

Over The County News

Prothonotary Bond C. White last week turned over to the county a check for $1388.94 representing the county's share in fees collected in that office during 1935 and required to be returned under an act of assembly passed May 6, 1874.

D. J. Nieman, Millheim clothing merchant, suffered a heart attack on Wednesday night of last week in his apartment over the store. He has since been confined to his bed with the word at this time that he is slowly recovering his former strength.

Miss Loraine Musser of Millheim, was supplying in the Centre Hall telephone exchange during the latter part of last week, due to the illness of Miss Caribel Emerick and Mrs. Marion Neff, operators. Miss Emerick was able to resume work beginning of this week, which relieved the help shortage.

Parents of children who are accustomed to go to the former McMullin dam site in Millheim to swim, and incidentally use lands of another, should advise such offspring against the use of the site that spot. Recently the Centre Hall used wood to the extent of taking pilings from a fence and setting fire to grass which could easily spread to adjacent buildings.

Clarence Blizer is erecting a silo on his farm close to Old Fort. Mr. Blizer harvested good wheat and oats crops, had plenty hay, and the corn is very promising as is also an eight-acre plot sown to beans for either fodder or soil improvement. These notes appear here for the reason the farm on which the crops were grown regarded lacking fertility to such an extent it was shunned for years.

While canning string beans last Thursday, a can exploded and played havoc in the kitchen of Mrs. A. L. Emery, Centre Hall. The boiler, removed from the stove and the cans taken from the boiler were in the process of being wiped when the explosion occurred. The top of the can flew to the side, avoiding hitting Mrs. Emery, but a part of the beans and hot liquid on its way to the ceiling hit her on the face, scalding her to some extent.

Boys with air rifles and slingshots are destroying song birds which have become more plentiful since bird baths, wormed hedges, shrubbery and ornamental trees are becoming common on many Centre Hall properties. Everyone should aim to protect birds. First, children should be taught to protect them; and second, if the first method is not effective, a demonstration of the rights of the game birds under the law of the land. Boy Scouts should interest themselves in bird protection.

Elmer Sticca, of Pittston, a guest last week of Elmer Irvine, Millheim, got a bit of deserved notoriety when he was supposedly returning home last Friday. The fourteen-year-old youngster was first visiting relatives in Bellefonte, according to information he left with his parents. Tiring of that, he went out to Millheim and stuck around with Elmer Irvine, a friend of the family. This feature was not revealed to his father, however, and finally Irvine got suspicious enough to put him on the Greyhound bus Friday morning, with a ticket to Pittston. Instead of getting off at Pittston, he kept right on going and landed in New York City. A police check-up finally solved the riddle of his whereabouts and his wanderlust was nipped in the bud.

Dealers in All Kinds of Grains

BELLEFONTE, PA.

R. K. Dippery, of State College, caught a 24-inch brown trout weighing four and three-quarter pounds in Spring Creek near Oak Hill last Friday morning, using a minnow as a lure.

W. O. Rearick, a grain and coal dealer in Millroy, well known in Penns Valley where he was engaged in business prior to locating in Millroy, was a patient in the Lewistown Hospital, threatened with appendicitis. He was under the care of Dr. Adams, substituting for Dr. H. C. Cassidy while he was on his vacation.

Adjutant General Edward Martin announced on Saturday that the War Department has granted Federal recognition to Headquarters, 160th Field Artillery, P. N. G. stationed in Harrisburg. Federal recognition is granted to a Guard unit when it meets the War Department requirements on organization. Lieutenant Colonel Albert H. Stackpole is commander of the regiment which has batteries in Waynesboro, Lewistown, Bellefonte, DuBois and Philadelphia.

Thirty-two families living in Yarnell and vicinity began to enjoy the benefits of electricity Thursday afternoon when the West Penn Power Company sent "juice" pulsating through that newly built line. Nearly all of the 32 customers who signed up had their homes wired and were ready for the electricity. The new line was built from Runville, a distance of almost eight miles. Another new line serving about 13 customers in Reese Hollow, near Port Matilda, will be completed and ready for service in several weeks. West Penn officials announced.

Base stone for the south portion of the Pottery Mills-Old Fort road are being hauled from Seven Mountains. Logan Decker is furnishing them from stone fences built many years ago on the land he owns—the former John and Daniel Decker tracts. Stone for the north section of the road, it is said, will be taken from Nittany Mountain, on the south slope. The stone will be broken by hand after being dumped on the road bed. A cut of several feet at the Centre Hill crossroads is about completed, as is a fill of considerable proportions along the sheet and barn on the L. R. Smith farm. A considerable bump is yet to be cut from the grade on the south side of the Allen property. The road bed immediately back of the Allen property will be at an elevation of about the same as the second floor. A ramp beginning at the intersection of the Centre Hill roads will afford an approach from the Allen place, and a wall a bit to the north will prevent slides from a fill. The driveway at Porter Mills, for the accommodation of Laurel creek, is completed. The principal cuts yet to be made are at the north of the bridge at the Carson store and on Pine Hill, north of the intersection of the Sprucecreek road.

Blair County Coroner Chester C. Rothrock said that Peters told him that he had plenty of rest and was not sleepy when the truck went into a skid. It was also learned that the driver of the crushed car was considered the slowest driver of the Monark system and that he was going around 29 or 30 miles per hour.

When questioned by police in Tyrone, Peters broke into a frequent crying spells and gave a very incoherent story.

Workers at the paper mill told of hearing the crash and of running to the scene. They reported it was very foggy, making it impossible to see more than 15 or 20 feet ahead. A Greyhound bus traveling east on the curve came upon the truck just a few minutes after the crash and was forced to stop.

This is the second accident involving Monark trucks in this section in the past two weeks. The first accident occurred at Alexandria where a truck owned by that firm crashed into a bridge and fell upon an auto as the bridge collapsed. Three persons were killed.

Death came suddenly to two Lycoming county men visiting in Lock Haven over the weekend. Ellsworth Shore, 70, Jersey Shore, dropped dead at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning as he was about to enter St. Luke's Reformed church, Lock Haven, and Boniface Fave, 24, of Laryville was fatally stricken while eating in a Main street lunch room early Saturday morning. Dr. W. J. Shoemaker, coroner, said that death in Mr. Fisher's case was caused by a stroke, and that Mr. Fave died of angina pectoris.

RETURNS TO AMERICA AFTER EXPERIENCE ABROAD

By WM. GREGORY MOORE
Dr. Stanley Michael, an American born refugee from Czecho-Slovakia who was in Prague several months ago when Hitler's German Legation entered that ancient Bohemian capital, spent the past week at the Moore stock ranch near Neffs Mills, Shavers Creek Valley, Huntingdon county, leaving yesterday for Pittsburgh hoping soon to secure a position on the staff of a hospital. Dr. Michael was placed in contact with the present writer through the efforts of Colonel Vladimir Hurban, Czecho minister to the United States whose offices are in Washington, D. C.

Having had farm experience intermittently while a high school and medical student in Prague and unable to get rooted in as a doctor since he returned to Pittsburgh, three months ago, the twenty-seven year-old medico came out to the Moore stock ranch to try his luck in the role of cowboy. He was just getting acclimated to his new environment yesterday when word came from Pittsburgh medical placement bureau that his position for securing a position on the staff of a hospital in a nearby city were good, so Dr. Michael left immediately to grab opportunity by the forelock.

Dr. Michael is an American citizen, but his mother, a native Bohemian, took him to Prague from Pittsburgh, the city of his birth, when he was quite young. He was educated in the Prague high school, graduating from St. Charles University in that city where he received a medical degree. His young wife, also of Prague, a university-trained woman and a doctor of philosophy, remained in Czecho-Slovakia while her husband is trying to establish himself in his native United States.

Dr. Michael's varied experiences and travels in Continental Europe together with his university background make him an interesting conversationalist. He speaks Czecho, German and English fluently, also, being able to talk some in French.

International "red tape" at present is keeping the medico and his young wife separated, but they hope to join each other as soon as he secures a permanent position.

crushed. They managed to get the unconscious form of Cramer from the wreckage of the cab. He was taken to the office of a Tyrone doctor, then put in the Tyrone ambulance and started for the hospital at Phillipsburg. He died enroute to the hospital.

Blair County Coroner Chester C. Rothrock said that Peters told him that he had plenty of rest and was not sleepy when the truck went into a skid. It was also learned that the driver of the crushed car was considered the slowest driver of the Monark system and that he was going around 29 or 30 miles per hour.

Firemen To Meet At Houtzdale

cluding: band concert by the American Legion Band; dancing at Firemen's hall; open to the public; fireworks; and awarding of grand prizes and continuous carnival.

The Convention and Old Home Week will be a celebration that will long be remembered by residents as well as visitors and guests. From The enormous number of advance reservations being made at this early date the crowd will be one of the largest ever to assemble in Houtzdale.

The committees are leaving nothing undone in assuring all visitors of adequate eating places, lodging facilities and amusements of all kinds.

Plans are being completed on a large scale to make every day during the entire week a day of fun, amusement and entertainment.

The committees are exerting every effort in arranging the program so that everyone will be amply entertained in their particular kind of amusements.

Many former residents have already signified their intentions to visit their old home town and join in with old and new friends during the Old Home Week and Convention.

Streets of the town have been beautifully decorated with comely colored pennants and banners welcoming firemen and visitors. Electric lights in varied colors will be stretched across the streets and kept burning during the nights of the activities.

A very interesting display of photographs, reminiscing the early history of Houtzdale, the Fire Company, early settlers and buildings, is being exhibited in the clothing department windows of the Eureka Stores. Any one having additional photographs and tokens, depicting the early history of Houtzdale, are welcome at any time to add them to the display.

INSURANCE HEAD LAUDS WORK OF LOCAL AGENCY

Miss Ann Keichline who since the death of her father, the late J. M. Keichline, has been conducting the Keichline Insurance Agency here, is the recipient of an interesting letter from the President of the Northwestern National Insurance Co., of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in which that official commends the enviable record established by the Bellefonte agency.

The letter follows:
"Dear Madam:
The Keichline Family has completed a period of twenty-five years as local agent of the Northwestern National Insurance Company at Bellefonte, your father having represented us for over twenty-four years until his passing in June 1936, when you assumed this agency."

"We shall not permit this day to pass without commending your loyalty on behalf of the Company. There are no friends like old friends." Mercantile organizations often carry an item on their books entitled "Good Will." We value and cherish the Good Will of those who continue to serve faithfully and diligently year in and year out. Long unceasing friendships have buttressed the Company against unwarranted attacks, and we hold dear the thought that your allegiance has aided substantially in the maintenance of freedom in the business. May your representation continue indefinitely!

"As we pass through the years we feel sure we shall mutually derive that satisfaction which results when an understanding is well done and which is the natural product of an alliance with a Company as stable and as permanent as the old Northwestern."

May your future endeavors bring you naught but success and genuine happiness. With kindest personal regards, I remain as ever,
Faithfully yours,
CHARLES D. JAMES, President."

Burning of Bush Arcade In 1887

was used by the Free Masons. Their apartments were most handsomely furnished. Their loss was almost $5000.

The Bush Arcade was owned by D. G. Bush estate. The addition was owned by Mrs. Bush. The Arcade was an excellent paying block, and its destruction was a severe blow to the town. The fire was considered of incendiary origin, and although a liberal reward was offered for the perpetrators no one was ever brought to justice.

Several citizens were injured during the progress and after the fire. A man named Hull had his head badly cut by coming in contact with the tongue of one of the horse carriages. Henry Haupt received injuries about the head and face by falling under and bricks. James Bayard was also injured in the same manner. Maurice Yeager had ascended a ladder to secure some of the Masons' property, and in smashing a window pane cut his wrist severely. Several arteries were severed.

During the day it was deemed advisable to pull down one of the walls that remained standing. It is related that Lynn Murphy ascended a ladder to fasten a grapple. He was ascending when a brick struck him on the head. Glancing upward he discovered the wall toppling, and only by a hasty jump did he escape being injured. One leap landed him on the ground, and another took him out of harm's way, with not an instant to spare.

Home From Service
Kenneth W. Wren, a former graduate of the Sugar Valley Vocational High school and co-act at Camp S-66, CCC, near Loganton, is home again after having served four years in Uncle Sam's navy. For a time he was stationed in Hawaii and at San Diego, Cal., naval base.

500 Present at Scotia Picnic

burg, a former school teacher was next on the platform. His first act was to have a motion made to have Harry M. Williams, of Bellefonte, put back on the picnic committee. Williams, who had handed in his resignation after being on the committee for fourteen years, agreed to serve for another year.

Some pickers suggested that in the future the picnic be taken to another location reached by better roads, since the road to Scotia has to be gone over every year by the picnic committee, which is an extra expense. This suggestion was overruled and it was decided to hold it on the first Saturday in August of next year, at the same place, putting an end to rumors that Saturday's picnic was the last Scotia picnic. Many old residents were present Saturday who had not attended a Scotia picnic for many years.

Music was furnished by the Sharp Sisters, of Spring Mills, who rendered a number of fine selections.

The remainder of the day was spent greeting old friends and neighbors. By nightfall the old town, which for a day had again stirred with life and activity, had returned to its desolate and lonely vigil, with deer roaming through the streets that once bustled with the activity of a prosperous mining community.

SMOOTH LEATHER CHAIRS IN SUMMER WEATHER

How many of us have sat in a leather covered chair in hot weather and on going to rise thought either the chair covering or the garment would give way?

We may prevent this sticking by treating the leather with soap and oil, states Miss Helen S. Butler, home economics extension representative of Centre county.

First wash the leather with a good leather made of saddle soap or mild soap. Apply this oil thoroughly into the leather and allow it to dry. Polish with a dry cloth until all excess is removed and the leather appears shiny.

A solution of equal parts of wood alcohol and water is another satisfactory treatment. Apply this mixture to the leather with a soft cloth and rub thoroughly until the leather is dry. Next apply a coat of light oil and polish well to prevent any stickiness.

Either of these methods will be helpful for cleaning and polishing any kind of leather goods, chairs, couches, and pillows.

Claims Money Lost at Carnival

Park Barber of Mill Hill, told Lock Haven police that he had lost $92 in a wheel game at the carnival showing in Lock Haven last week. He said the game started at 5 cents for a turn of the wheel and ended at $20 a turn, but the operator claimed he lost only $40. Barber was informed he could swear out a warrant before an alderman or settle the matter in some other way.
