St. Paul street, Francis Genus, 17, of East Bishop Street, and Paul Bryan, 17, of Half Moon Hill, were sent to the State Industrial School at Huntingdon for indeterminate terms. Donald Reed, 17, of Roopburg, was sentenced to serve 3 months in the County Jail, and Tony Benzie, 17, of Boston street, was placed under probation for 3 years. All sentences include the payments of costs. The seventh member of the gang, Carmen Worrick, last week was returned to the Huntingdon Industrial school as a parole violator.

The sentences were largely based upon the past criminal records of the boys. Benzie and Reed are first offenders, while all the others have been in previous difficulties with the law.

Many Liquor Violators All liquor law violators were accorded the same treatment in court, Monday, the standard penalty being a fine of $200 or serve 60 days in jail on the two counts. The prosecutor was James A. Dutra, of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, who reported that about 9 gallons of moonshine, two 10-gallon stills not in operation, some mash and coloring were found at the Tynio home in a raid on December 22, 1938.

William Clark, manager, and Curshaw E. Butler and Joseph Stegoksy, stewards at the Veterans' Old Strip Club, Philadelphia, each were sentenced to pay fines of $200 or serve 60 days in jail when they pleaded guilty to selling liquor to non-members, and selling liquor for consumption off the premises. Liquor Control Board officers were the prosecutors.

The attorney for the club claimed the Liquor Control Board member frequented the club and was generally regarded as a member, and that was the only reason he was able to purchase drinks. The Control Board suspended the Club's license for 25 days, but a new license is now in force, he said.

Forest Rapsey, manager, and Edward Smith and Charles Lamb, stewards, of the Philadelphia Veterans' Association, Inc., each were sentenced to pay fines totaling $300 or serve 60 days in jail, on two counts of violating the liquor laws. The alleged violations took place on August 21, 26 and 28, enforcement officers reported. On those days beer and whiskey were sold to non-members of the club, they said.

The club's attorney declared that the enforcement officers were in the building at the same time members entered, and that it was supposed that the officer, whose identity was not known to the club operators, was also a member and was treated accordingly.

Andrew and Mary Charnick, of Snow Shoe township, entered pleas of guilty to illegal possession of liquor, and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 30 days. Enforcement officer Dutra said that in a raid on the Charnick premises December 22, 1938, a small quantity of moonshine and a still not in operation were found.

Katie Franck, of Rush township, was directed to pay a fine of $100 or serve 30 days in jail when she entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession and sale of intoxicants, December 22, 1938. She told the court she engaged in the liquor business "to help support her family."

W. S. Erb, Philadelphia taproom proprietor, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve 30 days in jail when he entered a plea of guilty to selling more than 21 fluid ounces of beer to be taken from the premises. According to reports, enforcement officer T. R. Tubbs entered Erb's place on November 2, 1938, and ordered 5 bottles of beer. Erb began counting out 5 pints, when the "customer" asked for quart instead. Erb sold the quart, "never thinking," he said "that he was violating the law."

William Benner and William Wilson, stewards, at the L. O. M. Lodge at Philadelphia, drew fines of $100 each for 30 days in jail on pleas of guilty to selling beer and liquor to non-members. Enforcement officers entered the club on October 30, 1938, they said, gave the stewards $3 for a membership application, and were then permitted to purchase beer and whiskey.

In the case of all the clubs involved the Liquor Control Board suspended their licenses, but renewed them when the suspension period ended. The suspension period was only technical in nature, permission being given to continue sales during the periods upon the payment of a daily forfeit to the Control Board.

Admits Adultery Mary Ellen Ross, of near State College, wife of Thomas Ross, entered a plea of guilty to adultery on three occasions, and was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and serve from 3 to 12 months in the county jail. Constable I. C. Holmes was the prosecutor, but in his absence the woman's husband made a statement to court. She declared she wouldn't return to live with her husband.

Harry Moore, entering a plea of guilty to being the father of a child born to Mrs. Verna Walker, near Blanchard, received the usual sentence in such cases, providing for the support of the child. Judge Walker in passing sentence declared that the Walker family has been a problem to the county for some time, and that Moore's crime only aggravated the situation.

Charles T. Laird, of Port Matilda, drew probation for 1 year and 30 days when he pleaded guilty to two charges of issuing checks with insufficient funds to cover them. It was reported that Laird, a laborer on the Robert Hartsock farm, got in arrears with a grocery bill at the H. B. Lykens & Sons grocery, and that he issued one check for $25, and another for $6.41, drawn on the Community Bank, Port Matilda, to pay the bill. Laird has a family and has never been in trouble before. Sentence was suspended upon the payment of costs and making restitution.

Three Clarence Youths Killed

(Continued from Page 1) Late last night attaches of the Philadelphia State Hospital where Robert Cole is undergoing treatment, declared that he has a chance to still regard as being very serious. He is suffering from a concussion of the brain and a probable skull fracture. Owing to his condition it has been inadvisable to make a complete x-ray examination.

Lee Bobst, of Jersey Shore, driver of the truck, was absolved of all blame in the tragedy by a Coroner's jury impaneled at the Johnston Funeral Home in Snow Shoe, Tuesday morning.

According to reports from various sources, the sled had safely rounded a left curve and was in the process of winding around a sharp right curve when it struck the truck traveling in the opposite direction. The sled missed the front of the truck, and apparently rammed against the tires of the dual wheels on the left side of the machine. Swerving, the sled ran under the truck and came to rest against the differential.

Because there were few marks on the boys' heads, it is believed that the contact against the truck's tires caused death, rather than the impact against the differential. The sled was smashed to bits.

The Conifer brothers were instantly killed, while Edward Cole lived about five minutes. The truck driver, who stopped immediately, ran for aid, while his bride of a few weeks who was a passenger in the truck, watched over the youths who were entangled in the truck wheels and the wreckage of the sled. The mangled bodies were removed by nearby residents who used flashlights in working to extricate the bodies.

Robert Cole, the sole survivor of the crash, is believed to have been on the bottom of the pile, which may account for his having escaped the same fate as his companions.

At the inquest conducted by Dr. Heaton at the Johnston Funeral Home in Snow Shoe, Pa., on Tuesday morning, Bobst testified that his truck was proceeding very slowly up the mountain road, and that he was entering into a sharp left turn when he suddenly saw a "streak" in front of his truck and then heard the sled hit his machine. He stopped immediately, he said.

Bobst said that just before the crash the light of his truck were shining through the woods, because of the sharp curve just ahead. It was dark and snow was falling, he said. He expressed the belief that the boys could have seen the truck lights before reaching the curve. His wife substantiated his testimony, saying that when she got out of the truck "all the boys were still."

Others whose statements were heard at the inquest included Private C. J. Conahan, of the Pleasant Gap Motor Police substation who investigated the accident; Mrs. Agnes Witherite, of Cherry Run, mother of the Cole boys; Charles Tarver, who aided in pulling the boys from under the truck, and Roy Confer, father of the Conifer boys. Confer said tearfully that time after time he had warned his sons against sledding on the roads in the Clarence vicinity.

Monday's tragedy was the second major coasting accident in the Snow Shoe-Clarence area in less than ten days. Saturday, January 26, six Snow Shoe boys were injured when the sled on which they were coasting in the eastern part of Snow Shoe, ran into a car. None was fatally injured.

Members of the Coroner's jury who served at the inquest Tuesday were: Sheriff Harry V. Keeler, J. L. Tressler and Harry Tierney, all of Bellefonte; and E. T. Haynes, H. W. Shive and L. M. Kelley, of Snow Shoe.

Edward Cole, born January 2, 1927, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Agnes Witherite, and these brothers and sisters: Mildred, Elizabeth, Thurman, Thomas and the injured brother, Robert, all at home. The time for the funeral will not be fixed definitely until relatives residing at a distance have notified the family as to the date of their arrival in Clarence. Tentative arrangements are that the services will be held Friday afternoon or Saturday morning from the family home. The Rev. C. R. Hannan, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Snow Shoe and Clarence will officiate and interment will be made in the Askey cemetery.

The Conifer boys are survived by their parents, Roy and Rosie Bath Conifer, of near Clarence, and their brothers and sisters: Norman, Robert, Irene, Betty, Josephine, and Pearl, all at home.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this Thursday afternoon from the home, in charge of the Rev. Mr. Hannan. Interment will be made in the Askey cemetery.
