

Shoe Store Here To Be Continued

(Continued from page one) fully by the founder. A few minor changes will be made in the interior of the store room.

Malcolm Wilson Yeager is a native of Bellefonte, and while attending school learned the shoe business during spare time employment in his father's store. He also was employed by various other local merchants in his youth.

Born on December 1, 1902 in Bellefonte, he attended the Bellefonte public schools and was graduated from High School in the class of 1920. He entered the Pennsylvania State College in the fall of the same year, and was graduated from the School of Metallurgy in 1924. Two weeks later he accepted a position with the American Smelting and Refining Company at Perth Amboy, N. J., a position which he retained until his resignation last week to return to Bellefonte.

During his school career, Mr. Yeager played the saxophone in various local orchestras, including the old Bellefonte Academy Orchestra. In College he was a member of the Ernie Welles and the Blue and White Orchestras. He is a member of the Alpha Chi Sigma, metallurgy fraternity at Penn State, and is a member of the Presbyterian church.

On April 13, 1927, Mr. Yeager was united in marriage with Miss Kathleen Caulfield, a native of Perth Amboy, N. J. There are two children in the family: Alice Ruth, and Robert D. The family will move to Bellefonte late in September.

Wilbur Baney, of East Curtin Street, for many years employed by the late H. C. Yeager, will continue in his position under the new management.

The Centre Democrat joins with many other friends in welcoming home a native son, and in extending best wishes for his success in the management of the long-established business.

Vocational High School and then entered the Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Philadelphia for a five-year course, being graduated from that institution on May 16, 1939.

His assignment to the Milesburg and Liberty Baptist churches is the first he has received since graduation, although from October 1, 1937 to May 14, 1939, while in school, he was pastor of the East Brandywine Baptist Church at Downingtown.

POISON ORCHARD MICE IN CONCENTRATION STATIONS

Strategically located "concentration stations" provide the best place for destroying the mice which gnaw trees in apple orchards, says County Agent R. C. Blaney.

A small bundle of corn fodder, a pile of grass or weeds, or a forkful of old hay or straw will provide an excellent concentration station. All mice within 20 feet of a station may be expected to build trails leading to it. Many nests will be made in them.

If these stations are placed in the orchard before the end of September, numerous trails or runways will be built by the mice leading to them. The mice remain under cover whenever possible. To control the animals, poison bait can be placed in the runways and in the concentration stations. When this is done, chances are good that the mice will get it. There is slight possibility of other animals coming in contact with the poison.

It is a good plan to bait infested areas adjoining the orchard for a distance of about 100 feet. The best place for the concentration stations is in good natural cover.

Directions for the preparation of the poison bait may be obtained from your County Agent R. C. Blaney in the Extension Office, Post Office Building, Bellefonte.

FALL SEASON IMPORTANT IN CARE OF EWE FLOCK

From the standpoint of future profits, fall is an important period for any farmer keeping even only a few ewes, believes County Agent R. C. Blaney.

First consideration at this time must be given to the selection of the ram to head the breeding flock. This is particularly important because every lamb in next year's flock will carry 50 per cent of his bloodlines. The use of a good purebred ram will improve the chances of producing market lambs.

The next step in the fall management program is to cull all light shearing, unthrifty, broken-mouthed ewes. Experienced sheepmen have found that the percentage of lambs dropped in the spring depends largely upon the condition of their ewes in the fall. They keep a few of their best ewe lambs to replace the culled-out ewes.

After the ewe flock has been selected, turning them on fresh pasture or feeding a little grain is suggested. If this is done, the ewes will be putting on weight when the ram is turned with them later.

Experience has taught successful sheep raisers that they can increase their spring lamb crop by 15 to 20 per cent by following the proper methods of fall management.
