Avis Man Is Found Mysteriously Hurt

In Lock Haven Hospital With Fractured Skull Suffered Sunday

BULLETIN

Alfred Lupold died at 2:55 o'clock yesterday morning at the Lock Haven Hospital, and police have arrested Vincent A. Paluszak and William Nichols, both of Avis. The two men will be charged with manslaughter, it is reported.

Alfred Lupold, 63, who resides on Clinton street, Avis, is in a critical condition at the Lock Haven Hospital where he is being treated for a fractured skull suffered early Sunday morning in a mysterious manner.

State Motor Police from the criminal investigation detail at Williamsport are working with the Clinton county authorities in an effort to determine how the man received his injuries. He was found unconscious in front of his home at 7 o'clock Sunday morning by his brother, John Lupold, of English Centre, who is visiting at the Lupold home.

The man's condition was so grave that two sons, Raymond, of Waits, N. Y., and Leman, of Endicott, N. Y., were summoned and have arrived at his bedside. Dr. L. M. Goodman, of Jersey Shore, who examined him shortly after he was found, reported that the man had a blood clot on his brain which might result in paralysis should he recover. He was admitted to the hospital Monday evening.

There is evidence to indicate that Mr. Lupold was dragged from a car to the front steps at his home. When found, his head was resting on a step and his body on the lawn.

His wife said that he had left home Saturday afternoon to visit a local bar. Other reports state that he had been forcibly ejected from the bar room of a garage after he had refused to leave at the midnight closing hour. How he received his injuries and the manner in which he was taken to his home have not been ascertained.

He grew to manhood on his father's farm and attended the public schools of Boggs township.

On January 1, 1914, he married Myrtle Sara Heaton, eldest daughter of Jacob and Rebecca Heaton, of Boggs township. They have one daughter, Lillian, wife of William E. Markley, of East Bishop street, Bellefonte. Mr. and Mrs. Cox lived at Orviston for thirteen years while he was employed there in the brick plant of the Hayes Run Fire Brick Company and the General Refractories Fire Brick Company. He was a member of the Hayes Run Fire Brick Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox moved to Bellefonte June 1, 1928, and he was named as a guard at the Rockview penitentiary until 1932. On August 20, 1928, he opened a restaurant on West High street, Bellefonte, and at the present time is the owner and proprietor of the well known Cox's Restaurant.

Flemington Boy Drowns In Creek

Inexperienced Swimmer, 15, Steps in 10-Foot Hole at "The Bend"

Wading Monday afternoon in what Wearne Mervin Dauberman, 15, of Flemington, thought to be waist-deep water, the boy sank to his death in a 10-foot hole, one of the many despite which the spot, a half mile from the Bald Eagle Canal bridge, in Clinton county, has become a popular swimming place.

Nearly an hour after the bather had disappeared, John Fetters dove successfully and recovered the body. Two physicians labored with a pneumator for a time, but Dr. W. J. Shoemaker, Clinton county coroner, declared the boy a victim of drowning upon his arrival and termed the casualty accidental after questioning the witnesses, all of whom were boys younger than the victim.

Unable to swim, the boy was said to have entered the water without the knowledge of his mother, Mrs. Bertha M. Dauberman, as he returned to his Mill Hill R. D. home from classes at the Lock Haven State Teachers College Training School, where he was a student.

Besides Mrs. Dauberman, surviving are six brothers, Benjamin L. Lock Haven; Charles M., Mill Hill R. D.; Willard E., LaGrange, Ind., and at home.

Funeral services will be held this Thursday afternoon at the Fairport Methodist church, with burial in Sunnyside cemetery.

FOOD NOT EXPENSIVE AT NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

An increasing number of people from this area are attending the New York World's Fair. All who have already gone give accounts of the beautiful water displays, the elaborate foreign exhibits, and the educational commercial displays. However, it is believed that many people would be going to the Fair if it were not for an unfounded rumor to the effect that food prices are prohibitive, that admission is charged to most of the buildings, and that the Fair is not completed.

"Hamburgs and hot dogs are ten cents on the Fair Grounds the same as they are in Bellefonte. If you want to listen to a name dance band, and want luxurious atmosphere with your hot dog and hamburger, you will have to pay exorbitant prices for your food on the Fair Grounds, the same as at home," stated John W. Barwick, of York, sponsor of all-expense tours for the Fair from all sections of Pennsylvania.

"It is possible to eat heartily and well on the Fair Grounds for the small sum of one dollar and fifty cents a day. As for paying admission to the many exhibits on the grounds," continued Mr. Barwick, "this is absurd. One could spend seven days going through the free exhibits on the grounds and then not see all of them. Furthermore, the most worthwhile ones are those for which no admission is charged."

"As for the Fair's not being completed, this is ridiculous. Even the building and exhibit of Czechoslovakia, whose government has been destroyed, is open and presents a most interesting picture of what national life in this little republic used to be like."

An official of the New York Hotel Association in a recent statement complimented Mr. Barwick on sending the largest group on an all-expense tour ever to be sent to New York City. At present, however, more reservations are being made for small groups and individuals than for large groups.

Mrs. Helen Willis Beckel is the local representative in this area, covering four counties, and she may be consulted at the Wolf Furniture Store, Bellefonte, every Thursday.

Lenore Morgan To Wed Ernest Martin

Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the Penn Belle Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Martin will depart for a wedding trip to the Lake Erie region. Upon their return they will make their home in Bellefonte although definite plans have not been completed at this time.

The bride-to-be, a talented musician, was graduated from the Bellefonte High school and received her bachelor's and master's degrees at Pennsylvania State College. Since completing her college studies about three years ago she has been employed as teacher of civics and English in the Bellefonte High school and also is instructor of the boys' and girls' glee clubs. In college she was a member of the Louise Homer Music Club; the Phi Sigma Iota, honorary romance language club; the College Choir and the Girls' Glee Club. For some months she has been director of the Junior Choir at St. John's Lutheran church.

Mr. Martin is a graduate of the Bellefonte High school and is part owner of the Pe-Ro Dairy store in Bellefonte. He is a member of the Campus Owls orchestra, State College. Mrs. Martin plans to continue teaching in the local schools next winter.

Getting ahead in life, according to modern go-getters, is convincing other people that you are more than you believe you are.

Charged With Drunken Driving

Harold D. Cowher, West Bishop street, Friday morning, was charged with a plea of guilty to the charge when arraigned before the "Squire."

The accident happened about 6 o'clock last Thursday evening when the Dubbs car failed to make a curve west of the Wallrun service station. The machine swerved, skidded over on its top and finally came to rest on its side, police said.

The injured were: Laura Dubbs, 3, laceration of the back; Thomas Dubbs, 6, laceration of lip and chin; Wayne Carver, 4, nose injury; Jacob Carver, 9, back and head injury, and Delbert Praeger, 24, lacerations of forehead and right knee. A passing motorist, D. P. Christensen, of Williamsport brought them to the hospital. The driver was not injured.

Damage to the machine was estimated at about $100, and the accident was investigated by Private George Finnin, of the State Motor Police at Pleasant Gap.

ASPARAGUS RESPONDS TO PROPER ATTENTION

Although nearly everyone relishes asparagus, few people grow it in their home gardens. According to County Agent R. C. Blaney, 50 to 75 plants will supply sufficient asparagus to meet the requirements of a family of five.

However, to be productive, an asparagus bed must receive the right kind of attention. In too many gardens, since asparagus is a perennial, it is left to shift for itself after the cutting season. This is a mistake because the plants require periodic feeding and cannot satisfactorily compete with weeds and sod even though vigorous and hardy.

A good crop of asparagus can be assured next year by making plans now to treat the bed properly. Not only it is advisable to keep the bed free of weeds during the cutting season, but also during summer and fall. It is during summer and fall that the plants store food supplies in the roots for the production of young stems the following spring.

In addition to keeping the bed cultivated to remove competition from weeds, it is a good plan to add a complete fertilizer. Use either 5-10-5 or 4-8-7, broadcast at the rate of 20 to 40 pounds per 100 square feet about the middle of June. Fifteen to 21 pound is considered sufficient for 100 feet of row.

Many follow the plan of mulching their asparagus beds with straw after the fertilizer has been applied. Mulching eliminates weeds and keeps the ground cool and moist, providing ideal conditions for the growth of the plants. If properly handled, an asparagus bed will pay large dividends in good yields.

Kitten Battles Rattlesnake

When Mr. and Mrs. Clair Pyle, of Emporium, noticed their 7-year-old son Kieth on the lawn of their home, intently watching something, they investigated and found that his pet kitten was engaged in a battle with a 40-inch rattlesnake. The boy was rudely yanked from the vicinity, the kitten, ditto, and the snake was then captured. All three escaped injury, the snake being given to a physician who sent it to a collector friend in Ann Arbor, Mich.
