2 YOUTHS DIE OF AUTO INJURIES IN PLUNGE DOWN EMBANKMENT

Frenchville Cousins Suffer Fractured Skulls When Car Skids Off Slippery Road Early Saturday Morning

Nathan Plubell, 19, of Frenchville, Clearfield county, one of two men critically injured Friday morning when their car went over an embankment, died in the Phillipsburg State Hospital Sunday night at 6:40 o'clock of a fractured skull. Henry, 22, died Monday morning.

Following the accident, which occurred early Friday morning, the two victims, Nathan Plubell and Henry Plubell, cousins, were rushed to the Phillipsburg Hospital. It was said at the time that Nathan, driver of the car, had his head smashed in and could not possibly survive. His body was found 20 feet away from the wrecked car, where he had fallen after being catapulted through the roof of the machine.

Motor police who investigated the accident said the car apparently skidded on the icy road near Frenchville on the Karthaus highway, where he formerly resided, causing the driver to lose control. The car was completely demolished when it went over the 12-foot embankment.

A motorist whom the car had just passed saw the car skid and plunge and went to the aid of the injured men. The Plubells were taken to the hospital by George Rousseau and Clyde Vallimont, both of Frenchville.

STATE COLLEGE MAN TO FORM CLINTON COUNTY C. E. UNION
Preliminary work has been started by Thomas B. Musser, of State College, leading up to the future organization of the Christian Endeavor Societies in Clinton county into a county union.

Mr. Musser, vice president of the Central District, Pennsylvania C. E. Union, and former president of the Centre county Union, has recently been appointed by the central district president, to foster the Clinton county organization.

He plans to act in accord with the state union aims in trying to bring about more effective young people's work through the union of societies already in existence, so as to strengthen those groups which are weak.

CHRISTMAS EVENTS TO BE HELD AT LOGANTON
A beautiful pageant, 'The Nativity,' to be given by the Young People's class and a short program by the children of the Sunday school, will compose the Christmas service at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Loganton, Friday evening, December 22. Miss Mabel Rittle is in charge of the pageant, and Mrs. Grace Wait is in charge of the children's program.

A Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held in St. John's Lutheran church, Bonneville, Sunday evening, December 24, at 7:30 o'clock. Christmas carols, and a brief Christmas message will be included.

FRENCH BAKE FIRST-CLASS BREAD IN MAGNINOT LINE
Bakeries capable of producing 70,000 pounds of bread a day have been set up in the Magninot Line, according to a special dispatch received by the American Institute of Baking at Rockefeller Center, New York. Special measures have been taken to render these bakeries invisible from the air, since deprivation for a week or so of their bread supply would be a severe blow to the troops, the correspondent states. The bread is said to be 'absolutely first-class.' Daily bread trains distribute the loaves to the men along the line. One loaf of bread a day is included in the rations of each French soldier.

SOUTHPAWS GET SPECIAL SEATS AT PENN STATE
Left-handed seats are being installed for the first time at the Pennsylvania State College in the nine new buildings recently constructed by the General State Authority and the Public Welfare Administration.

According to requests from left-handed students, the College decided to provide about 250 seats with left-handed tablet arms out of a total of approximately 5,000 seats. Opening of the new buildings await the installation of final equipment.

Grange Advocates Damage
The Pennsylvania State Grange advocated payment by the state of damage done to farms by deer and bear, at the closing session of its annual convention at Chambersburg. The resolutions, made public Saturday, included one endorsing the work of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

Injured When Tire Explodes
When he was struck by a tire rim, while changing a tire on a truck, William Corcoran, 39, of Mt. Carmel, suffered a brain concussion and a compound fracture of the right lower jaw. He had inflated the tube and was replacing the tire on the wheel when it exploded, hurling the rim against his head.

A man must be anxious for a good meal to make a speech to get one.

Mother of County Woman Is Killed

Mrs. H. M. Turner of Towanda, Fatally Injured, Sunday
Mrs. H. M. Turner, 60, wife of the publisher-editor of the Towanda Daily Review, and the mother of Mrs. Paul Mitten, of State College, was fatally injured Sunday evening at Towanda when she stepped directly into the path of an automobile. The accident occurred outside the newspaper office as she was returning from a pre-Christmas candlelight service. Joseph McCallister, a motion picture operator, was driving the car.

Mrs. Turner was a director of the State Council of Republican Women and one of the first presidents of the Bradford County Council of Republican Women. She was the daughter of U. S. Representative Mial E. Lilley, deceased.

Surviving are her husband, one son, David, of Towanda, a former student at Williamsport Junior College; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Mitten, State College, and Mrs. J. Nevill Shaffer, Long Beach, Calif.; a brother, J. Roy Lilley, Towanda; another, and a sister, Mrs. Pauline Morse, Des Plaines, Ill.

Lock Haven Pair Get Back
Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dersham, of Lock Haven, both veteran hunters, each brought home a nice size buck at the beginning of the present hunting season. Mr. Dersham, a hunter with 12 years' experience, shot his deer first Monday at the Springs place on the Coudersport Pike. It was a five-pointer weighing 125 pounds. Mrs. Dersham's deer was shot Tuesday, also at the Springs place, and dragged the animal, a seven-point, 150-pound buck, back to the car to bring it home.

Interesting Experiment
Believing that ability in the use of the English language is declining in both secondary schools and colleges Professor Theodore J. Gates, of Pennsylvania State College, is waging a 'letter-writing campaign' for improvement. The letters are sent to high school principals, advising them of both good and bad grades in English made by their graduates who are at Penn State.

Only by co-operation between the colleges and the high schools can this problem be fully solved," Gates said.

TWO SCRANTON MEN ADMIT PLOT TO ROB MILL HALL BANK

Third Married Man Denies Part in Clinton County Plan—Had Considered Avis Bank But Gave Up Idea

How a daring plot to rob the Mill Hall bank in Clinton county was frustrated by the arrest of three Scranton men last week, is told by the State police, who apprehended the suspects while they were on their way to Mill Hall in an auto.

Arraigned on Saturday before Al German, Samuel Mittelman, at Scranton, two pleaded guilty to conspiracy to rob the Mill Hall Bank. They were Frank A. Stewart, 25, son of a Scranton policeman, and Lewis Thomas, 39, a former heavy-weight fighter.

The third suspect, James Andrews, 27, a machinery salesman, pleaded not guilty, but Stewart testified he is just as guilty as I am, and he originated the idea to rob the Mill Hall Bank.

All three, who live in Scranton, were held under $1000 bail.

According to the story told by State motor police and Scranton detectives, the plans of the trio leaked out December 1 when Thomas got drunk and 'talked too much.' Police and detectives were on their trail for the next two weeks, refraining from making an arrest until they obtained evidence.

The trio started, police said, on November 12, when they broke into a home and stole two revolvers. They planned to rob a bank at Laceyville, Wyoming county, police asserted, but changed their minds when they learned a police substation was nearby.

Second thought was to try the bank at Avis, Clinton county, according to the story, but after looking at the layout, they decided it would be too hard.

Car Damaged By Deer
While driving his auto early Tuesday morning from his home at Eagleview Station to the Orviston brickyard where he is employed, Gaylord Barthurst encountered a spike buck which tore down from the mountain about two miles east of Monument. The radiator of the auto was punctured by the horns of the deer, and the car was so badly damaged that towing assistance was required to remove it to a Lock Haven garage.

Calling All Dogs.
It looks as though Santa is going to the dogs, and the cats and other animals too. The Montgomery County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals announced plans to feed all neglected pets that stop at their headquarters in Conshohocken, on Christmas day.

Knife Slayer Is Given Jail Term
Mahaffey R. D. Man Sentenced to Serve 10 to 20 Years
Six-foot Harold Hutton, of Mahaffey, R. D., who pleaded guilty to the knife slaying of his cousin, Charles Hutton, was sentenced Monday in the Clearfield county court to 10 to 20 years in prison.

The fatal stabbing occurred at Harold Hutton's home last October 1 after an all-day drinking party. The victim's wife and sister-in-law witnessed the slaying. Hutton was adjudged guilty of second degree murder.

Without revealing any emotion Hutton in court told how he had stabbed his cousin in a bedroom in the house in Mahaffey where the alleged killing took place. Hutton said his stabbed cousin then took three steps into the kitchen and fell to the floor.

Paid Old Claim
C. L. Krouse, of Lewisburg, R. D. 3, recently sought to pay a 20-year-old debt. In a letter received Monday by the family of the late David Pizzoli of Mt. Carmel Krouse wrote 'I have found Christ and want to pay my debts.' An investigation revealed that 20 years ago Krouse had failed to return or pay for a few beverage bottles belonging to Pizzoli.

CHRISTMAS PIECE
The Boss has suggested that we do a Christmas piece for this column. The usual Christmas thoughts have been pretty well covered in the past 1900 or so years by other and abler writers, so we'll confine ours to thoughts of another Christmas, 14 years ago.

Let it be understood that this will be no yarn of Pilgrims trudging to church through snow drifts. Nor will it have to do with the Bringing-in of the Yule Log. It does concern music, which always is an appropriate topic for the Christmas season. We might add that the thought was inspired by the finding of a faded and timeworn issue of The Democratic Watchman dated December 11, 1925.

In that issue Editor George Meek's column 'Ink Slings' was devoted entirely to a dissertation on why the music of Paul Whiteman's orchestra left him something less than inspired. He wrote the piece in answer to a letter signed 'Two Devout Readers of Ink Slings' which he had received calling him to task for berating Whiteman's 'jazz.'

Early in December, 1925, Whiteman's orchestra had given a concert in Schwab auditorium, State College. Commenting upon the concert, Mr. Meek said in his column: 'Well, we've heard Paul Whiteman and his band. Individually we believe them to be artists, but collectively—our candid opinion is that they are an abomination when they devote such talent to interpretation of music absolutely void of either theme or rhythm.'

Two Bellefonte youths in their teens read the paragraph with a feeling that they had been basely betrayed. It was much the same feeling that a child experiences when an elder tells him there is no Santa Claus. They had watched Whiteman grow until he had attained No. 1 place among the orchestras of the nation—almost of the world. They never missed a chance to attend a Whiteman concert anywhere in this area, and in the meanwhile, spent many an hour memorizing recordings of their favorite music.

So it was, then, that Mr. Meek's casual dismissal of Whiteman as little less than a musical menace caused the youths acute mental agony.

Putting thought into action they decided to do something about it. So on a blustery December night, in the kitchen of a North Spring street home, they pieced out a letter of protest to Mr. Meek. One of the youths, well founded in music, furnished material showing that
