'CONSCIENCE MAKES COWARDS OF US ALL'

Life becomes a nightmare to anyone who is so unfortunate as to offend Conscience. The nights seem interminable. Every shadow takes on the form of avenging Justice; sleep is impossible, and thinking is torture, for the mind is unable to fasten itself upon anything but the crime.

GOLF NEWS. The chances of next year's golf team seem fairly promising, even though Jim Craig, Bob Curtin, and George Binghamman will be among the graduating seniors. Bob's loss will be especially felt, as he was near the top in events won. He played the top in events won. He played the top in events won.

Dress Up Furniture. Everyone likes a new dress so dress up your furniture in summer garb suggests Miss Helen S. Butler, home economics extension representative of Centre County. Slip covers not only protect the furniture from strong light and dirt but help to cut down on the daily dusting. This is especially true at this season when homemakers want to spend every available minute out-of-doors. Sunproof and washable materials that are firm, lively in color, and interesting in pattern are suitable for slip covers. These can be made at home, or to order by a local store. Ready-made covers may be selected if you are sure they will fit your furniture and if you can afford them. To insure summer slip covers of a long life and continued brightness, wash them carefully. Douse them in lukewarm suds made with a mild soap. Use a second suds if necessary. Rinse thoroughly in clear water until all trace of soap is gone. Most important of all, wash the covers before they become soiled. Haste rubbing may break the materials. This extra rubbing, combined with the large amount of soap necessary to remove the dirt, dulls the colors. If you are interested in having additional information on making slip covers, Miss Butler will be glad to give it to you. You may write or call her at the agricultural extension office in Bellefonte. Also there is available a printed circular on making slip covers. You may get a copy of "Slip Covers" from Miss Butler.

The ceremony was a very pretty one with a bower of roses forming a background for the wedding rites. Both the bride and her mother wore similar designed white gowns and pearl Juliet caps. The bride's gown was of organdy and Mrs. Slenker's was of tulle. Mr. Slenker was the groom's best man. Before the ceremony, Mrs. Miller, wife of the pastor, gave a piano recital, and the bride's sister sang, "O Promise Me." Mrs. Slenker was graduated from the Centre Hall-Potter High school and a business school in Williamsport. At present she is employed part time in the business offices in the agricultural department at Pennsylvania State College. Mr. Slenker is a graduate of the Lock Haven High school and during the past semester was a student at the Lock Haven Teachers College.

There are people in the United States who know more about the problems of Europe than they do about the problems of the American States. Many speakers mistake tolerance for letting a minority of the population compel the majority to do something the minority desires.

What has become of the people who feared that the radio would put the newspapers out of business? The highest compliment that a merchant can pay an individual is to sell on credit. If some Bellefonte merchant has done this for you, why not strain a point and make him a payment on account? He probably needs it.
