HAY IN THE MOW HELPS KEEP DAIRY BARN DRY

Hay in the mow serves as insulation and helps keep the dairy barn warm during winter. Mr. J. C. Blaney, home farmer, has an interesting story to tell about the cause of dampness in their stables by leaving bare spots on the mow floors. This results in a cold ceiling below on which moisture condenses.

It is a good plan to have a covering of at least two feet of hay or straw over a basement dairy stall. If part of the ceiling is below a barn floor which must be kept clear, the insulation can be applied on the under side of the joists.

Ordinary insulating sheeting of five-eighths inch thickness, is not sufficient. Better protection will be obtained if either fill insulation is added or two thicknesses of the material used. Material impregnated with waterproofing withstands the penetration of moisture better and has greater ability to prevent heat escape. Wet insulation gives little protection.

If protection is desired against possible fire, sheet metal can be used for the ceiling, and fill insulation placed between it and the floor above. Two thicknesses of roofing with sheet metal between give excellent protection against fire damage. Ventilation of dairy stables is often poor. Usually the construction of a single flue, floor outside system with numerous small inlets will solve the problem. Plans for its construction can be obtained at the office of the county agricultural extension association office in Bellefonte.

Any country, governed by the business class, will have cheap labor and cheap raw materials.

At least one-half of the people in the world are busy trying to tell the other half how to live.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Lettuce, celery, mint and parsley have made a reputation.

Lettuce is eaten to the very last leaf; there are many ways in which to serve it.

Celery is the most versatile of them all, its varied uses enable the house-keeper to make use of the coarse stalks as well as the crisp.

Mint has a distinct appeal to the appetite and appears in the form of leaves, essence and oil.

Parsley is a piquant addition to many dishes and should be served often.

Braised Lettuce

Cut lettuce into wedges and cook on a buttered broiler fifteen minutes, basting frequently with melted butter. Serve very hot.

Buttered Beets With Celery

1 cup cooked beets
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Outside stalks of celery
1/2 cup water or stock

Cut beets in quarters or in small pieces and put in saucepan with butter, vinegar and sugar; keep hot until ready to serve. Cut outside stalks from a bunch of celery in 1/2 inch slices crosswise and cook in stock until tender. Drain and season with 2 tablespoons of butter. Pile in center of vegetable dish and surround with beets.

Braised Celery in Green Pepper Sauce

1 bunch of celery
1/2 cup of beef stock
1 onion
1 sprig of parsley
1 green pepper

Wash and scrape celery and cut in 3 inch pieces. Place in a casserole on sliced onion and parsley, cover with beef stock and bake 1 hour. Remove celery and serve in rings of green pepper.

Currant Mint Sauce

3 tablespoons oil
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups of finely chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped stuffed olives
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Melt fat, add crumbs, salt and pepper and mix well. Add celery and olives and mix thoroughly. Use for stuffing roast shoulder of pork.

Current Mint Sauce

2 tablespoons chopped nuts
2 cups finely chopped mint leaves
1 stick currant jelly
Mash jelly with a fork. Add nuts and mint leaves and mix well. Serve as a relish with roast lamb.

Dinner Fench

Pour 1 cup of strong green tea over 1 tablespoon finely chopped mint. Add 1/2 cup of lemon juice, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup sugar syrup, a few grains of salt and the rind from 1 cucumber, cut in strips. Let stand until cold. Strain and chill. Just before serving pour into a lemonade jug half full of ice. Add 1 pint of loganberry juice, gingerale and carbonated water. Garnish with a sprig of mint, thin slices of orange and lemon.

Mint Glazed Carrots

3 medium sized carrots
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon chopped mint leaves
2 cups cooked peas
Butter, salt, pepper

Wash, scrape and cut carrots in 1/4 inch slices, then in strips. Cook 15 minutes in boiling salted water. Drain. Cook slowly with butter, sugar, and mint leaves until soft and glazed. Add peas. Season with butter, salt and pepper.

Vegetable Croquettes

Leftover carrots, turnips, beans or peas, mixed with croquettes, which combined with beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon flour and a generous amount of chopped parsley.

Make into flat cakes and fry. Serve very hot, with fresh parsley.

Creamed Shrimp

Heat 1 can of shrimp in 1 cup of rich cream sauce. When ready to serve, add 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley and garnish with slices of hard boiled egg.

Raw Vegetable Salad

1 cup finely chopped green pepper
1 cup grated raw carrots
1 cup finely shredded lettuce
1/2 pound American cheese, grated

Mix each vegetable separately with enough mayonnaise to bind. On a plate of lettuce place a mound of each. Place a mound of lettuce on top of carrots and top with a mound of green pepper, sprinkle with cheese. Serve with savory dressing.
