"Nine teen chain stores reporting to the committee showed increases in expenditures of more than $5,000,000," Johnson said. "When we remember that chains normally spend about $12,500,000 in Pennsylvania every two weeks, we can see that purchases in the 'Pennsylvania Days' drive will top $20,000,000. This vast expenditure has helped all Pennsylvania."
Johnson said that the support given the campaign by organized labor, business in general and consumers is responsible for the success of the drive.
"The people of Pennsylvania," he said, "showed that they are more than willing to support Pennsylvania business and industry if given an opportunity. Their backing of this drive indicated that the way to prosperity is clear. What is needed is sensitive promotion of Pennsylvania products."
Pointing out that chains buy $309,400,000 worth of Pennsylvania products annually, Johnson forecast a sharp rise in the annual expenditure. "Not only will the boosting resulting from Pennsylvania Days increase this total," he said, "but the new demand for Pennsylvania products as a result of this drive will result in a constant expansion of the market for Pennsylvania goods."
Johnson reiterated his invitation to all business to "map a permanent campaign" for the promotion of Pennsylvania products. "By such cooperative efforts," he said, "we can really rebuild our home market in Pennsylvania."
—The condition of Mrs. Benjamin J. Beezer, of East Bishop street, who underwent an emergency operation at the Centre County Hospital Tuesday night, last night was reported to be quite encouraging even though the operation revealed an infection which usually is quite serious. —Modern linoleum flooring, cemented over the present wooden floor, will be placed in the display room and offices of the Electric Supply Company store on West High Street. The work is being done by the Bellefonte Hardware Company. Because of the large number of heavy articles, such as electric iron, washing machines, and radios, which must be moved from place to place as the work progresses in the display room, the task is an unusually tedious one, but excellent headway is being made and the job is scheduled to be completed the latter part of this week. The linoleum is a mottled brown color, and since the entire store is being given a thorough cleaning, it will be in first class condition for the coming spring season.
—These are the Ides of March, of which Shakespeare warned his readers to beware. We don't know just what the great poet had in mind to fear, but in present-day terms one of the great hazards of the season are icy conditions of the streets. During Saturday and Sunday's sleet and hail storms, the streets of Bellefonte were solid sheets of ice and the few spoonfuls of ashes allotted to the borough under the new state economy program found many a car and truck stranded, even on light hills. Saturday night many persons were compelled to abandon their cars and walk home after their machines were unable to make any headway. A large truck and trailer combination, attempting to proceed up High Street, stalled in front of the Wolf Furniture store, early Saturday evening, causing considerable traffic congestion.

'Pennsylvania Days' Created New Jobs

A substantial amount of new employment was created in this State as a result of the chain store expenditure of nearly $20,000,000 during the 'Pennsylvania Days' campaign. Fred W. Johnson, chairman of the Chain Store Committee for Pennsylvania Prosperity, declared this week.
"The vastly expanded consumption of Pennsylvania products as a result of 'Pennsylvania Days' emptied warehouses and factory shelves," he said. "As a result, new jobs were created because of the need to replenish stocks.
Johnson pointed out that the Warehouse Employees Union had reported that many new jobs were created in their field and said that was indicative of the scope of re-employment, resulting from the chain store drive.
"Nineteen chain stores reporting to the committee showed increases in expenditures of more than $5,000,000," Johnson said. "When we remember that chains normally spend about $12,500,000 in Pennsylvania every two weeks, we can see that purchases in the 'Pennsylvania Days' drive will top $20,000,000. This vast expenditure has helped all Pennsylvania."
