THE CATCH ALL. It may be a tin box with a lid or maybe an old cracker jar. But in it are crammed so many things...

A lot too many by far. Buttons and old hooks and eyes into the catch-all they go. 'Till sometimes we wonder to ourselves...

Thread, thimbles, needles and pins. Some times an old gold ring. And we know it is full to the brim...

Words with you I wouldn't bandy. But nearly every day, in some way. The catch-all comes in handy. L. S.
